On Washington street

5 youths attack, rob boy

A 14-year-old Winchester boy was assaulted January 1 by five or six youths in front of the Cumberland Farms store on Washington street.

The youths pulled up their blue Chevrolet next to the boy and asked him where Winchester street was. When he replied that there was no Winchester street that he knew of, the youths hit and kicked him and robbed him of a leather jacket. They then took off in the car.

The boy reported the attack around 5 p.m. but could not identify the youths.

In other police news this past holiday week, there were three arrests connected with driving. On Christmas Eve a Belmont resident was charged with leaving the scene of an accident after causing property damage on Swanton street.

On New Years Eve there was an arrest following an accident on Cambridge street and on New Years Day there was another arrest following an accident in front of 74 Grove st.

There was another rash of housebreaks during the holiday week, ranging from the theft of nine Oriental rugs from one home to smashed windows in a church.

There were two breaks on Dec. 27. The family was away from their Dartmouth street home when thieves broke through the kitchen door. They took jewelry and cash. A Hancock street residence was entered through a rear window sometime between 4:30 and 6:30 and rings, watches, and $1000 worth of quarters were taken.

There was a housebreak at a Highland avenue residence but nothing was reported missing.

On Dec. 30 a break into a Bacon street residence apparently netted nothing for the thief or thieves.

It was a different story for another Bacon street family. While they were away on holiday, nine Oriental rugs were taken on January 1. At 8:26 that evening another break was reported, this one at a N. Gateway house. Glass was broken in a rear door and four lawn chairs and some bamboo poles were taken from the sun porch.

There were four breaks on New Years Eve. Entry was gained into a Highland avenue home through a cellar window. Police do not yet know if anything was taken. Two youths were scared away from a Pierpont road house after the occupant heard some noise in the kitchen at 11:50 p.m.

That afternoon, several windows at the Methodist Church were broken, but an apparent attempt to enter the church office failed.

At 9:35 p.m. a break at the Winchester Appliance on Thompson street was reported. Someone used a lug wrench to smash the window. Two portable television sets were taken.

Jaycees will pick up trees this Saturday

On Saturday, starting at 8 a.m., the Winchester Jaycees will conduct their annual Christmas tree pick-up. Any resident wishing to have his/her Christmas tree picked up should place it beside the street in front of his/her house.

Residents wishing to make a donation are asked not to tape it to the trees, but to send it to the Jaycees C-O Post Office Box 106.

Car fires, accidents plague fire department this week

Firefighters had their hands full these past two weeks with car fires and accidents, transporting nine persons to the hospital as a result of accidents.

On Dec. 19, an Arlington resident was taken to the hospital following a two-car accident at Oxford and Wildwood streets. Engine 3 and the ambulance responded.

Another accident that day resulted in a Lynnfield man being taken to the hospital after firefighters from Engine 3 and the ambulance answered a call at Cambridge street and Robinhood road.

The next day 15-year-old Edward McKenna was taken by Medford ambulance after he was hit by a car in front of 77 Main st. The ambulance was out on another call, so the Medford ambulance was called into service. McKenna had lacerations of the head and a possible broken leg.

The ambulance took an Arlington resident to the hospital after a two-car accident on Ridge street on Christmas Eve. Engine 4 and the rescue truck responded from the west side and the ambulance went from the central station.

On Dec. 20 a car hit a pole at Washington and Mount Vernon streets. Engine 2 and the ambulance responded and took two Melrose residents to the hospital.

Four persons, one of them from Winchester, were taken to the hospital on January 1 as the result of an accident at Church and Cambridge streets. Engine 2 and the ambulance responded. The ambulance made two trips to the hospital to transport the injured, who included Robert Keene of Winchester, two persons from Beverly, and one from Peabody.

In other fire news:

Dec. 19: The department went to Woburn on a mutual aid call. At 6:44 p.m. they answered a call for a car on fire at Church and Bacon streets. The fire was coming from the exhaust pipe, but was out when firefighters arrived. The car was towed. The men put out a small fire in a stairwell at the Parkview Apartments. Engines 1 and 4, ladder 1, rescue, and ambulance responded to that box.

Subcommittee on retardation plans to meet Tuesday

The Mystic Valley Mental Retardation Subcommittee will hold its monthly meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. on the ground floor, Room G15 of the Lexington Town Office Building on Massachusetts avenue in Lexington.

During the course of the meeting, the subcommittee will solicit questions and concerns from citizens about mental retardation services in Winchester and the Mystic Valley region.

Two committees meet

FinCom knocks board for '79 school budget increase

The school committee and the finance committee locked horns over the 1979 school budget last Thursday in an attempt to patch up their differences before final approval of the budget later this month.

Three members of the school board — Chairman Robert Frank, Constance Papas and Heinrich Holland — along with Superintendent William C. MacDonald, Assistant Superintendent for Administration Jack Fallon, and other members of the administration, met with the FinCom in the high school cafeteria to go over the budget. The two boards will get together again Jan. 19 to see where they stand.

A public hearing on the budget is set for Jan. 11 (7:30 p.m. in the McColl auditorium). Final approval is expected on or about Jan. 30, when the school committee will submit their final version to the town manager.

With both committees working with a preliminary version of the budget (printed in last week's Star), Chairman Frank told the FinCom, "We hope to find some areas where we can make reductions, but I'd expect what we present to you tonight is within a couple per cent of what the final figure will be."

FinCom Chairman Alice Mirak set the tone of the meeting when she commented on her board's "shock, dismay, and disappointment at the $370,000 increase" in next year's budget.

To date, the total school budget amounts to $8,986,984, as compared to a fiscal 1978 budget of $8,616,755. These figures do not include the three smaller school budgets, which for next year total $197,517 for athletics, $369,883 for school lunch, and $25,900 for community use of schools.

Citing the continued drop in enrollments expected next year, Mrs. Mirak questioned why the school budget should include such an increase. She quoted figures which indicated that the per pupil cost in Winchester was up by $240 from the fiscal 1978 budget.

School board member Holland countered with another set of figures which showed Winchester's per pupil cost to be well below that of communities like Brookline, Newton, and Weston. "I don't think we're out of line with respect to these towns (which) we like to compare ourselves to," he said.

Members of both boards noted that comparisons between towns are difficult without knowing on what basis the per pupil costs are calculated. Then the focus was turned on why, with the figures based on the same data, Winchester's costs are going up.

"That's not a simple question," responded Frank. "There are a number of costs in the budget that are not enrollment sensitive and do not decline in relation to enrollment."

As an example of "non-shrinking costs," Frank cited capital expenditures; savings could only be achieved in this area, Frank said, by closing down schools.

"There are some areas where we have cut costs in the past to the point where we cannot cut any further," Frank continued.

He listed the expenses for custodians, secretaries, the superintendent, two assistant superintendents and other central office costs, the adult education program, and summer school as examples.

In addition, Frank pointed out that the system has "a highly immobile staff" among the teachers. "The average experience level of the staff will be significantly higher than this year," he said. This means higher salaries as teachers move up in salary steps. Assuming that the number of teachers can be cut in proportion to the enrollment decline, he explained, "the average per teacher cost will be higher next year and not related to enrollment."

As a third defense, Frank cited other items routinely funded which do not normally utilize their full budget. The prime example was sabbaticals, budgeted for next year at about $95,000. Frank noted that that amount covers six sabbaticals, while only two were granted during the current year (at a cost of roughly $30,000).

Frank also said that over the period of time enrollments have been declining, the type and level of services which the school department has been required to deliver has increased.

Much of this increase is due to the state Chapter 766, the special education law. In less than 10 years, the 766 budget has climbed to nearly $1 million. Asst. Supt. Jack Fallon's figures show the actual expenditure for 766 programs in 1977 to have been $828,018. The amount budgeted for fiscal 1978 totals $932,210; and the amount budgeted for next year is $939,147.

Though the amount varies, the state can be expected to pick up 65-70 per cent of the cost through reimbursements to the town, according to Fallon. In addition, as the various 766 programs mandated by law are set up, the costs from year to year should begin to level off.

Finally, Frank told the FinCom that, "This year we have made the judgment as a committee that we will reinvest some of the savings from the enrollment decline as programmatic improvements."

The most expensive such improvement is the committee's proposal to reduce pupil-teacher ratios in all primary grades (K-3) to 22-to-1, at an estimated cost of $33,000. Another added expense is for the addition of a German course at the high school; since the course was requested by petition, the board is obliged by law to include it in the curriculum.

FinCom member David Donahue turned the subject around and asked Frank what

Due back by Jan. 20

Annual census forms out

Forms for the annual town census are going out in the mail this week. Residents are asked to return the forms by Jan. 20.

"It's very important that the town townspeople read the census form and know what they are signing," says Town Clerk Elsie Nelson.

The forms are different this year. In past years, two forms were sent out, one to list residents aged 17 and older for the town, the other for school age children for the school department. This year the two have been combined into one duplicate form for all persons residing in town from Jan. 1 on, from one-day-old babies on up.

While the state only requires a list from age three and up, the town is asking for a more comprehensive list to provide more accurate information on birth statistics and population.

The information in the census is used annually to put together the list of residents. The school department also uses the information in making enrollment projections.

The list of residents for 1977 came out just a few weeks ago. Mrs. Nelson reports that the main reason the list was published so late is that many residents failed to turn in their census forms on time.

The forms will be mailed with self-addressed, stamped envelopes and should be returned immediately. Failure to do so may result in your name being removed from the voting list. Anyone who has resided in town as of Jan. 1 must respond. If you plan to be out of town, have your mail forwarded so that you will receive the forms and be able to respond.

This year there will be a followup on persons who do not respond to the census. Failure to return the requested information, or submission of false information can lead to a $500 fine and imprisonment for up to one year. The clerk's office is also subject to fines if they fail to get the information to the state.

The 1977 census, completed late because so many persons failed to file on time, shows the population of Winchester (including all persons born as of Jan. 1, 1977) to be 22,213.

To expedite the gathering of the information, the clerk's office has the help of a number of state laws.

One of these requires landlords to provide the registrar of voters (the town clerk) with a list of every person aged 17 or older living in a landlord's house or apartment.

Another regulation requires any non-resident landlord to post his or her name, address and telephone number, so that the clerk's office may know how to contact a landlord.

These laws do not apply in all cases; for details, check with the clerk's office at Town Hall, or check out the laws on file at the library reference room (the relevant laws are Chapters 263, Section 10A, and Chapter 493, Section 35).

No parking after 1 a.m.

Winchester police will be enforcing an all-night parking restriction this winter. Because of bad weather and the possibility of snow, no on-street parking is allowed after 1 a.m.

Vehicles parked overnight on all streets, excepting private ways, will be ticketed, according to Police Chief John P. McHugh.

Art contest ballots due

The deadline for submitting votes for the best student-created advertisement in the special art supplement to the Dec. 29 Star is this Tuesday, Jan. 10.

Get your votes in as early as possible. The winners will be announced in next week's issue of The Star.

Selectmen's notes

During the past two weeks the board of selectmen has transacted the following business:

Licenses

Common victualler licenses were approved for renewal at the recommendation of the building commissioner for Brigham's, 530 Main st.; Evans House of Pizza, 292 Washington st.; Bellino's Pizza, 878 Main st.; China-Hula, 797 Main st.

Licenses were also renewed for McDonald's Restaurant, 109 Cross st., and for Swanton Street Deli, Inc., 70 Swanton st., after the board was informed of hours of operation.

James J. Connelly, 83 Mystic Valley pkwy., received an auctioneer's license. Connelly is an auxiliary police captain and former director of civil defense. Chairman Barbara S. Hanks noted that it is the policy of the board to meet with all prospective licensees even though the applicant may be well known to members of the board.

Matteo Gallo, 219 Washington st., was granted a temporary lodging house license until March 1, 1978, pending a decision from the board of appeal. Gallo is scheduled to have a hearing, January 10 on his petition to continue using the premises as a lodging house with separate kitchens on each floor.

Data Processing

Al Faggiano, temporary comptroller, talked with the board about the expanding data processing which the town is using, and suggested that an ad hoc data processing study committee be set up to report on the town's requirements and the service given from the computers in Town Hall, the high school, and the Regional Vocational School. There was some discussion about whether the comptroller or the town manager should supervise the data processing procedure. Faggiano noted that two-thirds of the computer's service is of an accounting nature and so should fall under the comptroller's jurisdiction.

Chairman Hanks suggested the methods and procedures committee could look into this subject, noting that the town moderator has been requested to reestablish this committee.

MAPC

Vito A. Giarrizzo recently resigned as the town's representative to the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, a position he has held for the past five years. He reviewed some of the projects and programs the MAPC is involved in and turned over some reports to the new representative, the town manager.

Street Light Requests

The board approved installation of 3500 lumen mercury vapor lamps on two poles on Surrey road. This was in response to a residents' petition and on the recommendation of the wiring inspector and police department.

They also approved 3500 lumen mercury vapor lamps on two poles on a request from the administrator of the Winchester Convalescent and Nursing Home, 223 Swanton st. The board received a petition from several businessmen for the installation of two lamps on Converse place. After reviewing the recommendations of the police department, building commissioner, and department of public works, the board voted to approve one installation and to defer action on the other. The second lamp will be referred to the traffic study committee for recommendation. The town manager suggested holding the order for installation pending investigation and clarification by the traffic study committee.

★ School budget

cuts had been made for next year.

Frank replied that the school committee has deleted several courses from the curriculum, including Home Economics III, Latin III, African and Asian Studies, a stenography course, and nine English electives. He guessed the cost savings came to about $15,000.

In addition, Frank estimated that there will be staff cuts in response to the enrollment decline, amounting to roughly one position at the high school, four to five positions at the junior highs, and four to five teachers at the elementary level. However, the question of how many teachers could be cut "is not properly resolved yet," according to Fallon, who commented, "There is still some question as to what the staffing level may be at all levels."

Reiterating the FinCom's mood, Donahue said, "We're extraordinarily disappointed that you seem to have no interest in fiscal controls."

"It's absolutely not true that we have no interest in fiscal controls," replied Frank. "We're willing to discuss and defend anything in our budget."

The FinCom challenged the school board on two other main points: purchases from the other expenses budget made late in the year, and the athletic budget.

Mrs. Mirak, among others on the FinCom, questioned the practice of holding off on certain purchases (heating fuel and textbooks, for example) until the end of the school year. Since the items purchased would be used starting the following year, Mrs. Mirak said her board felt they might more appropriately be budgeted for the next year.

In response, Frank said the school committee holds off on certain expenditures to leave some funds in the budget as a reserve to cover potential overruns in other accounts.

"Whether the monies are left in the treasury or spent on equipment to be bought next year anyway, from our point of view that's a wash," said Frank.

Asst. Supt. Fallon said the department holds back about 10 percent of its funds in reserve and added that he felt it would be "irresponsible" to abandon the practice.

Donahue complained that the board was "running the whole school department budget as a big revolving fund. That's ok if that's what it is, but it isn't."

It's not that the purchases are improper," said FinCom member James Hintlian, "but there's always the feeling, the suspicion that you have certain surpluses every year, and when you get to June, the impulse is 'let's spend it,' because you may not get it next year."

"To build reserves into every budget in town is going to do a number on the tax rate," commented FinCom member John Williams.

"The expenses late in the year are clearly tied to a budget program approved earlier in the year by town meeting," said Fallon in defense of the practice.

"We have a basic philosophic difference here," concluded Mrs. Mirak. "We're just looking for a more accurate method of estimating the expenses for a year."

The athletic budget, up $33,407 from the current year, has been relatively steady for the past few years. More than a third of the increase comes from shifting the athletic director's salary from central office to the athletic budget. The committee defended this shift on the grounds that it provided a more accurate picture of the cost of the athletic program. This increase, of course, is offset by a decrease in the central office personnel budget.

Another increase comes from the addition of varsity and JV soccer for girls at the high school (at a cost of $5863). The committee defended this addition as a response to the state's Chapter 622, which calls for equal educational opportunities for girls and boys. Holland pointed out that this should increase the number of girls participating in interscholastic sports to an estimated 554 girls; the number of boys participating next year is estimated at 721.

"You have to increase one piece of the pie by reducing another portion of it," stated Mrs. Mirak, who put the question to the school committee: "Do you want the boys to give up something, or do you want the taxpayers to give up something?"

FinCom member John Twomey read through "laundry list" of areas where he felt cuts could be made. Among other things, he said no requests for additional programs or staff should be made for next year. He suggested one possible program cut: eliminating sophomore football.

Defending his programs, Athletic Director William Colella said, "I don't believe where you have total participation you should trade off one sport for the other."

Holland pointed out that while the budget is up, the per player cost will decrease from $90 to about $69 next year.

The two boards also discussed the budgets for the school lunch program, up $10,000; and for community use of schools, which is down by $3700. The FinCom noted its support for the school board's move to have the community use budget, along with the budgets for adult education and summer school, set up as revolving accounts. A proposal to that effect has been submitted to the town's committee on government regulations for consideration.

One further cut the school committee has made is in the overall account for custodial overtime. The figure has been reduced from $50,000 to $45,000, and the funds will be allocated to the school principals, who will be charged with working out their own use of the custodians.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

It's the real thing

Most folks don't really think too much of shelling out the price of a ticket down at Foxboro to see the Patriots or at the Garden to see the Celtics or the Bruins.

You get to sit there, munching your peanuts, one among thousands of fans, one among thousands of strange faces, watching from a distance as the "sportsmen" down below battle it out to the bitter end, many of them (most?) with five and six-figure incomes on their minds.

There are a few, quite a few, fans who get pretty worked up over the whole show, even emotionally involved. But there's something missing there, something a bit more human, something of the spirit that speaks closer to the heart of the triumphs and defeats of our everyday lives.

Professional sports is pure entertainment. In a way it's like television, serving as a vicarious outlet for our truer feelings.

There's another kind of sport — and we're not talking about golf. It's the kind of sports they play at Winchester High School. No money involved. All that's at stake is the spirit of individual and team achievement, a spirit that mirrors the aspirations of life.

Unfortunately, few are around to witness the pain and joy of high school competition. Few are around to feel the emotion that rises out of the desire to win, not for money, but for the personal satisfaction of it, for the pride in teamwork or the sheer glory of it.

The price is right — non-existent in most cases. You can sit down close and see the muscles strain, the sweat pouring down, the grace of movement. Whether it's the frenzy of ice hockey or the concentrated energy of gymnastics and wrestling, you can feel the tension when it comes time to perform.

Some of the teams at the high school aren't doing so well so far this winter. Part of that has to do with the fact that hardly anyone shows up to watch and cheer on. They could use your help. A good crowd gives them all the more reason to be there.

If you've been going to the basketball games or the swim meets or the hockey games, you know what this is all about.

If you haven't been going, take a word of advice: Whether they're your sons and daughters or grandchildren or not, go and watch, and before you know it you'll be cheering them on. — DKF

Get out your running shoes

It's time to put your running shoes on.

Not the jogging type — the political ones. Town Clerk Elsie Nelson has put out a schedule of deadlines for this spring's town elections (printed elsewhere on the page), and anyone out there with a mind to serve should start getting geared up pretty soon.

There are quite a few major town positions opening up this year, a variety to suit most any taste. Among the openings:

— Town moderator. Current Moderator John J. Sullivan's term expires in March (it's an annually elected position).

— Assessor. One of the three positions on this board will open up this spring when Assessor John R. Wiseman's term expires.

— Planning board. There are five members of the board, and Chairman Joseph F. Geary's term runs out in 1978.

— Selectmen. One position on the five-member board will open up this year. Chairman Barbara Hankins is in the final year of her term.

— School committee. Two positions are opening up here, now filled by Chairman Robert Frank and Jack Noble.

The issues at hand may not seem as present as last year's decision to close the Wyman School, which prompted a number of citizens to run for the school committee; nonetheless, some crucial questions will face the town in the next few years.

One of the more obvious issues is the future of Winchester's school system. The current board and administration are examining a variety of plans which would reshape the system. School closings are more than likely, and some difficult decisions as to what schools to close and when to close them have yet to be made.

The planning board will play a key role in determining future development of the town. An application is under consideration right now for the building of 111 units of federally-subsidized housing for the elderly off Waterfield road.

When you consider the state's "anti-snob" zoning law and the need for low and middle income housing; the demand among Winchester's senior citizens for affordable and manageable housing; the decreasing amount of open space in the town; and the inevitable leveling off of the tax base, it should be clear that there's plenty of planning to do.

And there are other issues to be confronted. Sooner or later, Winchester will have to be reassessed to 100 percent valuation. And the selectmen will certainly play a role in refining the new charter — a whole lot of changes are already under consideration, from increasing the school board to six members to re-establishing the cemetery commission.

The opportunity is there: if you have a whisper of the spirit within you, think about it. And if the spirit moves, go on down to Town Hall, take your papers out and run.

P.S. Don't forget, if you do run, there are new laws concerning filing reports of campaign contributions and expenditures. Not everyone followed the book last year, and nothing came of it. But the laws are there for a good reason: stick to them. — DKF

Classic contest

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

By watching TV and reading newspapers, most Americans get the impression that the war in Rhodesia is between blacks and whites. They also are told that the blacks are fighting for freedom from an oppressive white minority regime. This, however, is not the true story.

The black guerrilla forces now operating in and out of Rhodesia are led by pro-communist revolutionaries. Their weapons are supplied by the Soviet Union and to a lesser degree, by Communist China, and they are fighting not to replace the present Rhodesian regime with a free and democratic government, but for a Marxist dictatorship patterned after that in nearby Angola and Mozambique. The struggle in Rhodesia is, in a word, a classic contest between East and West.

There are blacks on both sides. Blacks outnumber whites in the Rhodesian army by three-to-two. And of the nearly 2000 civilians killed over the past five years, more than 90 percent have been black. And blacks are the principal targets of the black terrorists.

The terrorism follows a familiar communist pattern. Victims are murdered and mutilated at random, indiscriminately. Recently a group of terrorists rounded up 27 black Rhodesian factory workers and slaughtered them with guns and knives before their horrified wives and children. Their only "crime" so-called, was their refusal to heed revolutionary demands to stop working. Missionaries have been shot to death in their remote stations. Just last month, a six-month-old child was snatched from its black nursemaid and bayoneted to death. Land mines and booby traps are also causing much death and injury.

Welcome to 1978

By David Funkhouser

The first day back at work after Christmas is a bit like falling off a cliff.

And it's all the more dramatic because you feel like you've run uphill all the way just to get there, trying to get in shape, trying to get psyched for the big day.

Maybe on Friday you work a little later than usual, knowing Monday's a holiday, wanting to make sure the hatches are batted and the decks swabbed so all will run smoothly on Tuesday. Then at last you close the door behind and change channels for the holiday show.

You get a clean start Saturday morning and click through last minute shopping, barely stopping to check the names off the list, don't forget the wrapping paper, yes and this variety pack of ribbons will do nicely, thank you. Getting into the spirit of things now, there's no remorse exchanging the green from a paycheck cashed in a hurry, not deposited. A quarter for the March of Dimes, certainly, and some spare change for the fellow in the street.

Home to wrap. A colorful mess left on the floor, and a gracious curse as you search for last year's remnants because you didn't buy quite enough paper — a thousand pardons, but I'm late I'm late I'm late. Then the mad dash delivery service, stop at the door, catch a breath. Hello and Merry Christmas. And how are you getting along? Sit calmly for 10 minutes before excusing me I've got more chimneys to drop down, then off to the next stop.

You're in shape by the time you reach the hallowed doors of home and the family. And at last a day of peace.

It's too quiet on Sunday afternoon, polishing off a novel that's been waiting for such an afternoon for months. Not a creature was stirring, then the phone rings. The spirit so newly discovered stands dead still in anticipation. Ah, hello?

"Merry Christmas. The printing plant in Lowell burned to the ground last night." (The Star is printed there — so is the Boston Phoenix. Will the papers rise from the ashes?)

Not the kind of news to make you dance on the tables. But there's still a whole day between you and that, and after drumming fingers on the desk for a few minutes, back to the book. Still out of sight, the little runt of desperation stretches a limb in the back of the mind and opens one eye.

Magnetically drawn to such objects, the eye spots the list of names on the desk, and there's one not crossed off. Ah! You forgot to get the box for the gift you meant to send to California, and lo and behold there sits the gift, disappointed in you. Ahem. We will get the box first thing Tuesday — put it first on a new list and underline it.

The little runt has his other eye open, and there sits the pile of cards to be answered, the greetings from all the folks you meant to write, but you'd kind of let the idea go in the rush of things. Christmas isn't a day old and already you have a backlog.

Now the little runt is wide awake, dancing guilt dances on the tables inside your head. Time to open the window, water the plants, chase the mice around the kitchen — or go for a walk. Worries are not fond of fresh air. Then after a mug of tea, some music, and write a few letters. No sense letting things pile up too high.

The runt gets up early Monday. After an unsuccessful attempt to make me feel guilty about not going to work, he's got me sweeping out every room in the apartment. Then out with the pens and rulers and paper to make a 1978 calendar, and by August it really seems as though Christmas has been left behind.

Holiday bubbles pop like champagne corks all day Tuesday. Hi, and how was your Christmas? Fine, fine, repeated a hundred times dries out, no matter how sincere you are. At least, it beats complaining about the work at hand.

By the time you get home, the holiday has been packed away like a pair of bermuda shorts for the winter. On the mail table is one last card for an old friend: the spirit stirs.

But what's this underneath? Uncle Sam have mercy! It's your 1977 Federal Income Tax forms. Enough is enough! Peel off the label below, as the instructions dictate, and paste it up on the refrigerator.

Happy New Year.

It runs in the family

By The Observer

They say that once the fire bug gets into your blood, it stays. Does that apply to families?

It sounds like your typical story of your typical four-year-old. There's something special about this story, though, and about this particular little boy.

David was on his way to a friend's house to play one day, when he spotted smoke pouring from a neighbor's garage.

He insisted Mrs. Babson call the fire department, which she did, and without doubt he saved the garage and car, and quite possibly the house and its occupants from disaster. The fire department responded quickly and put the fire out.

David is David John DeCourcy of Gloucester, where this event took place. His grandfather was the late Harold F. DeCourcy, fire chief of the Hanscom Air Base, and his great-grandfather, David H. DeCourcy, was the first fire chief of the Winchester Fire Department.

David and his parents, Dave and Judy DeCourcy, live in Gloucester, and grandparents are Mrs. Harold F. DeCourcy of 138 Washington st. and Mr. William V. Kelley of 226 Washington st.

A fine tradition to uphold we think, and David is on his way it would seem.

Winchester has its first baby of the year: Marc Robert Butler, born about 7:15 a.m. Jan. 2 to Linda Jean Butler at Winchester Hospital. He weighed in at 8 lbs., 8.5 oz. Mrs. Butler and her husband Robert live at 16 Rangeley Ridge. Marc has an older brother, Geoffrey, 2, also born in January.

(The first baby born in Winchester in 1978, in fact the first baby born in the Boston area in 1978, was born at Winchester Hospital to Burlington parents at 12:01 Sunday morning.)

While the Choate Hospital has gone ahead and voted in favor of consolidation with Winchester and Symmes Hospitals, the board of directors at Winchester Hospital has yet to take a formal vote.

Some sort of decision is expected to come out of the hospital's annual meeting Jan. 24. Meanwhile, the powers that be at the hospital are running a three-part series in The Star, beginning this week, dealing with the consolidation.

Given the pressures on the three hospitals — from rising costs to duplicated services to competition from other facilities, including the proposed Lahey Clinic complex in Burlington — it seems likely some changes will have to be made in the future.

Proponents of consolidation say construction of a central facility to replace Winchester, Choate and Symmes is at least 10 years away, even if accepted by the three hospitals.

There are bound to be some strong feelings about the issue; whatever the result, it should be easier, though, than closing schools.

Winchester's selectmen, like letter carriers, work through all weather. In fact, it seems that sometimes they literally plow through ten feet of snow to get to their regular Monday night meetings.

This item from a town in Connecticut might be of interest to them: The board of selectmen in a small town decided that they really ought to meet sometime...after all it had been 181 years since the last meeting of a board.

They claimed the town meeting ran everything so smoothly that there had been no need for a formal meeting of selectmen. Just a little thought to tuck away as we await town elections and the spring town meeting!

Sgt. Joseph Perritano just graduated from a three-week management course at the Command Training Institute at Babson College in Wellesley.

Sponsored by the New England Association of Police Chiefs, the program offers training in management, budgeting, and supervision.

All of the lieutenants and sergeants in the Winchester force have attended the course at one time or another, and the men return for refresher courses as part of an ongoing training program.

"It's an excellent course in management," says Sgt. Perritano, "the professors are excellent — you can't say too much about it."

A state building code provision requiring woodburning stoves to bear a label from an approved testing agency was suspended by the state building code commission. This suspension will start on January 1 and will be in effect until July 1, 1978.

Charles Dinezio, executive director of the state building code commission, said the commission's main concern in taking this action was to make sure that these stoves are properly installed.

Prior to the suspension, such stoves were required to have a label from an approved testing agency before building permits could be issued by the building inspectors.

Homeowners who were unable to get building permits because these stoves were not approved will now qualify for permits. During this suspension period, the building inspectors will be authorized to determine whether or not the stoves are safe, and to inspect them after the issuance of building permits. Inspectors also will make sure they are properly installed, have the required clearances from combustible surfaces and proper ties to chimneys and flues.

Homeowners who would like a woodburning stove installation inspected are encouraged to contact their local building inspectors or their local fire department officials who, in many instances, have volunteered to assist in stove and installation inspections.

The state energy office, in cooperation with the SBCC and the state fire marshal's office, is sponsoring three seminars on the safe use and maintenance of woodburning stoves. The seminars, to be held late in January in Danvers, Bridgewater and Amherst, will feature noted woodstove authority Dr. Jay W. Shelton, author of the "Woodburner's Encyclopedia," and will be open to the public.

A free manual on woodburning stoves is available from the state energy office. People interested in obtaining a manual may call the state energy phone's toll-free number, 1-800-922-8265.

Winchester Hospital President Reese E. James has resigned his position, effective "on or about May 1." James, who has been associated with the institution for nearly 19 years, announced his retirement at the Nov. 29 meeting of the board of directors.

Town Clerk Elsie Nelson has released a schedule of deadlines leading up to this year's town election in March. The schedule is as follows:

1978 election calendar

Final date for incumbent town meeting member to become a candidate for re-election by giving written notice to the town clerk.	Feb. 14, 5 p.m.

Congress: Year in review

By Cong. Ed Markey

"How did we do?" This is the question congressmen are echoing back home for the holidays. It's not an easy one to answer. Like most collective endeavors, the past year in Congress was marked by hard-fought victories and discouraging defeats.

Carter energy package: A setback
If work on President Carter's national energy plan was the sole measuring stick to gauge the foresight, effectiveness and common sense of Congress this year, there would have not been much to measure.

Last May, President Carter offered an equitable national plan to encourage conservation while providing fair incentives to develop other forms of energy. The US House quickly picked up the energy banner and pushed through comprehensive legislation in 100 days.

It was in Senate consideration of the bill that the nation's interest foundered. Hopes for an equitable energy bill now rest in a House-Senate conference committee. That body is being pressured by key Senate leaders to deregulate the price of natural gas; a move that would produce billions of dollars in windfall profits for energy producing states.

To President Carter, who dubbed the energy bill his "most important domestic priority for the year," this is a major disappointment. But for New Englanders, who pay 30 percent more for energy than the rest of the country, it hurts even more as the first winter's utility bills arrive.

The first item on the agenda next year must be responsible completion of an energy bill. We simply have no choice but to move quickly towards a rational energy policy that does not swindle the nation's consumers.

Aid to distressed cities and towns

Last January, one of my first acts as congressman was to co-sponsor legislation for a nationwide $4 billion local public works program. Public works has already begun to add jobs in the building trades as ground is broken on needed municipal improvements. Seventh District communities have received nearly $2 million under this program and there is talk on Capitol Hill of a new round of funding to be proposed next year.

In fiscal year 1977, our eligible communities received a healthy infusion of community development and housing aid totaling millions of dollars. This money was put to work for housing rehabilitation, historic preservation, day care, playground modernization, street improvements and other projects designed to improve the quality of urban life.

Legislation passed in May will tilt more development aid to our communities. This new, so-called "block grant" program is a major advance over the old program since factors like slowdown in population growth and age of housing stock will now help decide funding.

Older cities and towns of the Northeast and Midwest will receive hundreds of millions of dollars in additional aid in the years ahead under the block grant formula.

One example in the 7th District shows how dramatic these increases will be. In 1980 Medford will receive more than $2 million under the new block grant policy, while under the old policy only three quarters of a million would have gone to that city.

Saving Social Security

This month, Congress passed a new Social Security plan to keep the system from going bankrupt.

Due to high unemployment, inflation and the declining birth rate, serious shortfalls were projected unless something was done. The disability trust fund would have been completely depleted by 1979 and the main trust fund by 1983.

Under the new plan, the rate paid by workers will rise from six percent of their wages in 1978 to a little more than seven percent by 1978. That's the bad news.

The good news is, besides making the system solvent once again, the earnings limitation will jump from $3000 in 1977 to $4000 in 1978. The limitation will rise each year until it reaches $6000 in 1982.

Passing the new Social Security legislation was a first step in putting the system back on its feet. But next year the Congress should take a hard look at funding the system in a way that will ease the burden on taxpayers.

Health Care Legislation

1977 saw significant improvements in health care legislation. Certainly one of the prime achievements of the Health and Environment Subcommittee, on which I serve, was enactment of the Medicaid-Medicare Anti Fraud and Abuse Act. This law stiffens penalties for health providers who defraud the public, raising the level of this crime to a felony. Hopefully now, fewer $678 shampos will be charged to the public. That was the case recently when a three-month-old Medicaid patient was admitted to a hospital for three days for dandruff. The child was given one shampoo as treatment at a cost of $226 a day.

Disappointments accompanied victories in health care legislation this year. The Hospital Cost Containment Act, which would place stringent controls on skyrocketing hospital costs, passed the Health and Environment subcommittee. Both other committees with jurisdiction over the bill have not acted.

Welfare reform

Because Massachusetts has a higher level of welfare recipients than much of the country, we shoulder an unfair burden of the nation's responsibility to poor people. Passage of welfare reform would mean a savings to Bay State taxpayers of anywhere from $95 million to $135 million. At the same time, the legislation would impose higher costs upon those many states which now escape the responsibility of caring for the poor. The savings we would achieve from welfare reform could be used to better our schools and neighborhoods, but getting reform won't be easy.

So far, the Ad Hoc Committee on Welfare Reform has made some preliminary decisions to increase national standards. But that committee will not have the final say on the shape of a welfare reform bill. The three House committees involved in the Ad Hoc Committee (Agriculture, Education and Labor, and Ways and Means) must all consider the bill separately.

For the elderly

Rotondi heads committee looking into tax abatements

Sen. Samuel Rotondi has been named chairman of a conference committee dealing with real property tax exemptions for the elderly.

The conference committee was formed because of a difference between the House and the Senate version of the legislation.

After several hours of debate, the conferees which include Sen. Joseph B. Walsh (D-Boston), Sen. Robert A. Hall (R-Fitchburg), Rep. James J. Gaffney (D-Tewksbury), Rep. John J. Finnegan (D-Boston-chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee) and Rep. Vincent Piro (D-Somerville-chairman of the Joint Committee on Taxation), agreed to a version which would obligate the state to appropriate six million dollars for the purposes of increasing by $150 those abatements granted to our elderly citizens.

Sen. Rotondi commented, "The greatest difficulty in arriving at an equitable bill was to project the impact of 100 per cent on elderly taxpayers and to insure that the relief sought was applied equitably to all our eligible elderly homeowners."

The conference report, which now awaits action by the governor, would allow for an increase from $350 to $500 abatements which are presently authorized by law. Cities and towns who have gone to 100 per cent elderly homeowners may find themselves ineligible for such abatements due to the higher valuation of their homes. These people will now have the option of basing their eligibility on their net worth exclusive of the value of their dwelling.

Rotondi cautioned that the total cost of this proposal is impossible to determine at this time, but using all available data, the six million dollar figure seems adequate in handling the initial impact of the bill. The senator went on to say that "there is much talk about a surplus in this Commonwealth that will, in the near future, be distributed to the cities and towns. I believe that a portion of this surplus should be directed to allowing our elderly citizens the dignity of remaining in their own homes which, in many cases, they have worked so hard to keep."

St. Mary's honor roll

The following students of St. Mary's School, junior high, have qualified for the honor roll with an average of 85 per cent or above:

Grade 7: Philip Duffy, Frederick O'Herron, Coley Wilson, Ann Cogavin, Betty DeConto, Marybeth Duffy, Mary McGurn, Marilyn Mueller, Zulekha Shamsi, and Lucy Vanderbilt.

Grade 8: Brian McGrath, Joseph Russo, Cindy Binding, Linda Butler, Mary Fiorillo, Gretchen Goodrow, Kristen Jones, Karen Mees and Lorraine Powers.

Part 1: The past

Winchester Hospital grows beyond founders' vision

(This is the first in a three-part series prepared by Winchester Hospital on the proposed consolidation of Winchester, Choate Memorial and Symmes Hospitals. Part 1 explores the founding of Winchester Hospital.)

Undaunted by the failure, three years earlier, of a group of men to raise $50,000 in matching funds toward the cost of a new hospital, members of the Winchester Visiting Nurse Association, with a small appropriation from their own treasury and several, small gifts and pledges, raised enough money to rent the Todd house at the corner of Washington and Lincoln streets and opened Winchester Hospital on March 11, 1912.

During the next three years, the demand on the "cottage" hospital's 12 beds was so great that a drive was started for additional monies to expand, and on May 18, 1916, the cornerstone was laid for the new hospital on land at Highland Avenue and Fairmount Street.

As far-sighted and indomitable as these Winchester women were, they had no idea that the modest hospital they founded would expand and develop into the multi-disciplined institution the hospital is today.

Nor could they foresee that the 4.8 acre tract of land on which the hospital was built, large by their standards, would prove woefully inadequate a scant 50 years later. No one of them could guess that public transportation, so readily available then, would one day be discontinued for lack of use and that patients, visitors and employees would use the automobile to get to the hospital. The idea that a large portion of the land would one day be set aside for parking of automobiles and thereby reduce drastically the expansion possibilities of the hospital never occurred to them.

Their eyes would have opened wide in disbelief had anyone told them that, not too far into the future, the general practitioner making his traditional house calls would be replaced by specialists in fields of medicine almost unknown at that time, and that the hospital's emergency room would expand and grow in use a hundred times its use in 1912.

Which of the founding ladies would have believed that, 65 years later, their cottage hospital would have expanded from its original 12 beds to an unbelievable 191 beds, with over 600 full-time employees, and still need more space to accommodate the demand on its services by the area residents?

And it would have been hard for any one of them to accept the idea that the hospital they founded as a non-profit, charitable institution for the care of the sick and ailing, administered by a group of townsmen willing to donate freely their time and efforts to its supervision, would ever be almost strangled by regulatory agencies of the state and federal government in its efforts to keep up with the need for its services.

There is little doubt that, had the ladies foreseen the heavy demands that would be made on the acreage they had bought, they would have selected a site with far greater expansion potential. But there was no way by which they could have provided for any defense against the state agency which would one day deny their hospital the right to make alterations or purchase equipment if the cost of doing it was $100,000 or more.

Year of change ahead says the chief of police

Looking forward to "a year of change," Police Chief John P. McHugh recently cited several areas of town where police coverage could be somewhat different in the months ahead.

"We will have to face the challenge of a liquor license in town," he said, noting that voters may be asked to consider authorizing a restaurant with a license to serve liquor.

Chief McHugh also noted development of north Main street as an area for future assignments. Plans in that part of town indicate that a bank and a nursing home will mean different coverage. Potential construction of an apartment house on Waterfield road will also change police assignments in the center area, the chief said.

One of the perpetual problems which he expects to face this year is that of housebreaks. Breaks tend to run in cycles, Chief McHugh said. "I don't understand why neighbors don't watch out more for unusual behavior on their street," he said. There have been isolated "neighborhood watch" programs in town, in which residents report any unusual activity to the police.

The chief also noted that the traffic enforcement program has had good effect. There have been fewer serious accidents since a more stringent policy has been adopted by the police department. That policy will continue.

The basic problems of vandalism and housebreaks will continue to plague the department, Chief McHugh said, but he was pleased to note that vandalism seems to be lessening.

Tenants swing at Christmas fest

The annual Christmas party for the residents of the Mary E. Murphy Apartments was held Dec. 14 despite the foul weather.

The community hall was decorated with a Christmas tree and lights and with a poinsettia given the tenants by Mahoney's Rocky Lodge. The tables were also decorated in red and white with red carnations.

Herb Cleary entertained at the piano and residents joined in the singing of carols. A catered turkey dinner was served and further caroling took place as 90-year-old Mrs. Vivian Jones played on the piano.

Mrs. Muriel Bacon, president of the tenants organization, introduced Santa and Mrs. Claus (Ed and Kay Murphy). Santa carried a huge red bag filled with gifts and Mrs. Claus, dressed all in red, carried a basket of gifts.

Herb Cleary returned to the piano after the presents were distributed for more music and dancing.

All members of the Winchester Housing Authority and their spouses were seated at the head table. Mrs. Mary E. Murphy is credited with what some tenants called "the best party ever."

Diet Workshop sets open house Thurs.

There will be an open house of the Diet Workshop next Thursday at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church, Church and Dix streets, at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Further information is available by calling 646-0854 or 658-8039.

Seniors learn that theater movement begins with stretching and strengthening the body as they warm up with Hatha Yoga at the Winchester Drama Workshop. Both newcomers who may prefer chair exercises and seasoned troupers in good condition are invited to register now at the Winchester Recreation Department for revitalizing winter sessions for youth and senior groups.

Sign-ups today for recreation drama

Registration opens today at the recreation department for three tuition-free series conducted by the Winchester Drama Workshop. Improvisation groups will meet once a week for 12 sessions beginning Jan. 17, 18, and 19.

Director Donald L. Spinney invites participants to contact Jerry Ferro or Mary Klug at his office (729-4514) without delay as each group will be limited to 15 participants.

Boys and girls of ages 8 to 11 will meet on Tuesdays at the Lincoln School stage from 3:15 to 4:45 (or 1 to 2:45 on released days); and ages 12 to 15 will meet on Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5:15 in the social studies open area at the Winchester High School. The senior citizens will resume their pilot program launched last season on Thursdays from 9:45 to 11:15 a.m. in the Winsor Room of the Unitarian Church.

Further inquiries on the series will be welcomed by Paulett Taggart, Winchester Drama Workshop, 17 Ridgely rd. Although free from the limitations of a given script and the pressures of a public performance, as actors train for scene improvisation they are also preparing for formal theater if they wish, for daily life responses are enriched, restructured and integrated for use in the art form.

Mushroom Lady to show work on Good Day Show

Winchester resident Maria Maravigna, renowned for her mushroom sculptures, has been invited to appear as a guest on the Good Day Show on television Channel 5 and affiliated stations Tuesday morning between 9 and 10:30.

Janet Langhart and John Willis, hosts of the Good Day Show, will interview Miss Maravigna while she displays and demonstrates her unique mushroom sculptures, which are near-perfect reproductions of the originals growing in fields and forests.

Known as "The Mushroom Lady," Miss Maravigna also paints, in oils and watercolors, and is an expert in mushroom cookery. Her recipes have won first prize in the Boston Mycological Club's Mushroom Cookery Fest. In addition, Gus Saunders featured her and her recipes in Boston Magazine, in his radio program, and in his Garden Basket in the Boston Herald-American.

On the evening prior to her appearance on television, Miss Maravigna will be talking about and demonstrating her mushroom sculptures at the Boston Mycological Club Art Night, Monday at the Harvard Herbarium.

Fortnightly's Guest Day is set for Monday

The January meeting of The Fortnightly will be held Monday, at Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, commencing with a tea at 1 o'clock under the chairmanship of Mrs. Everett D. Littlefield.

Mrs. Lucille D. Sheppard will preside at the business meeting immediately following. The Rev. John Robertson of the Wakefield Congregational Church will be the featured speaker of the day. All club members are urged to attend and to bring guests for this program.

Cancer program for women Jan. 11

Jacqueline Hill

Local woman to teach course in French cooking

A new French cooking school offering courses for homemakers and serious amateur cooks has opened in Winchester. Classes meet once a week at the Second Congregational Church, 473 Washington st.

Jacqueline Hill, who conducts the classes, is a native of France. She studied classic French cooking in Paris at the "Ecole de la Rue Monsieur" and more recently in Brussels, Belgium under Chef Coleau. She has traveled widely through Africa and all of Europe and has added exotic recipes to her classic repertoire.

While the cooking is French, emphasis is placed on balanced meals which are easy enough to prepare for everyday family dining and yet gracious enough for company. Emphasis is placed on using fresh ingredients, where to find them at the best prices, on the use of non fattening foods and on the presentation of each dish.

Jacqueline extends a welcome to all Winchesterites and residents of surrounding communities. She can be contacted at 729-1232 for details.

Girls gymnastics team defeats Reading in League action

By Kelley Gately

Competing with only six people, Winchester High girls gymnastics team turned in a first-rate performance, as they defeated Reading, 71-57.75, in their first League meet.

Winchester took control early as they easily outscored Reading on the uneven parallel bars, 14.5-10.9. Laurie Vincent led all scorers with her 6.25 followed by Peggy McCabe's 4.85 and Teri Allard's 3.4. Reading could only muster a 3.75 by Susan Gerouard and Debbie Arsenault with Robin Gerouard finishing up with a 3.4.

The Sachems increased their lead with a 13.25-10.85 victory on the beam. The topscorer in this event was Winchester's Anne Bird with a 4.8. Finishing the scoring for Winchester were Teri Allard and Joyce Fryklund with a 4.75 and 3.7. Reading's high was Peggy Hill's 4.55. Elaine Hernard and Helen Durkin completed the scoring with scores of 3.55 and 2.75.

Laurie Vincent's excellent score of 8.7

guided Winchester to yet another victory in the vaulting, 22.75 to 19.9. Peggy McCabe and Joyce Fryklund also received laudable scores of 7.1 and 6.95 to conclude Winchester's scoring. Reading also came up with their best effort of the day. A 6.85 by Peggy Hill proved to be Reading's best with Robin Gerouard's 6.6 and Susan Gerouard's 6.45 also contributing to the scoring.

Winchester delivered the coup de grace in the floor exercises with their rout of Reading, 20.5-16.1. Laurie Vincent again led all scorers with her 7.5 as Peggy McCabe, 6.6, and Teri Allard, 6.4, wound up the scoring. A 6.15 was Reading's best with Robin Gerouard getting top honors followed up by Susan Gerouard's 5.5 and Wendy Smith's 4.45.

Winchester proved to be the better team in every event as the scores show. The average score for Winchester overall was a 5.9 with Reading's only being a 4.8.

Boys beat Masconomet at gymnastics meet

By Maureen McCabe

Winchester High boys gymnastics team compensated for their loss to Burlington by defeating Masconomet 70.20 to 65.40 last Wednesday to give the team a 1-1 win-loss record.

The five-point margin indicates a close meet, but the Sachems clearly outperformed their opponents. Captain Peter MacDonnell took top honors in all six events and the team dominated five of the six events.

The floor exercise was extremely close, but Winchester took the lead. Masconomet's Ackerman received a 4.1, Bogart, a 3.55, and Coughlin, a 2.85. Winchester's Peter MacDonnell was awarded a 4.6, John Belinowicz, 3.3, and Steve Campo completed the scoring with a 2.9.

The sidehorse aided the Winchester team by increasing their lead. Steve Campo and Peter MacDonnell each received a 3.4's with Paul Selvitelli's 3.25 taking third position. Masconomet's top three scores were Gaglione's 3.3, Dickson's 2.85, and Leonard's 2.7.

The next event, high bar, proved to be the Sachems' stronger event. Masconomet was only able to earn 7.85 points with Ackerman's 3.2, Coughlin's 2.6 and Leary's 2.05. MacDonnell posted a 4.7 for Winchester while Mark Mulvaney's 3.25 and John DeMars' 2.8 completed the Sachem's 10.75 score.

Coach Hood's Sachems also outpointed their opponents on the parallel bars, 10.50 to 9.85. Winchester's points were chalked up by MacDonnell (4.05), Mulvaney (3.5), and DeMars (2.95).

Masconomet defeated the Sachems on the vault 19.35 to 18.90. Masconomet's scorers were Coughlin with a 7.25, Ackerman, 6.5, and Gaglione, 5.5. Winchester's MacDonnell lead all scorers with his 7.6 while Mulvaney merited a 6.1 and Steve Galante obtained a 5.2. The final event, rings, added 9.20 points to Winchester's lead. Masconomet's nine points could do little more than increase their score to 65.40. MacDonnell's 3.9, Campo's 2.9 and Anders Bjarnagard's 2.4 completed the Sachem victory.

The boys gymnastics team, coached by Steve Hood and John Donahue, consists of fourteen members. They are captain Peter MacDonnell, Paul Maxwell, Mark Mulvaney, Paul Selvitelli, Jon Belinowicz, and Joe Miara, seniors; Steve Campo, John DeMars, Al Class, and Anders Bjarnagard, juniors; Jose Rios, Rafael Acvedo, Steve Galante, and David DeMars sophomores. Sachem Spirit could prove beneficial to this team struggling to the top.

Chess tourney on Sat.

The 11th annual eastern Massachusetts chess tournament for elementary and junior high schools will be held Saturday at the Lincoln School, 365 Cross St., Malden.

Registration starts at 9 with three sections of players: K-3, 4-6, and 7-9. Players should bring their own boards and sets. Trophies will be awarded and an entry fee will be charged. Harry Goobar, 117 Harvard St., Malden, is accepting advance entries.

Children's film program

Jan. 8 and 10

Stuart Little: This favorite story tells the adventures of a five-inch tall mouse, Stuart Little. He tours the country and makes many new friends wherever he goes.

On Sunday afternoon, the family film program is held in the Story Hour Room of the Junior Library and will begin at 2:30. It is requested that at least one adult accompany each group of children. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 1:30.

EPAcitizens' bulletin

U.S. ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY WASHINGTON D.C. 20460

CHLORINE is one of the most chemically active substances which, when added to a water, reacts with nearly any organic material to form other organic compounds. CHLORINE, widely used to disinfect water, is suspected of being a causative factor. The chlorine kills bacteria, preventing the transmission of disease, but it also combines with trace chemicals usually present in surface water to form hazardous compounds. One of these is chloroform, composed of carbon, hydrogen, and chlorine. Over 5 times the proposed standard (100 PPB) of chloroform has been found in water supplies with high vegetation decay.

THE STANDARD has been delayed because of opposition from doctors who claim that there is no such thing as a safe level of a chemical carcinogen in water, especially that water is consumed on a daily basis. The young need even more protection from toxic chemicals in drinking water.

STATE TESTS for chloroform has found that the problem is widespread among the Cities and Towns in the Commonwealth using chlorination for disinfection of their drinking water supplies.

The average amount of chloroform found in the Commonwealth is 100 parts per billion. If the EPA does take the advice of the doctors, it will mean the end of the use of chlorine. If the EPA sets the standard of 100 P.P.B., it will cause mass confusion. The Cities that are over the standard will have a ban order while the Cities that are a little below the standard will be drinking a good dosage of chloroform even though it is below the standard.

PRESIDENT CARTER'S message to Congress on the environment included - a new Federal effort aimed at eliminating hazardous chemicals from the environment. The crackdown will give top priority to chlorinated hydrocarbons in water.

CHLOROFORM - the great concern to cancer causing agents in water is that when you drink a glass of water, it goes directly to your stomach. Part of the water is absorbed directly into your blood stream through the walls of the stomach. The remainder goes to the intestines to keep the food you eat in a liquid state while being absorbed; this is later absorbed directly into the blood. The human body is 65% water and some of the water you drink becomes part of the body. Toxic chemicals and harmful impurities in water are increasing the risk of cancer, heart disease and genetic mutations according to a Library of Congress report.

DR. PRICE, M.D. and chlorine researcher claims that the chlorine we drink in our tap water causes premature aging. While chlorine prevents one kind of disease, it causes others. All we have done is swap diseases.

CHLORINE in America's drinking water has opened a Pandora's box of medical dangers.

EPA sponsored study found that there is a 44% greater cancer rate of certain types of cancer in Cities that chlorinate the water than those who do not.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES - As our drinking water becomes more contaminated, the chlorine is being added. The higher amount of chlorine used, the higher amount of chloroform is produced. Chlorine, it turns out, may be killing more than the bacteria in water.

A HIGH AMOUNT of Hydro carbons and organic matters has been found in Winchester drinking water tests. Yes, drinking water can make you sick. If you or your family suffer from upset stomachs, headaches or diarrhea, take a long, hard look at your water.

DR. ROBERT HARRIS, EDF. "Even if all man-made pollution were eliminated (a highly optimistic assumption), there would still be natural sources of pollution that can be avoided only by purifying the water we drink."

EPA's MR. ROBECK said on the Dan Rather show: "If they don't have people getting sick or, as we jokingly say, dropping dead on the sidewalk, we have difficulty getting complete support for the suggestions that we have. And it's unfortunate, but a lot of people tie into an epidemic sort of attitude, and if their people aren't getting typhoid or cholera or something like this. All these subtle things that come from chemicals, the carcinogens, that show up 20 or 30 years later are very difficult to convince people.

The EPA - SCIENTISTS - DOCTORS - HEALTH MAGAZINES all recommend carbon filtration to remove the chloroform in water. Carbon has a high capacity of removing organic matter and the chemical carcinogens in water. Carbon can also filter out heavy metals and trap out viruses.

CARBON FILTRATION can be used from either a Municipal Water Treatment Plant or a Home Water Purifier. Here in Winchester, we don't have this choice for we do not have any filtration system. Only chlorine is added to kill the harmful bacteria.

CARBON FILTRATION at home has many advantages over any Municipal Carbon Filtration Plant. Here it can eliminate the impurities from the distribution system along with removing the chlorine used for disinfection. Why drink this powerful chemical after it has done its job.

THE SUPER FINE ACTIVATIVE CARBON used in the Multi-Pure filtration is effective in removing pesticides such as DDT, dieldrin and many industrial chemicals, such as carbon tetrachloride and polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB's). It is also effective in removing chlorine and the products of chlorination (including chloroform). Both bad taste and odor are also effectively eliminated.

THE CHOICE IS CLEAR. We will have to find a safe disinfectant to replace the chlorine or use a Home Water Purifier to remove the chlorine and its dangerous by products.

HOUSE PLANTS thrive and Gold Fish live a healthier and much longer life with purified water. This is a good indication to the health effects of chemically free water.

VIRGINIA KNAUER, Consultant to the President on Consumer Affairs, spoke here in Boston and said, "The quality of water in the United States is not as good as it should be and the public should be alerted to that deficiency. Lack of public awareness or concern about contamination in water does not mean that the problems do not exist."

We at McCORMACK'S APOTHECARY can not only alert you to the deficiencies in tap water but can offer you the cure

The MULTI-PURE Home Water Purifier is the answer to our serious water problems. The price of this unique filtration device is a small price to pay to improve the health of your loved ones.

The MULTI-PURE unit is more than a Water Purifier. It really is a health unit and this is why we sell them at our Apothecary where health products are sold.

SAVE THIS AD for it could help you and your friends in other Towns on the truth about chlorine.

Girls drop first two games of the basketball season

The girls' basketball team got off to a poor start this year, dropping their first two games of the season. Winchester lost their first home game against Reading by 21 points, 67-46. High scorers for Winchester were Holly Stevenson and Barbara Jacobson.

The team started out with a very strong first quarter, trailing by only one point, but as the game progressed, their lack of effective passing enabled Reading to pull away. By the end of the first half, Reading's lead was increased to 30-17. A bright spot from the first half was that Holly Stevenson made 7 out of 8 foul shots.

The third quarter was the team's strongest. They had many good shots. Barbara Jacobson was extremely impressive with her many steals. This third quarter surge was, unfortunately, too little and too late. During the fourth quarter, Winchester made a valiant attempt to catch up but they couldn't quite do it. Barbara Jacobson fouled out. There was also a costly injury to another starter, Kelly Gately pulled ligaments in her foot. This strong player will be missed.

The starters for this game were Kathy Day and Kelly Gately at guard, Laurie Redmond and Barbara Jacobson as forwards and Holly Stevenson as center. Unfortunately, Linda Pierce, along with several other members of the team came down with the flu and was unable to play.

In their next game against Melrose on Thursday, Dec. 29, the girls came a little closer to victory, but they still could not quite do it. The final score in this game was 46-37. The key to Melrose's success was number 33,

Ms. Bates. She scored a total of 17 points and made numerous rebounds.

In the first quarter, the teams seemed fairly evenly matched. As in the previous game, Winchester trailed by only one point, 11-10, at the end of the first quarter. Holly Stevenson was still doing excellently from the foul line, making a high percentage of her shots. By the end of the half, Winchester was behind 23-17 but it was still either team's game.

The Sachems show good potential and enthusiasm. Barbara Jacobson has shown good anticipation by intercepting key passes and breaking up plays. Kathy Day demonstrated good dribbling ability. Holly Stevenson, as center, jumped well and her shooting ability is an important asset to the Sachems' offense. Kelly Gately, in the first game proved an essential part of the Sachem offense, setting up many baskets. Laurie Redmond had a good outside shot. Linda Pierce missed the first game and has not yet played up to par due to a bad case of the flu, but during the portion of the second game which she played, her presence was felt under the basket. With this kind of ability, the remainder of the season should prove to be exciting and worthwhile and the overall record should improve.

McCall skaters win and lose in vacation games

McCall's hockey team played two games during the Christmas vacation, winning their first matchup against the Lynnfield Freshmen, 4-2, and losing their second contest to Watertown West, 4-0.

In the Lynnfield game, John Boyle started McCall off by scoring the first goal on a nice play, assisted by Chris Parker and Steve Marino.

After a Lynnfield goal, Ned White batted in a rebound of Rob Maglozzi's shot. Lynnfield then scored again to tie it at 2-2.

Ian Donaghey then took over and scored the game-winning on a pass from Chris Parker. Donaghey scored again to tie it, with assists going to Jon Ferullo and Parker.

Bob Giarrizzo tended goal for McCall and came up with some great saves to keep his team in command.

Against Watertown West, McCall just could not get going at all. Watertown controlled much of the game and McCall couldn't cash in on the few chances they had.

The McCall roster for this season includes: Seventh graders: Larry Maida, Rob DiVincenzo, Eric Donaghey;

Eighth graders: Chris Parker, John Boyle, Steve Marino, Mike Gorrassi, Mark Kenney, Ned White, Dave Graham, Jeff Lavey, Joey Donlon, Bob Giarrizzo, Mike Surablan;

Ninth graders: Ian Donaghey, Jon Ferullo, Jerry Kimball, Eddie Ducharme, Rob Maglozzi, Brian Donnellan, and Jim Surette. Ed Ferullo is manager.

Squirts sponsor tournament, but lose in finals

The Winchester Squirts, in cooperation with the USA Sports Arena, sponsored a Squirrt "A" Christmas tournament festival during the holidays.

It was a round robin tournament with teams from Arlington, Stoneham, Reading, and Winchester playing at the USA rink. Arlington and Stoneham played Monday, with Arlington squeaking out a 3-2 win. Reading and Winchester played their game with Reading winning 5-2. Petey Regan and Brian Griffin scored the only goals for the losers.

Wednesday's games had Reading and Arlington playing to a 1-1 tie. Winchester enjoyed a 3-0 shutout over Stoneham, with goaltenders Scotty Falzano and Jimmy Chute. Derek Binding opened up the scoring on a rink-long rush. Brian Griffin and Petey Regan added goals two and three.

Friday's match-up had Stoneham playing Reading to a 3-3 tie in what turned out to be a lucky break for Winchester. Winchester needed a Reading loss or tie and a Winchester win over Arlington to have a chance at the finals.

Winchester won 4-3 over Arlington in a very close game. Excellent goaltending by both goalies kept the score as low as it was. Mike White opened the scoring for Winchester, with Petey Regan adding two more.

It was David Bonner's backhand shot that was the game winner. This win over Arlington put Winchester into the finals with Reading.

On Monday a consolation game between Arlington and Stoneham was played with Stoneham winning 3-2. In the finals Reading beat Winchester 5-1.

Winchester's lone goal was scored by Corl Pomeroy with an assist to Petey Regan. Excellent goaltending by Reading goalies kept Winchester pucksters from scoring.

YBA Basketball offered at YMCA

YBA Basketball — the game that attracted more than 30 youngsters last season and nearly 100,000 nationwide will be again offered at the North Suburban YMCA.

Sign ups are slated for Jan. 8 at the North Suburban YMCA from 1-2 p.m.

YBA teams are composed of nine players and each member must play a specified amount of time. Players wear YBA T-shirts. Registration will be limited to 54 boys and girls.

For more information on YBA basketball, call the YMCA, 935-3270.

The Winchester boys participating in this Christmas festival were Scott Falzano, Petey Regan, Brian Griffin, Scott Donaghey, George Nowell, Mike White, Corl Pomeroy, Mike Mahoney, Nick Geanaris, Jimmy Bonifilio, Shawn Bonner, Derek Binding, and Jimmy Chute. The Squirts are coached by Ken Binding and John Griffin.

Travel Along with

Waimea Falls Park on Oahu's north shore in Hawaii, is a recently developed nature park, set in the 1,800 acre Waimea Valley. The main attraction in the park is a breathtaking 45-foot waterfall. Development of the park has included tram rides, a "country kitchen" serving hot and cold meals and picnic lunches, and a store selling momentos and gifts. The park also includes an arboretum, hiking trails, nature paths, and such remnants of the past as old Hawaiian agricultural walls and burial caves.

High school track team tops Burlington, loses to Reading

By George Parker

The Sachem track team lost and won last week, easily defeating Burlington 52-34 on Dec. 28 and losing by the same score to Reading on Saturday.

In the Burlington meet, Scott Kajander easily won the 45 high hurdles in 6.3 seconds starting the team on the right foot. Scott Farrar also took his event, the 45-yard dash, with his time of 5.4 seconds. Farrar was followed by Burlington's Crijione, (5.8 seconds) in third place.

In the 300-yard dash, Phil Monson pulled out a third place finish, with a time of 37.9 seconds, to add some more points to the rapidly increasing Winchester tally. In the 600, the Red Devils' Kirk had an excellent race, coming in second behind Charlie Larkin's 1:16.6.

In the 1000-yard run, Ed Kirkpatrick was beaten by the slimmest of margins by his Burlington opponent, as both of the runners had the same time—2:27.5. Andy Wilsack, on the other hand, wasn't pushed at all, except perhaps by Mike Haukedelan, as those two finished one-two, with times of 4:47.1 and 5:04.5.

In the two-mile, Winchester had its first sweep of the season as George Parker, John Baker, and Joe Flynn placed easily.

The relay was uneventful, as Farrar, Kirkpatrick, Wilsack, and Larkin cruised to victory in the rather slow time of 3:44.4. Thus the meet ended, 52-34 in the Sachem's favor.

In the Reading meet, things started off differently, for even with Tim Morgan (6.5 seconds), the hurdlers could only get four points, as Scott Kajander was just beaten by the league's best hurdler—both had the time of 6.3 seconds. In the dash, things returned to normal, as Scott Farrar was again victorious, with his time of 5.4 seconds.

Unfortunately, Reading swept the 300-yard dash. The 600, however, was a bit better, as Charlie Larkin cruised to victory for the fourth time in four meets, breaking the school record with his time of 1:15.8. The 1000 was also typical, as Ed Kirkpatrick resumed his winning ways, winning easily with his time of 2:25.6.

In the mile, Andy Wilsack had an excellent race, beating Reading's Will Arsenault by three seconds. Arsenault trailed Andy for seven laps before he blew by Andy on the eighth lap. Andy then spent the remaining three laps catching up to Arsenault, finally pulling past him in the last 50 yards, for a time of 4:37.3.

The two-mile and the high jump (despite Reilly Atkinson's fine effort) suffered the same fate as the 300, as they were swept by the Reading team. In the other field event, though, Brian O'Connor, as usual, came through with a victory, taking the shot put with a 50'3 1/2" loss.

Though the meet was now irrevocably lost, the relay team ran as though the meet depended on them.

Wilsack turned in a fine performance, retrieving most of the lost ground he was initially faced with. Charlie Larkin then literally burned up the track, overhauling his opponent in the last 20 yards to streak to a final time of 3:39.8 and win the race.

Winchester residents display awards earned at the Portland, Me. Thanksgiving swim meet. Hugh Murray (l.) took fourth place in the 11 & 12 boys' competition, while Scott Van Ummerson placed third overall in the 10 & under boys' age group. The locals helped the neighboring North Suburban YMCA Vikings boys' team to a third place finish. Missing from photo were Jim Biasi and Lynn Van Ummerson (who aided the first place Viking girls' team).

Mites compete in tournaments over the holidays

The Winchester Mites enjoyed Christmas holidays by playing in two holiday festival tournaments and one Middlesex League game.

On Monday they travelled to Lexington's Hayden Rink, where they beat Lexington 4-3. Winchester's Peley Regan scored unassisted late in the period.

Lexington came back in the second period and scored first and Regan evened up the score to end the period at 2-2.

J. Schmitz of Lexington scored what seemed to be the winning goal two minutes into the third period. Winchester tied it up when Scott Paine picked up a loose puck at center ice and scored a 90-foot shot with 2:51 left in the game. It was Peley Regan scoring unassisted the game winner with 1:41 left to play.

On Thursday the Mites played in the USA Christmas Festival at the Winchester rink against a strong Tewksbury team. It started out as what appeared to be an easy win for Tewksbury, but the Winchester team fought back and gained a well deserved tie, ending 6-6.

It was Tewksbury 3-0 at the beginning of the second period, but Winchester's Peley Regan scored three goals in the second period. Regan's third goal came with one second left to play in the period on a pass play from Greg Winn.

Third period action saw Winchester balance their defense and offense in not allowing Tewksbury to score. Greg Winn scored Winchester's fourth goal picking up a rebound from Peley Regan. Regan then scored his fourth and fifth goals of the game to give Winchester a come-from-behind tie game.

On Friday night at Burlington Ice Palace the Mites took on Woburn, winning one of their best team effort games of the season. Peley Regan opened the scoring with only one minute and 24 seconds in the first period. Greg Winn scored the game winner in the second period with an assist going to Regan. Woburn scored their only goal halfway through the second period. With 38 seconds left to play in the game, Scott Paine scored the insurance goal after picking up a pass from Timmy Day. The final score was 3-1. Kevin Boyle in goal came up with key saves.

The boys who participated in these games are Kevin Boyle, Timmy Day, Sukjong Chung, Peley Regan, Scott Paine, Ted Dever, Greg Winn, Derek Sullivan, Billy Coppins, David Butt, Marc Todisco, Matt Quill, Marc Falzano, and Ronny Setipane.

Youth hockey resumes Sun.

The Winchester Youth Hockey program is welcoming new players this Sunday at the USA rink.

All teams and goalies who played before Christmas will report at their usual time. New players should report for registration and ready to skate between 7:30 and 8 a.m.

Everyone is urged to wear the necessary protective safety equipment. Winchester Youth Hockey will provide jerseys which may be kept by the players.

Further information may be obtained from Alan Ross, 9 Norfolk rd.

Deadline for news copy for The Star is Monday at 5 p.m. News releases should be typed, double-spaced if possible, and they should include the sender's name and phone number.

Sachem pucksters nailed to the boards by Lexington...Belmont...Burlington...Watertown

By Linda Pierce

The Winchester High School hockey team opened its season with a loss against perennial power Burlington by a score of 7-0. In their next game against Watertown the score was closer but the end result was another loss. This time the teams were more evenly matched. However Winchester was plagued with the problem of clearing the puck out of their own end.

In the first period Watertown applied a lot of pressure as they were bombing away at goalie Frank Vozzella, but the defense was able to clear the puck from in front of the net but not out of the zone.

Winchester had its chances too. Jack Collins made a rink-length rush, skating by two Watertown players only to have his backhand shot kicked out by the Watertown goalie.

The second period started out very sloppily — neither team could handle the puck. Watertown capitalized on the confusion and scored all three of their goals within a span of five minutes. In the third period Winchester scored its first goal of the season and lone goal of the game at 4:51 with Mark McGoldrick credited with an unassisted goal. The final score was Watertown 3, Winchester 1.

The Sachem High School pucksters played two games during vacation week that they may rather forget. They lost their first game on Wednesday against Lexington by a score of 9-1. They played a game Friday against Belmont. They lost that one by a score of 10-3.

They had many chances to score against Belmont, but it seemed everytime a shot went off, the puck somehow never went into the net. However, for Belmont it was just the opposite. Everytime a shot went off the puck would get lost in confusion in front of the goal and end up in the net. One thing that seemed to be against the Sachems was the penalties. They were always playing shorthanded.

Winchester players deserve a lot of credit, though, because when the chips were down and the score was 7-0, Winchester kept plugging away. Mark Carzo scored a goal after a good pass from Jack Collins. At the end of the second period it was Belmont 9, Winchester 1.

Winchester did not throw in the towel because in the third period Winchester outscored and outplayed Belmont. Bob Coppins took a shot from the point which Mark Carzo backhanded into the net to make the score 9-2. Belmont scored another goal after that but Winchester kept working.

They had one play which looked like it might have been a sure goal. When the puck was in the corner, Bob Coppins put it on the stick of Mark McGoldrick who was by the net. Mark's shot was on target but the Belmont goalie made a nice save.

The last goal came with 3:40 left in the game. Jack Collins took a pass from Paul Mahoney from behind the net and capitalized on it to end the game with the score of 10-3.

Even though Winchester has not won a game yet, maybe this third period action shows that if they keep trying they do have the potential to win. Also maybe a little more support from Winchester fans would boost these players' morale and get them on the winning track.

The Sachems are led by senior captain Mark McGoldrick. The other members of the team are seniors: George Surabian, Ken Carlson, Frank Vozzella, Mark Carzo, Steve Ferullo, Dan Murphy and Mark Simpson; juniors: Peter Mahoney, Mike Hill, Hugo Lafauci, Jack Collins, Bob Coppins, Dave O'Neil, Ron Divencenzo and Jeff Haley, and sophomores: Ken Blasi, Bob McNis, Bob Surabian, Buddy Pronski and Mike Jackson.

Winchester goalie Frank Vozzella stops a blazing shot by Belmont's John Kelley in Friday's game in Watertown. Sachem defenseman Bob Coppins (8) watches the save which was one of few as Belmont skated to a 10-3 win over Winchester. (Photo by Cliff Kolovson)

MOVING EXPENSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

Prior to 1970, your moving expense tax deduction was limited to the cost of transporting your household goods and family transportation costs for the move (including food and lodging).

Little by little, other expenses of making the move were added to the deductible expense list. Now they have been liberalized even more with the 1976 tax reform bill. Effective in 1977, here is how the new scoreboard reads.

You can deduct up to $3,000 for the cost of real estate commissions, mortgage costs and similar items incurred in buying or selling your home or settling a lease.

Roemer reports for Marine duty

Private First Class Bruce A. Roemer, son of Anthony H. Roemer of 12 Fells rd., has reported for duty with the 2d Marine Division, Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A 1977 graduate of Winchester High School, he joined the Marine Corps in November 1976.

Alice Wilkinson

Musical series recital features Alice Wilkinson

The Musical series at the First Congregational Church continues Sunday at 5 p.m. with a piano recital by Alice Wilkinson of 16 Brooks st.

The recital will feature selections from the works of Mozart, Debussy, and Chopin, including Mozart's Sonata in D, K311; Debussy's "La fille aux cheveux de lin," "La danse de Puck," "Reflets dans l'eau"; and Nocturne in B-flat minor, Op. 9, No. 1 and Ballade in G minor, Op. 23 by Chopin.

This is a benefit concert, and monies received in an offering will be donated to the ABC House.

At the present time Mrs. Wilkinson is teaching at Longy School of Music and in Winchester. A graduate of Juilliard School of Music in New York, she taught for four years at Duke University. She has given recitals on the east coast and in California. She has been a soloist with the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra, Duke University Symphony Orchestra, North Shore Philharmonic Orchestra, and with the Boston Pops Orchestra.

The public is invited to attend this recital.

Public works has sand and salt for local residents

A sand and salt combination is available for Winchester residents at the transfer station to be used during winter storms for driveways and walks.

DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck says the sand and salt will be available throughout the winter.

Newcomers to hear Sullivan Tuesday

John Sullivan, town moderator, will be guest speaker at the January meeting of the Winchester Newcomers Club.

Scheduled for Tuesday at 8 p.m., the meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, 103 Mt. Vernon st.

Mr. Sullivan, who has been moderator since March, 1977, will explain how Winchester government operates and will respond to questions on that subject.

Mrs. Dan McGonagle, vice president and program chairperson, said, "Many new arrivals to Winchester are not familiar with our form of government. The January program is designed to help them understand it. We hope for a good turnout and specifically invite husbands of our members to be present."

Before being elected town moderator, Mr. Sullivan served as a selectman for nine years. For six of those years, he was chairman of the board of selectmen. He lives at 32 Canterbury rd., and is employed as director of projects for the engineering firm of Charles T. Main, Inc. of Boston.

Those planning to attend the meeting are asked to notify Mrs. Rogers by Monday. Light refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Marie Russo joins Pottery Workshop

Marie Russo of 62 Ridge st., a life-long town resident, has joined the Pottery Workshop at 618 Main st. as a staff instructor.

Ms. Russo graduated from the University of New Hampshire in 1977 with a bachelor of arts degree in fine arts with a major in pottery. She will assist Dorothy Spaulding in the workshop's teaching program which specializes in techniques for creating unique wheel-thrown and hand-built ceramic objects.

The Pottery Workshop has just completed its first ten-week fall term and is currently registering new students for the winter session. These classes begin January 5-12 and provide instruction at both the beginning and intermediate levels.

Town census due Jan. 20

The annual town census forms have gone out in the mail, and residents are asked to return them to the town clerk's office by Jan. 20 at the latest.

Be sure to read the instructions carefully, as the forms are different this year from past years. The information is used to compile the list of residents and is also utilized by the school department, fire and water departments, and by the state.

Those failing to return the information or filing false information are subject to a penalty under law.

Divorce workshop

A free information workshop on the social and emotional experience of separation and divorce will be held Wednesday at the Divorce Resource and Mediation Center, 2464 Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge, room 303. The time is 8 to 9 p.m.

Raymond Stillman

Raymond B. Stillman of 150 Ridge St. died at home Dec. 9 of a heart attack.
Mr. Stillman, 66, worked for General Telephone and Electronics Corp. He retired in 1975 after 37 years with the firm.
A 25-year resident of Winchester, Mr. Stillman was a native of Portville, N.Y., born Dec. 18, 1910. He graduated from Penn State University in 1932 with a degree in mechanical engineering.
Mr. Stillman was a member of the Quarter Century Club at GT&E, a past master of Emporium Lodge No. 382, AF & AM, a past high priest of the Royal Arch Chapter No. 227, a member of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite, a member of the Coudersport Consistory in Coudersport, Pa.
Mr. Stillman leaves his wife, Loretta Lloyd Stillman, two sons, Lloyd R. of State College, Pa., and Mark J. of the University of Indiana.

Indiana, Pa., and two grandsons.
Services were held Dec. 13 at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church, where Mr. Stillman had been a former superintendent of the Sunday school. Dr. Leon Hatch officiated. Burial followed at Wildwood Cemetery.

(The original obituary for Mr. Stillman was printed in the Dec. 15 Star. The information, some of which was incorrect, was taken from a form sent in by the funeral home.)

Bonnie J. Blondin

In an obituary last week, it was incorrectly reported that Mrs. Bonnie J. Blondin, a former resident of Winchester who died in California Dec. 22, was survived by a son; she is in fact survived by her brother, Robert G. Brine of Winchester, along with her husband David P. of Sunnyvale, Calif., and her mother, Margaret G. Brine of Winchester.

Ullian hearing postponed til February 2

A board of appeal hearing scheduled for today was postponed until February 2 at the request of the petitioner, developer Arthur Ullian.

Ullian is seeking appeal board authorization to go ahead with plans for a multi-story 111-unit apartment building on Waterfield road, Winchester House, as it would be known, would provide subsidized housing for moderate income and elderly families.

Ullian was unsuccessful in his first attempt to obtain funding from the department of housing and urban development. Under this funding, he would be limited to an eight percent return on his investment. Ullian is planning to apply in the second round of HUD funding.

According to Town Manager Thomas J. Groux, the board of appeals has not received a complete application from Ullian. "He is now here near a complete application," Groux told the selectmen at their regular Monday night meeting.

The board of appeal acts on behalf of other town agencies in a case like this. It speaks on behalf of departments like the board of selectmen, the board of health, and others, to either approve or not approve relief from zoning restrictions to construct the building.

The hearing, now scheduled for February 2 at 7:30 in the library, will be primarily a presentation, Groux said.

Because of the delay in this hearing, another meeting, originally scheduled for last night has been changed to a more convenient January 26.

At that time, a joint meeting of the board of selectmen and the planning board will be convened to discuss the 121A proposal to revitalize the center. Under 121A, a private developer would receive tax relief and other benefits in return for developing in the center.

The January 26 meeting will be held at 8 in the planning board room.

Town offices closed Monday

All offices at the Town Hall will be closed for official business on Monday, Martin Luther King Day.

There will be skeleton crews working in the various offices but there will be no business transacted with the public.

The board of selectmen and the school committee will hold their regular Monday night meetings, although there is no school in Winchester Monday.

The Winchester Star offices will be open and the new regular news copy deadline of 3 p.m. Monday will be in effect.

Persistence pays: town told to install wheelchair ramps

Perseverance does pay off once in a while, though the wait can be frustrating, as one local resident has discovered.

For several years now, Maureen Winn, a local member of the state's Architectural Barriers Board, has been trying to convince local officials to correct violations of state regulations regarding the installation of curb cuts.

According to regulations promulgated over the past few years by the ABB, curb cuts must be installed at pedestrian crossings whenever any work is done on the sidewalk, be it new construction or repair work. The cuts, which are meant to provide easier access for handicapped persons in wheelchairs, must be made according to specifications spelled out by the ABB.

In several instances, sidewalk work was done in Winchester and the cuts were not made. The town has given a number of excuses for not putting in the cuts, and Mrs. Winn, who is herself a paraplegic confined to a wheelchair, has been after them for some time.

Same location

New water problem hits; town acts fast

Another problem with drinking water, occurring in the same locations as in the fall, surfaced for one day last week but was handled quickly by town officials. The high bacteria count of January 4 water samples was down to zero the next two days.

The age of the pipes and their need for re-lining could be the source of the periodic positive water tests, according to Thomas J. Groux, town manager.

The chain of events, which selectmen, the board of health, and other officials had worked out in the event of a high bacteria count, was the following:

On January 4 two of seven samples of water submitted to the MDC laboratory were found to have coliform bacteria in greater numbers than allowed by law. The Mystic School sample showed 226 per 100 milliliters and the Winchester Hospital sample showed 18 per 100 ML.

The other five samples showed no bacteria count. Included in the other testing sites was the standpipe in the south reservoir, a source of previous contamination. It, too, was clear.

Dr. N. Bruce Hanes, chairman of the board of health, was notified, as was the department of environmental quality engineering. On that department's recommendation, the amount of chlorine injected into the system was increased from 1 PPM (part per million) to 1.5 PPM.

General's office, Mrs. Winn is beginning to win her argument. For three-and-a-half years, she has tried to get the town to make the cuts in a number of locations, without success. Town Manager Thomas Groux has said he doubted whether the town was required to make the cuts, since most of the sidewalk work at the locations cited by Mrs. Winn did not involve the curbing.

However, this argument was based on an older chapter of the state law, Chapter 288, which was superseded in this case by a newer law, Chapter 528, the Architectural Barrier Law.

In a letter, dated Sept. 7, 1977, to Robert Bohne of the Attorney General's office, Mrs. Winn stated:

"At first, the head of the DPW in Winchester said that the first few violations came under Chapter 288, and since there was no curb removed, curb cuts were not mandated. Almost a year went by before the DPW and

In addition, the water mains at Madison avenue near the Mystic School and at the north reservoir were flushed. Walter Amory, Consultants was called in and on Friday, Jan. 6, David Jacobsen of that engineering firm looked for the source of the bacteria.

Other measures taken included notifying Pipe Line Testing in case a leak survey would be required. Samples were also sent to United Laboratory, a private lab, to attempt to determine the source of the bacteria.

As required by law, samples were taken the next day. They proved to be "0" — no coliform bacteria present — and the third day's samples, also required by law, showed no bacteria present.

Selectman Chairman Barbara S. Hanks said at Monday night's meeting that the town was prepared to notify residents if the second day samples had shown a positive count.

Town Manager Groux reported that the consulting engineer came up with several recommendations: pump from the north and south reservoirs simultaneously; request monthly chlorine demand curve for both reservoirs; change method in determining application chlorine feed rate to volume of water pumped; flush the system in the spring; and increase the number of sampling points in the affected area.

In addition, Groux suggested that the six-inch cast iron water main in Madison avenue, which serves the Mystic School, was installed in 1899 and 1916, has never been cleaned or lined and so could be the source of the coliform bacteria. He suggested that a program of lining or re-lining pipes be considered and perhaps started by 1979 or 1980.

Meanwhile, Groux said, he expects that there will be occasional high bacteria readings. He noted that there was a one-day high count on December 5. In a memo to selectmen dated January 6, Groux wrote:

"There is no doubt that the substantially increased degree of routine water testing now required under the Safe Drinking Water Act is uncovering conditions that the legislation was meant to uncover. We must now deal with the problem of an aging water distribution system and a treatment system that may not be as adequate as it once was. We have included in the Capital Budget for the coming year funds for the purpose of studying the water system and we should be able to proceed with a comprehensive system of cleaning and lining the old water distribution lines which in this section of the Town are quite old and obviously in need of this kind of attention."

Selectmen Arthur Dunbar and Richard Wilsack suggested that the number of testing days as well as the number of testing points be increased even at expense to the town. Barbara Hanks asked if there are facilities within the board of health or water department which could take care of informal testing of the water.

Groux responded that although there are water-testing labs within those departments, he did not think they were equipped to handle this kind of testing.

Special needs advisory group meets Tuesdays

The Winchester Special Needs Advisory Committee met at Sanborn House Jan. 11. Bonnie Robbins, director of Project WIN (Winchester Intervention Network) spoke to the group about the pre-school special needs program now in effect in Winchester under federal funding.

A discussion of Winchester's learning disability program was led by Jane Hughes, a teacher at the Lincoln School.

The special needs advisory committee meets regularly on the second Tuesday of each month, and interested community members are encouraged to attend. For further information contact the chairman, Dr. Joel Alpert of 6 Partridge In.

LWV meetings to focus on middle schools

Should we have a three-year middle school? A four-year high school? A five-year grade school?

These questions plus more will be discussed at the January units of the League of Women Voters of Winchester. The title of the discussions will be "Middle School Configuration." The key factor of any plan of reorganization is the middle school. Changing its configuration will affect the organization of the school above it and those below it.

The declining population in the schools of the last few years has made reorganizing the schools in some way a vital necessity. The League will present various plans of reorganization and examine the implications of the alternatives. This should be an important and exciting meeting, and it will be a chance to become informed on an important impending development in Winchester which will affect all of its school children.

The units will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the public library meeting room; Wednesday at 9:15 a.m. at the home of Judy Muggia, 14 Dartmouth street (no smoking); and Thursday, Jan. 19, at 9:15 a.m. at the home of Mary Albers, 26 Seneca road.

Babysitting is available on Thursday; call Diane Gies, 12 Stowell road. The public is invited to any meeting, but especially to the Tuesday evening meeting in the library.

The members of the committee presenting the Units are: Priscilla Baumann, Harriet Nasson, Sandy Thompson, Elizabeth Weintraub, and chairperson, Sandy Rodgers.

Town census due Jan. 20

The annual town-census forms have gone out in the mail, and residents are asked to return them to the town clerk's office by Jan. 20 at the latest.

Be sure to read the instructions carefully, as the forms are different this year from past years. The information is used to compile the list of residents and is also utilized by the school department, fire and water departments, and by the state.

Those failing to return the information or filing false information are subject to a penalty under law.

Funding up overall

State reimbursements total $1.2M

Now that Winchester has debated and voted a budget and settled on a tax rate for fiscal 1978, the town has officially heard how much money will be coming back from the state. And the news is mixed.

Town Treasurer Carol Thomas received notice of the stated funding around the first of the year, six months after the assessors set the 1978 tax rate. To set the rate, the assessors use estimates — the "Cherry Sheet" — released by the state earlier in the year.

The funds approved for the town, which include annual, semi-annual, and quarterly payments, total $1,235,247.12. Some of the figures are above the estimates, some below.

The largest sum is for Chapter 766, special education programs in the schools. The bad news here is that the annual payment of $782,032 is well below the estimated $1,033,456. The good news is that Winchester is also receiving a one-time grant of $157,137, also for Chapter 766. This brings the total reim-

Power out, school closed as winter weather plays its mischief on the town

Monday's winds, rain, and shifting temperatures wreaked havoc in Winchester, causing a power failure that effected 900 Boston Edison customers and closed the Mystic School for a day.

The problems began early in the morning with strong, gusting winds, heavy rain, and warm temperatures causing flooding and electrical problems. Most of the snow accumulated to date was washed away by mid-day.

Then, in the space of a few hours, the temperature dropped from the mid-50s to well below freezing, icing up roads and sidewalks and creating further problems for the highway department.

The fire department, busy throughout the day, reported to Boston Edison at 7:25 a.m. that a broken tree limb had brought down a power line on Sargent road, leaving 900 Edison customers without electricity, including the Mystic School.

A crew was sent out immediately and power was restored by 9:05, according to Boston Edison spokesperson Harriet Stanley.

Meanwhile, Mystic Principal Martha Grenzeback got on the phone to School Superintendent William MacDonald to report the situation. With no guarantee from Boston Ed as to when the power would come back on, they decided to call off school for the day.

By then it was too late to blow the no-school whistle or notify the radio stations, so Mrs. Grenzeback and her staff tried to reach as many parents as they could by phone. The crossing guards were out turning children back on their way to school.

Meanwhile, the fire department had its hands full. At 7:17 a.m. they had a report of a house fire on Wellington road, with Box 281 sounding.

Police arrived on the scene first and kicked in the door to rouse anyone inside. Officers Celestino Vozzella and Francis Manzie found no one at home but discovered that an upstairs hallway had been charred by fire.

Firemen arriving on the scene found heavy smoke damage throughout the house but no flames. They watered down the hot area.

Within 10 minutes of the Wellington road alarm, Box 285 was sounded for a house fire on Hollywood road. No evidence of fire could be seen, and apparently the power failure had set off the alarm accidentally.

In related incidents, police said about 15 burglar alarms went off by accident because of the weather and the power failure; some of the alarms are especially susceptible to high winds.

The fire department was out all day long on calls for flooding and six reports of arcing wires. Problems were created when the power failure prevented the men from pumping out flooded homes on Jefferson and Leslie roads.

At 8:46 p.m. the ambulance responded to an automobile accident on Forest street and transported a man to Winchester Hospital. Another car was reported on fire on MDC property at 10:52 p.m. And around 11:30 Monday night, firemen had to go to the transfer station on Swanton street to put out a fire: someone apparently had lit the stack of Christmas trees stored there.

The department of public works was also kept busy by the shifting weather. A sewerage pumping station on Winford way was put out of commission for about six hours early on in the day.

Flooding problems during the day kept some of the men out clearing storm drains. The problems grew more intense as the temperature began to drop and the afternoon rush hour approached.

"We knew about it (the temperature drop) beforehand and we were waiting for it," said DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck. "We sent the sanders out around 5 p.m. and got the salt and sand on before it was frozen over."

All six of the town's sanders went out and completed their routes in three to four hours, according to Tonaszuck. A 3-to-1 mixture of sand to salt was used.

In another storm-related incident in nearby Medford, a man was killed in a car accident around 4 a.m. on South Border road.

Confidentiality questioned

School board denies request for release of student names

The school board Monday night unanimously turned down a request for the release of the names and addresses of students and their parents at the Vinson-Owen School.

The request was made by V-O parent Fischer Black, who said he wanted the list to print up a directory for use by V-O parents. Black appeared before the school committee Monday to plead his case.

The proposal has stirred up some ill feelings among V-O parents and school administrators. The controversy focuses on the issue of the confidentiality of student records, which is closely guarded by state law and a set of regulations set out by the state board of education.

The debate began last spring, when Black and his wife approached the V-O Parents' Association and asked them to survey parents to see if they would be interested in a V-O directory.

The governing board of the parents' association unanimously voted down the proposal. Black called the board's vote "surprising" and noted that the forms he and his wife had prepared for the survey would have allowed any parent to refuse to give out the information.

A summary of the state regulations pertaining to student records, distributed by Black at Monday's meeting, states:

"With a few exceptions, no individuals or organizations but the parent, student, and school personnel working directly with the student are allowed to have access to information in the student record without the specific, informed, written consent of the parent or student."

Black argued that with the use of the forms he had prepared, "all applicable laws would have been satisfied." He added that the information may also come under state laws regarding access to public records. He said he had gotten an opinion from Town Counsel Douglas Randall that the information he was requesting was indeed public record. Black said, "I believe the public records law would take precedent" over the board of education's regulations.

Speaking in defense of the board of the V-O Parents' Association, Marueen Abate (a past president of the board) said the board voted against the request for reasons of "privacy and security."

She added that another reason the board opposed the request was that the forms prepared by the Blacks indicated the request for the information was coming from the board itself rather than from Mr. and Mrs. Black.

Last fall, the Blacks went to an open house at V-O and gathered signatures from parents to see how many would like to have a directory of students and parents. Black reported that he and his wife gathered signatures in support of their idea from "a majority of V-O families."

The Blacks then went back to the parents' association board and showed them the results of their survey. Mrs. Black was then

School committee notes

Long range planning

Supt. William MacDonald has gathered together the members of a long range planning committee to study the various proposals for reorganizations of Winchester's school system. The group held their organizational meeting yesterday.

The committee has 25 members, including MacDonald and:

From the administration, principals Vincent Larocco, Joseph Forle, George Flynn, and Robert Forest, Asst. Supt. Walter Gleason, and Data Processor Arthur Sarno.

From the teachers, chosen by the WEA: teachers Helen Clark from the Washington School, Lawrence Watts from McCall, and Lou Ricci from Lincoln.

From the finance committee, Chairman Alice Mirak.

From the Community School Association, Chairman Elaine Elio.

From the various parent associations, Frances Haley (high school), Carolyn Gunby (Lynch), Jean Donahue (McCall), Mary Williamson (Ambrose), Noreen Arcari (Lincoln), Sue Taylor (Muraco), Mary Skates (Mystic), Diane Plunkett (Noonan), Rita Mawn Parkhurst, Diana Svahn (Vinson-town), and Mary O'Callaghan and Francis Golden Jr. (Washington).

And one at large member, Charles Craven.

The school board also urged MacDonald to include a representative from Town Hall.

The group will be investigating the costs and other details of the various reorganization proposals. MacDonald said they would shoot for a mid-February deadline on their study, adding, "I would be extremely surprised if out of the four or five proposals there aren't two that show up as the best choices."

He emphasized, however, that his committee would avoid a specific recommendation and leave the deciding up to the school committee.

The task force meetings will be open to the public and open to public input.

Speaking of public input, there has been little since the reorganization plans were announced, and it's making some of the school committee a bit nervous.

Connie Papas said she was disturbed at the lack of response and urged the task force to get as much input as possible "before we get too far down the road."

With tongue in cheek, Jack Noble had this to say about the lack of response: "I think it's a vote of confidence."

Dick Holland picked up the humor ball while discussing deadlines for the task force's report.

"May I suggest the ideas of March?"

"I think that's a little too late," replied Bob Frank.

Dr. Gleason to retire

Dr. Walter Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum, has announced his intention to retire, effective July 1, 1981.

Supt. MacDonald requested that longevity payments, which will begin next year for Dr. Gleason, be raised from $750 to $1000. The increase would apply to all central office personnel.

Dr. Gleason has been with the system for more than a dozen years, and the committee accepted his resignation "with regret and gratitude for all he has done for the system."

Jack Noble said to Gleason, "The schools are gonna be at a loss, but you'll be a hell of a lot better off in three years once you get out of this nuthouse."

The board voted unanimously to accept the resignation and increase the longevity stipend.

Central office raises

At the superintendent's recommendation, the committee unanimously approved raises for Asst. Supt. for Administration Jack Fallon and Special Education Director Frank Bianco.

Fallon's salary will go up by $1000; Bianco will receive a five percent increase. Along with other administrators, both men have taken on increased responsibilities due to cutbacks in the central office staff.

Chairman Bob Frank noted MacDonald has not recommended an increase in his own salary. The approved increases have already been figured into the proposed FY1979 school budget.

Department heads gave of their time to comment on and explain the existing curriculum in their specific departments during a three part program entitled "Curriculum — Strengths and Weaknesses" sponsored by the Community School Association. Speakers at part two, Nov. 10, are shown from left, Francis X. Finigan, director of science; Frances Russell, director of English; and John Waite, director of math.

Parents invited to CSA program on curriculum

Parents are once again invited to attend the third and final part of the program, "Curriculum: Strengths and Weaknesses" held by the Community School Association Jan. 12, 9:15 a.m. at Vinson-Owen School.

The director of music, Burton Cowgill and the director of art, Thomas Tracy will be present to explain the curriculum in their departments.

Deadlines

Deadlines for The Winchester Star are as follows: 3 p.m. Mondays for news copy and pictures; 4 p.m. Tuesdays for classified ads; and 5 p.m. Tuesdays for display ads.

on the board. Another vote was taken, and the request for a formal survey of V-O parents was again turned down, this time by a 14-2 vote.

"We began to get the feeling that the board was not being responsive to the parents," commented Black.

Three members of the V-O parents group said Monday that there had been much confusion at the open house as to the purpose of the survey conducted by the Blacks. Both Mrs. Abale and parent Diana Burchfiel said they opposed the request for the information but signed the survey at the open house because they did not know what it was all about.

Clare Corcoran, principal at V-O, agreed that there was much confusion at the open house as to what the survey was for. She also defended the decisions made by the parents' association board.

"For a year and a half I have had nothing but personal harassment and difficulty doing my job," said Dr. Corcoran, referring to frequent contacts with the Blacks. She said that when she was first approached by Mrs. Black about the request for the information, she replied that she did not have the authority to release the information. At the time she referred the matter to Superintendent William MacDonald, who in turn passed the matter to the parents' board.

Mrs. Burchfiel said the board was never told why the information was being requested. The only reason she remembered hearing was "to facilitate making out birthday party guest lists."

Expressing his own frustration at the length of time the issue has gone unresolved, Supt. MacDonald said, "I think there is a more productive way that Clare Corcoran and I can spend our days than on the time spent on this over the past few months." He noted that requests come in all the time for similar information from commercial representatives and concluded, "I feel I have a responsibility as a superintendent to see that the kids and their parents have some security."

School board Chairman Robert Frank commented that it was not up to the school committee to determine the validity of the state board's regulations.

"I'm persuaded that the V-O board is an elected board and is representative of the parents," school committee member Heinrich Holland told Black.

The school committee denied Black's request. They also directed the superintendent to come up with a proposal whereby the committee could ask parents permission to use student names in releasing such information as honor roll lists and lists connected with other student activities.

★ Curb cuts

the town council agreed that they did in fact come under Chapter 528.

"At the latter part of 1976, we got a new person as director of public works, Mr. Walter Tonaszuck. His position was that since the violation occurred before he took office, they were not his responsibility. He felt particularly adamant about one piece of sidewalk work in the center of town which had just been completed (at McCormack's Pharmacy) during his tenure. His position on this particular piece of work was that although it definitely came under Chapter 528, it had just been completed and would not be rectified."

After some encouragement from the Attorney General's office, the town has now agreed to schedule the cuts in front of McCormack's this spring.

The town has not been willing to concede on any of the other locations, which now number 11 in all. Six of the violations brought before the ABB and the Attorney General's office were along Cambridge street, a state road, and therefore came under state jurisdiction. The sidewalk work done at these six locations was performed by Boston Edison.

Dwight Golann of the civil rights division of the Attorney General's office, who has been in charge of the investigation, said his office will "pursue inquiries" regarding those six locations.

In a letter to Town Manager Groux dated Dec. 19, 1977, Golann indicates that the other cuts should be made and asks the town to set a timetable for the work. After a description of the various locations and the circumstances surrounding each violation, Golann states:

"Although I thought our telephone conversation on Nov. 23 was helpful, I must make it clear that it is the board's (the ABB's) position that any belief by prior administrators of the town that wheelchair ramps were not required so long as reconstruction did not affect the curb itself, or that the town did not have the responsibility of insuring compliance on projects done with state funds or under state 'supervision,' does not mean that the town need not comply with board regulations or remedy violations at this time."

Besides the six locations on Cambridge street and the corner by McCormack's, Golann's letter cites the following locations: Main street and Chardon road, Park street and Elmwood avenue, Skillings road and Washington street, and Shore road next to the Purity Supreme market.

Asked about the letter from Golann, Groux responded, "The only positive thing I can say for sure is that we will be scheduling work in the spring to install the cuts at the drug store (McCormack's) in the center." Groux said he had referred the other work to DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck and Town Engineer Jake Giarcia. He confirmed that the work will not be done before spring. However, he did not indicate that he felt the town responsible for the other cuts mentioned by Golann.

Golann said Tuesday he had not heard as of yet from the town. "We are expecting a response from the town within the next few days," Golann said. "If we don't get a response within the next few days, we will give them a date certain by which to comply with the regulations."

Golann added that if the town is unwilling to make the cuts, "then I guess we don't have any alternative but to bring suit."

No parking on south side of Raymond place

The problem of parking on Raymond place, which has been a heated topic around town for several weeks, apparently has been resolved. The new traffic advisory committee has recommended that there be no parking on the south side at any time.

Residents at the selectmen's meeting Monday night agreed that this restriction was a "good first step" in eliminating problems which have arisen primarily because of activity at the Christopher Columbus Club on Raymond place.

The part of the street to be restricted runs from Florence street to Chester street.

Giustino Baldacci, 4 Raymond pl., was not present at the meeting but sent a letter to selectmen outlining his suggestions. Among his recommendations was educating the Christopher Columbus Club to the parking situation. Anthony Ciruso, president of the club, responded at the meeting that he had posted parking suggestions inside the clubhouse and had opened the back of the property for parking during club events.

Baldacci further said that he was opposed to any parking restrictions on the street.

Domenic Fazio, 19 Columbus rd., complained that the police department safety officer had not contacted him, or other abutters, about possible parking restrictions.

The original police department recommendation would have taken 15 parking spaces from Raymond place. Under the new recommendation from the traffic advisory committee, there will be a reduction of nine spaces.

Local senators plan meeting with children's council

Senators Samuel Rotondi and Carol Amick will be on hand Jan. 19 at the monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Mystic Valley Council for Children.

The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in Winchester, will focus on the up-coming reorganization of children's services in Massachusetts.

The presentation of reorganization issues will include a discussion of "The Children's Puzzle," a report prepared by David Sheehan of the UMass Institute for Intergovernmental Studies for Rep. John J. Finnegan, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee; "Principles and Recommendations for the Reorganization of Children and Family Services," a report prepared by the Office for Children Statewide Advisory Council; and a description of the legislative process as it pertains to children's legislation by Senators Amick and Rotondi.

The public is invited to the meeting to hear about the proposed reorganization and meet the members of the Mystic Valley Council for Children. For further information, contact the council at 729-4350.

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

Disposing of a building

Several weeks ago the school committee asked the board of selectmen which school would be the best one to close in terms of disposal of the building.

It is up to the selectmen to dispose of a school building if one is declared surplus by the school department.

This request was in preparation for the school department's own discussions about which, if any, school could or should be closed.

In the case of the Wyman School, which closed officially last August amidst much protest by parents, the board decided to lease the building yearly to the Bartlett School, a private school based in Arlington. That lease is due for renewal this month, but so far the Bartlett School has not indicated a preference for staying in the building.

Now the question comes up about a second school closing, perhaps this year. There are a couple of choices here. Parkhurst, Noonan, Washington, Ambrose, and Lincoln are all up for discussion.

The selectmen took what we think is a very good and cautious stand in their deliberations this week.

As the board sees it, there are three important steps for them to follow through on before stating publicly which school they could most easily dispose of.

1. Look at zoning restrictions which may have an effect on the future use of a school. Could there be apartments or town offices or a shopping mall?

2. Have a professional evaluation of the worth of the building and its property. Is it worth anything to the town? To a developer?

3. Consult an architect to see if renovations needed to convert a building to another use are worth the cost involved. How much would it cost to make a civic center? Apartments? Office space?

We commend the board on this cautious approach to a delicate subject.

At the same time we commend the school committee for coming out of a parochial shell to look at the town as a whole.

Educationally it should matter not a whit whether a school building will be used as office space or a recreation center. It is good, however, for the school committee to bear in the back of its collective mind what could happen to a school building they close.

After looking at population trends, maintenance costs, education rationale and everything else they are elected to look at, then, and only then, we might add, should the school committee say, "Now if we close school A, what will happen to the building? Would it serve the town better to close school B, everything else being equal?"

There is a lot to think about and we are glad to see some exchange of thoughts between these two important boards. — KLF-WF

Pipes need lining

It seems that there may be periodic violations of the Safe Drinking Water Act in Winchester as long as antique pipes running under our town continue to be unlined and un-replaced.

One day in early December and then again last week a routine bacteria count from two water samples showed coliform growth.

Town officials apparently learned quite a lesson after the September fiasco and the communication between town departments and the state was kept smooth and clear. Chlorine was immediately increased in the drinking water supply and the next day samples showed no bacteria growth.

Selectmen took steps to notify the public in the event the second day sampling showed up positive. The board of health was on top of things the department of public works knew what to do.

While the officials responded efficiently and immediately, the question of the source of the contamination remains with the town.

The town manager has included in this year's budget, a capital plan for surveying and re-lining water pipes, some of which were installed in 1909.

Until that plan is carried out, it looks as though we may be subject to these sporadic outbreaks of coliform development. The buildup in the pipes is a grand breeding ground.

We urge the town meeting to support the town manager in his undertaking. And we hope the town officials will continue to be vigilant and communicative when this problem comes up again. — KLF-WF

Letters from readers

Outraged

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

On Dec. 12, 1977, the board of selectmen voted unanimously to accept a memo drafted by the town purchasing agent, who is also the assistant town manager, regarding increased ambulance fees. I have a copy of the minutes of the above-mentioned meeting and also, a copy of James Vanar's memo concerning the ambulance fees plus the cost of services which services have already been budgeted. Furthermore, Mr. Vanar suggests in his memo, a yearly increase in ambulance fees!

Space does not permit me to incorporate a copy of this memo in this letter. However, Mr. Vanar is addressing himself to a would-be savings to the taxpayers of this town, the paltry sum of $2610. for 1977 or some $3900 for 1978.

On Dec. 16, 1977 I spent about 20 minutes with Mr. Vanar, the assistant town manager, regarding his memo. I asked him some pointed, precise and direct questions regarding insurance coverage for the unfortunate patients using the town ambulance. Some of the questions and answers were as follows:

1) What percentage of these runs were for heart cases? Answer: "I don't know."

2) What number of people using the ambulance service were over 65 years? Answer: "I don't know."

3) Do you do any research with insurance companies as to ambulance insurance coverage? Answer: "No."

4) What percentage of these patients were covered by Medicare-Medicaid? Answer: "I don't know."

5) Did you check with other communities? Answer: "No."

Many other questions were asked and Mr. Vanar's answers were the same. It is evident that he failed miserably to do his homework.

I have discussed this matter with some other citizens of Winchester and some town meeting members who are outraged by this action. The consensus is that there should be no charge for ambulance service.

Mr. Vanar speaks of subsidizing insurance companies. This is not true. Insurance premiums are based on overall cost of services rendered.

I will sponsor an article on this issue in the town warrant for the spring town meeting where it should be thoroughly debated so that the town meeting members can decide.

Dog licenses

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

At various times during the year, The Star has published notices about the number of people who have failed to license their dog(s).

I am surprised that this would happen in a town whose residents are generally affluent and well informed.

The booklet, "Laws Relating to Dogs", spells out the laws on dog licensing, very specifically, those laws "on the books" so to speak.

What many people don't realize is that a collar and license tag are not only required by law, but are actually a protection for their dog. A collar and tag could save your pet's life!

They furnish vital information and identification if your dog should get out, wander off, and get lost.

The finder has only to call the police or dog officer of the town named on the tag, and the dog can be safely home within a short time.

Without that tag, and in a strange town, your pet is an unknown, "unlicensed stray", even though his collar and tag and license are there in your home. The point is, the collar and tag are supposed to be on the dog, not on the hall table.

Don't take the collar off at night, thinking your dog might be more comfortable. It could get out without it, when the kids dash off to school in the morning, and the results could be serious.

The collar and tag on your dog also protect it from theft, because the "dog laws" booklet says, specifically, that anyone who removes your dog's collar, harness, or tags, can be fined $100.

The three dollar license fee plus the one dollar assessed by the town - for a male, and six dollars, plus one dollar, for an unspayed female, are not too much to pay for your pet's identification and security, not to mention the legal establishment of your ownership of that dog.

How would you have liked to pay a license fee of $10 for an unneutered male or unspayed female?

That was part and parcel of a very bad bill - 39 pages in all - filed as a final report by the Special Commission on Dog and Cat Laws (to make a long name short). That bill, S. 1484, "died" at the end of the 1977 legislative session, but only after my husband, son, and I spent the entire year fighting it a year that could have been spent, instead, in finishing our history of Boston's Old West End, or doing a host of other important things. We were helped, at all times, by Dorothy Checchi O'Brien of Plymouth, and by the dog officers, notably the Massachusetts Police K-9 Officers Association, who worked incessantly to beat this anti-pet owners' bill. The three of us here had to attend hearing after hearing, conferences, meetings, and had to go to the State House at least twice a week, even during three months at the beach, which "took care" of our "vacation." The remainder of the time was spent calling or writing everyone we could think of, for support in fighting this sinister bill, which was aimed at putting all "animal control" under the department of agriculture (Mass.) and away from local, town or city control.

It was a desperate battle for the rights of pet owners, and, strangely enough, known only to the legislature and those involved, pro or con.

So, thank you lucky stars, and the Good Guys in the legislature, the dog officers, and the rest of us who killed S. 1484.

Be thankful that the license fee for your dog remains the same, and RUN, don't walk, to the Town Hall and get that important, life-saving tag for your pet!

January thaw

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

There is an extremely high wind blowing from the south this morning. A heavy rain is falling and the lights have gone off some time ago. I can see, but it is too dark to read.

As I sit here in the sun-room the picture window with the southern exposure is partly opaque with spattered rain drops, merging and sliding slowly down the glass.

The wind seems to come in gusts. At times the twigs, branches, and even the trunks of the trees outside my windows weave and writhe as though they were in agony. At other moments they stand quiescent and seem to rest and gather strength against another onslaught.

One of my birdfeeders hangs from a wire stretched from an accessible window ledge on a long slant upward to the trunk of a sugar maple maybe 20 feet above the ground. Even at this height, the trunk is about 18 inches through, but the stronger gusts move it so that the wire alternately slackens and tightens as the tree flexes and re-flexes, causing the feeder to bob and roll as though it were floating in a rough sea.

Only two small birds have ventured out, so far, this morning, a pair of sooties and purple finches. These have preferred the stable platform feeder to the hanging one this turbulent morning.

A grey squirrel, drenched to the skin, just hurried up the trunk of the maple and on through the adjacent flowering crab to the row of spruces.

He is going somewhere on an urgent mission, and he favors the aerial route wherever possible and only runs across the bare ground where the space is open and there are no trees.

The weather during this storm is unseasonably warm, as well as wet, and the snow is gone except for a few drifts. Maybe this is our "January thaw", come early this year? Perhaps we will have to pay for it later!

Town Watch...

Archival center reopens

By The Observer

After several months, the Winchester Archival Center is finally open on a specific schedule at 15 High St.

The hours are Tuesday and Thursday 2-5 and Thursday 7-9.

Many new projects are about to begin and the center is looking for volunteer assistance. Townspeople can lend a hand with typing, filing, indexing, and cataloging. Some of the projects require special skills such as carpentry and printing experience, while others require outdoor work or work at the library or in Boston. Most of the projects can be done at the center or in the volunteer's own home.

Archivist Ed Galvin would very much like to hear from Winchester history buffs who could help out in a most worthy undertaking. Call him at 729-3063.

John Brown Associates has been working on a parking study for the planning board and has sent along some recommendations in a many-paged document.

Selectmen have received the information and passed it to the traffic advisory committee for their assistance before taking any action on it.

Here are some of the recommendations which John Brown thinks will benefit the town:

Improve pedestrian access to and amenities at some of the existing public parking facilities. Among these amenities are landscaping, lighting, signing, and other urban design improvements.

Change some unmetered parking to metered parking. Specifically, meter the 22 spaces in the lot between Winchester place and Shore road and the 74 spaces in the lot between Winchester place and Aberjona river.

John Brown would also suggest reducing the parking time in the Waterfield-Rangeley lot from four hours to two or three hours.

Other ways of increasing turnover and discouraging meter-feeding include metering some now un-metered parking spaces. There are 28 spaces at the end of Shore road and 16 along the Mystic Valley parkway. John Brown also suggests urging police to clamp down on merchants and workers who feed meters in the center.

There are two town committees which have vacancies waiting to be filled...and waiting...and waiting.

The last session of town meeting formed the committee on names and the student government day committee. Each committee posted its vacancies in the beginning of December but so far not one person has offered to serve.

Again, we repeat the openings in the hopes that some concerned townspeople will volunteer.

Public members are needed to advise, plan, and hold a student government day in Winchester. The committee would be formed on a yearly basis.

Two public members are needed for seats on the committee on names, charged with naming public facilities in town. This too is a one-year-at-a-time deal.

How about it? Send letters of interest and qualifications to the town manager's office.

In the mood ...

Oh it was a show

By Karen Whitlesey-First

My grandmother taught in a turn-of-the-century one-room schoolhouse in Pennsylvania.

She raised two children, one of them my father, lost her husband the year before I was born, and continued to live in Pennsylvania.

She liked to travel and recalled until her death some years ago how she took the steamship to Europe. That was in the days when traveling to Europe took more than three hours and when one dressed for dinner.

My father continued to live in Erie, Pennsylvania, until the urgency of New York City, its excitement and smells, its art, its theatre, its architecture, its nine million people, called him to move. And so from the time I was six until my marriage thirteen years ago, I considered myself a New Yorker.

And like the yearly skating at Wollman Memorial skating rink in Central Park, like the enormous balloons which appeared every year in the Macy's Thanksgiving parade, the winter holidays brought a visit from my grandmother.

She came at Thanksgiving and usually worked in Lord and Taylor's during the holidays. She stayed until Easter.

And every year, like the precision movements of the animated mice in the Fifth Avenue shop windows at Christmas, my grandmother took me to Radio City Music Hall for the Easter show.

Sometimes it was cold - oh very cold - and we would have to stand in line for a few blocks, rubbing our hands and jumping up and down, up and down, to keep warm. No one minded.

Sometimes we looked in the shop windows while we slowly moved inch by inch closer to the Art Deco palace where wondrous shows appeared on stage and schmalzy movies lit up the screen. Once there was what I thought was a pretty silly-looking hat in one of the shop windows. The week after the show at Radio City, my grandmother came home wearing that hat.

I don't know now how good the stage show was, but then I thought it was pretty good. My grandmother loved the Rockettes, all the same height, all the same long legs, all the same smiles.

We listened to the organ and laughed at the comedians. Oh it was a show. And then we sat quietly but twitching a little bit in our seats as the house lights went down and the movie started.

It was always a "family" movie. None of those French imports. Anyone's grandmother, or child, could enjoy the wholesomeness of American Life portrayed on the silver screen. Or the fantasy of it.

I guess that's the problem.

They say now that this year's Easter show at Radio City will be the last. They say nobody wants the family movies or the Rockettes.

They say for God's sake, we need another shopping mall. Radio City Music Hall will die.

Oh how my grandmother and I would cry.

Bay State roll call

December 12-16

The House. The House held 25 roll calls during the week, making the total thus far 720. The roll call records eight key issues and local representatives' votes on them.

Binon Resolution — House passed 138-79, but fell seven votes short of the two-thirds vote necessary to suspend rules to allow consideration of resolutions urging Chief Justice Robert Binon to suspend performance of his official duties. Binon is being investigated following revelations that his wife had the free use of a car whose leasing fee was paid by an insurance agency from which Binon also received a $1,000 monthly fee while he served as first assistant attorney general.

Rep. Sherman W. Saltmarsh voted against suspending the rules.

House sessions — House first barely defeated 121-107, and then crushed 133-58, another move to suspend rules — this one to allow House consideration of an order requiring the House to meet Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. and to meet continuously each of those days until it has acted on all matters before it.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted first in favor of, then against rules suspension.

Adjourn roll calls — House defeated 214-12, another attempt to suspend rules — this one to allow consideration of an order requiring a roll call vote on any motion made to adjourn a formal session of the House for the remainder of the 1977 legislative year.

Rep. Saltmarsh opposed the measure.

Bill discharge — House defeated 176-47 an attempt to suspend rules to allow consideration of an order to reform a House rule regarding discharge of bills from the House Ways & Means or Counties Committee. Under present rules, any motion made within 45 days of a bill's referral to either committee to force the bill onto the House floor, requires a two-thirds vote, while any motion made after 45 days requires only a majority vote. The order would amend the rule to retain the two-thirds requirement within 45 days, but to then require any bill held more than 45 days to be automatically released with an adverse report. The amendment also allows bills to be recommitment to either committee for 15 days.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the rules suspension.

Audit Jobs (H6573) — House easily overrode 196-13 another Gov. Dukakis veto of a measure placing bureau of welfare auditing employees under Civil Service, but also allowing employees appointed before Sept. 22, 1976 to bypass any Civil Service requirements and become permanent employees.

Rep. Saltmarsh supported the bill and voted to override the veto.

Tax deposits (H4573) — House approved 195-28, a bill requiring banks to pay interest, at a rate equal to 80 percent of the highest interest rate allowed on regular savings

(Roll call, page 5)

Part II: The present

State regulations, parking complicate hospital problems

(This is the second in a three-part series prepared by Winchester Hospital on the proposed consolidation of Winchester, Choate Memorial and Symmes Hospitals. Part II explores the factors both past and present that have led to the consideration of consolidation by Winchester.)

By 1917, a scant five years after its founding, Winchester Hospital had doubled in size and was already overcrowded, and in 1924 a successful drive was organized to raise a quarter of a million dollars for an addition to the hospital.

While the founding ladies had the satisfaction, during their lifetime, of seeing their cottage hospital expand to meet the demand for its services, forces were already at work and would develop in the next few decades which would require an expansion and growth beyond the expectations of any one of the hospital's founders.

By the early 1960's two major factors had already had a marked impact on the hospital's facilities. The post war shift of the population from the urban to the suburban areas had created a burgeoning service area with more people who would need hospitalization. Added to the increase in the population of the towns surrounding Winchester was the fact that virtually four out of five area residents had some form of hospitalization insurance coverage and had already developed a pattern of using the insurance protection they were paying for.

By this time also, minor forces were contributing to the heavy demand on the hospital's services. The decades following World War II saw a gradual but steady decline in the number of general practitioners among the area physicians and a corresponding increase in the number of specialty fields elected by new physicians and surgeons. House calls by physicians were quickly becoming a thing of the past and, with at least one and more often two cars parked in the family driveway, it was easier and faster to drive to the Hospital's emergency room for medical help.

New medical techniques in the treatment and care of heart disease, cancer, stroke and other major illnesses had produced specialized, sophisticated equipment that required installation in the hospital with specially trained technicians to operate it. More and more patients were now being referred to the hospital by the physician-specialist for both in-patient and out-patient testing and diagnoses and, while these may not have required formal hospitalization, they placed an unprecedented demand not only on the hospital's parking facilities but on the specialized departments involved in the medical services required.

By the late 1960s and early '70s, if a hospital had not already faced the seemingly insoluble problem of adequate parking, it was more through good luck than management. Hospitals in the city found themselves forced to tear down newly-acquired or older hospital-owned properties and construct either parking garages or surface parking for use by employees, visitors and patients. Those hospitals in the suburbs with adequate expansion space for parking were in the minority and enviously regarded by their fellow institutions. The majority were operating on the limited acreage they had had since their founding and were hemmed in on all sides by housing that had grown by leaps and bounds in the post-war years. Winchester Hospital was one of these.

State and federal agencies with regulatory power over hospitals, virtually unheard of before World War II, had now multiplied, seemingly by cell division, with the advent of the government's programs of Medicare and Medicaid in the mid-sixties. Two statutes enacted in the first half of the '70s evidenced the increasing power of the state and federal government in the health care field. In 1971 the Massachusetts Department of Public Health was granted the authority to approve or disapprove a hospital's ability to expand, renovate or develop new services or programs if the expenditure involved was $100,000, or over, without first filing and receiving approval for a Determination of Need certificate. Three years later, in 1974, Public Law 93-641 was passed by Congress mandating (among its many other provisions) the Certificate of Need program for all states.

The net effect of the Determination of Need statute has been to put a brake on plans by the hospitals in the state to solve the problem of already tight space, overcrowding and the parking problem.

Faced with these problems, in one degree or another over the past 10 years, Winchester, Choate Memorial and Symmes Hospitals had independently developed plans to expand their facilities at a projected total cost to the three hospitals of $22 million.

Recognizing the restrictive climate generated by the state and federal governments' concern for the escalating cost of health care and their determination to eliminate the possibility of duplication of services by hospitals with adjoining service areas, Winchester, Choate and Symmes withheld their individual applications for a certificate of need and decided to explore further the feasibility of consolidation of the three hospitals. The consultant firm of Block, McGibony and Associates was hired by the three institutions to study the question and make its recommendations. The result of the consulting firm's studies, conducted over a period of almost a year, has been the recommendation that the three member hospitals consolidate and that a new central facility be constructed replacing the three present hospitals.

'Rec Nite' opens Saturday at Lincoln School

Saturday at the Lincoln School from 7:30-11 p.m. the Winchester Recreation Department, with financial support from Rotary will begin its plans to put Rec Nite into operation.

The Rec Nite will be chaperoned by two college seniors and recreation co-ordinator Jerry Ferro. The program will be for students in grades 10-12 only.

Activities that will be available to the students at the Rec Nite are: ping pong, card games, table games, a movie and good music, and just a place to talk and keep warm. This program will be run every Saturday evening with the only exception being when a dance is held.

It is hoped that the students will use the Rec Nite to its fullest advantage and with the right frame of mind.

Barry retires from electric industry

Jack Barry is retiring after 53 years in the electrical industry, most recently as director of Boston-based Electrical Institute.

Before joining that firm he was with Boston Edison for 42 years. He attended Northeastern University and studied electrical engineering there, going from school to a job with Boston Edison, where he had done student intern work.

During the War, Barry served as a commander in the navy in Bath, Maine. After the War he married Ruth Hayes of Peabody. They have two sons, Peter of Holyoke and Jay of Manchester.

Percuoco retires after 31 years with the IRS

G.S. Percuoco has retired from the Internal Revenue Service after more than 31 years.

In recognition of his employment, Percuoco was awarded the Albert Gallatin Award for honorable and meritorious service.

Percuoco is the son of Mrs. Teresa Percuoco, and brother of Mrs. James Juliano, Mrs. Anthony K. Paone of Winchester, Paul and Anthony Percuoco of Arlington, and Mrs. Frank Tavano of Wakefield.

Lions Clubs in Winchester and other area towns are part of a District 33-N Lions-CARE program in Massachusetts which will help to build two schools in Honduras in cooperation with the intergovernmental agency CARE.

Under the leadership of District Governor Douglas Raymond of Topsfield and District CARE Chairman Robert Smith of Peabody, the Lions have set a goal of $2,851.00 to be raised before June 1978.

Funds will be donated to CARE and used to construct an 8-room school for 360 students in San Pedro Sula and a 2-room school for 48 students in Choloma.

Derro constructing building in Woburn

Thomas F. Derro of M & T Realty recently announced plans to develop a 30,000 square foot multi-tenant incubator building at 300 Salem st. in Woburn. Construction for the building is scheduled to begin early this spring with occupancy scheduled for mid-summer. Mr. Derro has developed a number of industrial buildings in Woburn which are currently fully tenanted.

Derro has appointed the John E. Begley Co., Inc., of 53 State street, Boston as exclusive leasing agents for the building.

Local men buy insurance firm

Four long-time employees of The Francis H. Curtin Insurance Agency, Inc. of Cambridge have bought the agency.

John J. Curtin Jr. of Winchester will become president of the agency, a position his father held for more than 20 years. Joseph F. Sullivan, also of Winchester, will become vice-president and manager of insurance marketing. The other two buyers are Richard F. Caruso of Acton and Robert E. Howe of Concord.

Desrochers named Air Force sergeant

Steven E. Desrochers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Normand Desrochers of 11 Forest cir. has been appointed to non-commissioned officer (NCO) status in the U.S. Air Force. Sergeant Desrochers is a munitions maintenance specialist at Clark AB, Philippines. He entered the Air Force in March, 1974.

Gustave F. Wunder of Winchester was appointed senior vice president of the Badger Company Inc., a division of Raytheon in Cambridge. Wunder is responsible for Badger's Western European operations; he was formerly managing director of Badger Ltd., in London. He lives with his wife and their four sons in Winchester.

Sons of Italy gives $200 for leukemia

The Winchester Sons of Italy donated $200 to the leukemia telethon on January 8.

Venerable Gus Baldacci, on behalf of the SOI bingo committee, made the pledge. There are 21 members of a committee, with Bob Fiore as director, who set up the SOI hall every Tuesday putting out chairs, tables, and cards, in anticipation of the Wednesday night bingo.

Woburn attorney talks on new act

At the monthly meeting of the Fourth Middlesex Bar Association, held Jan. 4, at the Woburn Court House, Attorney Fred Pacione of 44 Pleasant st., Woburn spoke on the new Uniform Probate Act. Attorney Pacione was formerly an attorney for the Internal Revenue Service (Estate and Gift Tax) in Boston, Mass.

The Uniform Probate Act goes into effect this year. The subject matter is of vital importance to the practitioner of law in the handling of probate matters.

CHLORINE HERO or VILLAIN?

Chlorine has served Americans well in the last 70 years of killing harmful bacteria in water to prevent water born diseases like typhoid and cholera. Chlorine has done a good job because it is such a powerful chemical. The big drawback to a chlorine water works system is that we must also drink this powerful chemical. It is now the opinion that drinking chlorinated tap water is causing more health problems than it has cured. The evidence is mounting so fast that it isn't a question of whether chlorine is harmful but how much damage it is really doing?

Without the use of chlorine, Americans would have built up an immunity to bacteria. When the chlorine is added to the water, the opposite holds true. The chlorine not only kills the bacteria in the water but it also kills needed bacteria in the body breaking down its resistance to bacteria. This undermining of the body resistance to bacteria could cause common germs and bacteria to attack much easier inviting unnecessary illness.

There is no question that many toxic chemicals in our environment are playing a major role on our health today, but there are few chemicals as powerful and potent as chlorine and yet we drink it directly in our tap water every day.

If our Government insists that chlorinating tap water is safer than without it, why can't we strike the happy medium—add the chlorine to kill the bacteria but remove the chlorine just before we drink the water. This perfect combination would give us the benefits of chlorine's power without its powerful effect on humans.

New water filtering devices can now do this very thing. Newly designed home Water Purifiers are made to remove all of the chlorine in tap water along with its by-product - carcinogenic chloroform.

This unique method of removing chlorine and other toxic impurities in tap water is a major breakthrough in water treatment. This system is so effective that some day it will be mandatory by the Government because our Water Works cannot provide clean safe drinking water that is chlorine free.

Today the emphasis to good health is on the prevention than on the cure. There is no better way to start this prevention than drinking clean chemically free water for good health starts with clean water. Our earth is a water planet and man is mostly made of water so the kind of water we consume makes the important difference. Remember we are what we eat and drink.

The transmission of illnesses is from 3 sources - air, food and water. Of these 3, water is by far the worst offender. If all 3 sources were considered equal, drinking clean water could improve one's health 33%. The real figure is more like 70%.

Chlorine was considered a hero until the EPA discovered that it is also a villain. Today there is a new hero that can filter out this villain - chlorine in tap water.

The self-sanitizing Multi Pure Water Purifier can effectively remove all bad tastes and odor in tap water by filtering out the many impurities that are causing these bad tastes and odors.

Filtering out these harmful impurities makes much more sense than drinking them for most impurities in tap water are accumulative. Long term build ups of these impurities are causing premature aging.

Many homes have installed a burglar alarm system to protect their valuable possessions while the most needed appliance in the 70's is really a home Water Purifier for it protects the most precious possession we have - our health.

All makes of Water Purifiers are registered with the EPA in Washington and one of the EPA's slogans is appropriate for Water Purifiers.

IT'S TIME FOR THE PEOPLE WHO TALK ABOUT POLLUTION TO JOIN THE PEOPLE WHO DO THINGS ABOUT POLLUTION.

The Portable units for apartments are $129.95.

The Permanent large size units for homes are $179.95.

Risk of death lessens when smokers quit

By Ms. Phyllis Estabrook
Winchester Campaign Committee

People who have smoked for a long time tend to feel that the damage already has been done and that it is pointless to quit.

Not so! The American Heart Association says that the smoker who quits eventually lowers the risk of death from heart attack until it is nearly as low as the risk of a person who never has smoked.

What may have started out as a youthful exercise in self-expression has become a primary health hazard for smokers of all ages.

A man who smokes more than one pack of cigarettes a day has nearly twice the risk of heart attack than a non-smoker.

Never was nature more forgiving of abuse than through the regenerative process which restores to good health the smokers who takes a look at the odds — and gets out of the smoking game.

Heed this advice from the American Heart Association.

Help fight heart disease, the nations' No. 1 killer, by supporting your merchants on February 11. Winchester Merchants Heart Fund Saturday. "We're fighting for your life."

Bay State roll call

accounts, on all deposits held in escrow accounts for real estate taxes.

Rep. Saltmarsh opposed this measure.

Trust companies (H669) — House gave initial approval 119-85 to a bill allowing trust companies to open branch offices outside of their home-based counties, only had not closed down any of their other branches in the preceding two years.

Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

The Senate. The Senate held 18 roll calls during the week, raising the December total to 359.

Abortion vetoes (H6596) — Senate passed 22-16, 21-16, 22-16, and 22-16, but fell short of the necessary two-thirds vote necessary in each case to override the Governor's veto of anti-abortion amendments to the 1977 supplementary budget.

The amendments outlaw public funded abortions for Medicaid recipients, state workers, teachers, and legislators, and Governor Dukakis vetoed the amendments after a Supreme Judicial Court decision advising him he could veto them and still sign the budget which included the state workers' long overdue pay raise.

Sen. Rotondi voted not to override the governor's veto.

Chief medical examiner (H5939) — Senate rejected 29-7, an amendment to a bill which establishes a medicolegal investigation committee and creates the position of chief medical examiner to oversee medical examiners and related activities in the state. The amendment would prohibit the chief medical examiner from practicing medicine as outside employment.

Sen. Rotondi was against the amendment.

Welfare audit veto (H6573) — Senate, 34-5 overrode another Dukakis veto — this one of a bill which makes most of the positions in the Bureau of Welfare Auditing under Civil Service law, and makes employees appointed without Civil Service tests before Sep. 22, 1975, permanent employees without passing any Civil Service requirements.

Sen. Rotondi voted for the bill.

Beano (H638) — Senate approved 35-2 a bill increasing the amount and size of prizes a licensed beano establishment can give away in beano games.

Sen. Rotondi favored this measure.

Redlining (S30, S34) — Senate rejected 31-8 one version of a bill prohibiting "redlining" by banks and then unanimously gave initial approval 37-0 to another version.

"Redlining" is geographic discrimination used by banks in granting home mortgages.

Supporters of the first version argued it was a stronger, better-drafted version, but most of them voted for the second version noting that it was at least a start in the right direction.

Sen. Rotondi voted for both versions of the anti-redlining bill.

Cemetery Requests

The board discussed two requests to the cemetery, one of which the director of public works approved and the other which he did not approve. Because of the specific nature of the requests, the town counsel had suggested that the director determine whether or not the requests could be complied with from the income derived from the cemetery.

Selectman Edward O'Connell noted the length of time this matter has been pending and suggested the cemetery department look into its files to find other cases. Town counsel recommended that the board consider establishing a policy of not accepting any new requests that might not produce sufficient income to support specific requests.

Swanton street bridge

The traffic advisory committee has recommended that improvements to the Swanton street bridge include updating and improving the set of traffic lights at the Swanton-Main-Water streets intersection. The state has asked the board of selectmen for comments on the pending widening of the bridge. The state has taken over the bridge with the approval of the town in order to effect changes.

The improvements will include construction of a pedestrian overpass during the work and the re-routing of truck traffic from Loring avenue.

The state will replace the bridge with another two-lane bridge with sidewalks on both sides. No land-taking will be involved, the selectmen said.

Chairman Barbara S. Hankins noted that designs have not yet been started and so it will be at least a year before renovations begin. It will probably be another six to eight months before construction is completed.

The board was concerned about having the lights improved at the same time as the bridge, although there might be cost to the town for having them done. Selectman Edward O'Connell suggested that "we not defer action on the bridge for the sake of the lights," although the board felt that this problem of the traffic signals is urgent and ought to be tied in with the bridge work.

Converse place lights

Selectmen had deferred action on installation of a second street light on Converse place and last Monday came up with a recommendation not to install the light.

Instead they will increase the wattage of the first light from 3500 to 7000 lumens and see how that works.

EnKa Fair

The board approved public amusement and chuck wagon licenses for the EnKa fair to be held May 19 and 20 on Manchester Field.

Although voting to approve the license requests, Selectman Edward O'Connell questioned the location of the fair. There had been complaints last year about the number of different activities on Manchester and their disruptive nature in the neighborhood.

O'Connell noted that he was not pointing to the EnKa fair in particular, but just cautioning the board to keep an eye on the number of activities which they approve for this location.

Budget

The town manager's annual budget proposals will be in on time, February 15, Thomas J. Groux told the board of selectmen.

The board's request to be kept apprised of budget developments as they take place will not be possible, however, Groux said that he needs to put an entire package together first and then discuss it with the board rather than to send them piecemeal changes and ideas which could be changed before reaching final form.

The board did ask Groux to meet with them either immediately before or after the February 15 deadline to go over the numbers. Meanwhile Groux said he would keep them informed of any personnel changes he would recommend and anything else of a significant nature.

Data Processing

Town Counsel Douglas A. Randall is looking further into any possible charter violations before the board of selectmen decides to make the data processing component of town government into a separate department equal with other departments under the town manager's supervision.

His offhand opinion was that "there is nothing alien to the charter which would prohibit the move." The data processing department is now under the supervision of the comptroller's office. The board indicated that when the comptroller screening committee interviews persons for that job, that they consider a strong background in data processing important in their selection.

The inclination of the board is to bring data processing, which is used by several town departments, into its own department.

Scholarship Foundation elects officers, plans town-wide drive

The Winchester Scholarship Foundation conducted by Chairman Ann Blackman, heard committee reports and elected a new slate of officers for the coming year, at its recent annual meeting.

Presented by the nominating committee chairman, Edward Burns, and elected by members present, were the following: chairman: Mrs. James Blackman, vice-chairman: Paul Amico; secretary: Mrs. F. Robert Johnson; treasurer: Robert Ingraham; trustees: Harris S. Richardson, Jr. (chairman), Austin Broadhurst, James R. Willing, Jr.; scholarship committee: Levon K. Boodakian (chairman), Mrs. Courtney Crandall, Mrs. Ralph Seferian, David Mortensen, Vincent Larocco (ex officio); Publicity committee: Mrs. Richard Pharo (chairman), Mrs. C. H. Stuart Charlson (finance committee); Dr. Donald McLean (chairman), Robert Baron, Mrs. Edward Fitzgerald, Harry Chelato, Mrs. Philip Woodward, Mrs. John Twomey, Mrs. Robert Bigelow, Mrs. Henry Delaney; nominating committee: Mrs. Noel Thyson (chairman), Mrs. Stanley Harins, Lawrence Tobason; general committee members: John Sexton, Grant Curtis, Mrs. Regis Pelloux, John McInnis, Henry Quill, John Sullivan, Mrs. Martin O'Donnell, Mrs. James Barger.

More than $29,000 from Foundation funds was awarded to 71 students during 1977. Another town-wide fund-raising drive will begin within a few weeks in anticipation of increasing requests to the Foundation as college tuitions continue to rise.

High school band concert is Thursday

The Winchester High School Concert Band, under the direction of John F. Beyrent, will present its annual winter concert on Thursday, Jan. 19, at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

The program will consist of the Suite in E flat by Gustav Holst, Overture in B flat by Giovanni, and selections from the Broadway musical "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

Appearing on the same program also will be the high school's 17-piece jazz band performing works by Sammy Nestico, Charlie Barnet, Kurt Weill, Manny Albam, and Jimmy Webb. The audience is invited backstage after the concert to see the new and varied instruments purchased this year.

The music department has scheduled two more concerts for this year; in addition, the high school musical, "Kiss Me Kate," will be held March 17 and 18. The marching band will perform at the annual ENKA parade and the Memorial Day observance.

Tickets for the high school band concert may be obtained at the school auditorium on the evening of the 19th.

Police report 1978 is off to a quiet start

The past week has been a relatively quiet one for the police, with several minor accidents highlighting their activities.

A fire hydrant on Ridge street was knocked over by a car which skidded off the road Monday afternoon. No serious injury was reported.

A Woburn man swerved to avoid a dog in the road Monday evening and ran into a parked car on Forest street. The man suffered minor injuries.

Two accidents were reported Sunday, one a two-car collision at 2 a.m. at Swanton and Main streets, the other also a two-car collision by the Shield System Car Wash on Main street.

Again on Saturday, two accidents with no major injuries were logged in the blotter. One occurred on Wedgemere avenue, involving two cars. In the second incident, a car ran into the back of a parked oil truck on Washington street. A citation was issued to a local youth for leaving the scene of an accident.

Minor injuries were sustained Friday when a car and a truck collided on Main street, though no one was injured seriously enough to be taken to the hospital. Two more accidents were reported Jan. 5, one on Lake street, the other at Cambridge and Wildwood. On Jan. 4, a car slid on the ice on North Main street and ran into a building.

A car skidded on ice and knocked over a set of lights at the intersection by Town Hall on the morning of Jan. 2; the lights are still out of commission.

Also on the 2nd, a car struck an Edison pole on Forest circle, and two accidents were reported on Highland avenue and at Washington and Swanton streets.

In other police news, two cars were stolen, one a Volkswagen from Prince street and Highland avenue Saturday afternoon, the other a 1968 Pontiac from Watson place on the same evening.

A third car, a 1974 Mustang stolen Jan. 2, from the Parkway Apartments, was recovered in Somerville Jan. 3.

A larceny was reported Friday afternoon. A Reading resident reported that someone had stolen four wire-spoke hubs from his car parked on Aberjona drive.

Holidays were prime season for burglars

The season of gifts and giving is also the season of breaking and entering. Police Chief John McHugh reports that there was a dramatic rise in the number of break-ins investigated in November and December.

In August, 15 breaks were investigated; in September, 6; in October, 12; in November the number jumped to 37; and in December, 19 breaks were investigated.

In connection with many of the breaks, several local juveniles were arrested and have been taken to court.

Of five youths arrested in connection with breaks on Grove street and Canterbury road, four were found guilty in Woburn District Court and sentenced to one year's probation.

A second group of five was arrested for breaks in the Highland avenue area near the hospital. Four of the youths ended up working with the Winchester Department of Public Works on highway projects as part of the Woburn Court's restitution program.

Capt. Sullivan is a B-52G co-pilot at Griffiss AFB, NY, with the 416th Bombardment Wing.

The captain, a 1965 graduate of Winchester High School received a BS degree in 1970 from the University of Lowell, where he was commissioned through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

His wife, Ann, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer O. Friery of Sarasota, Fla.

Cub Pack 524 holds its annual Pinewood Derby

Cub Pack 524 met Friday night at Parkhurst School for the annual Pinewood Derby. Each boy fashioned a car of his own design from a block of pine wood and four wheels. The cars were judged for design and then raced in heats to determine winners.

Jonathan Lawrence had the fastest car in the pack. Michael Duffy was the winner in Den One, Alex Nason in Den Two, Matthew Kennedy in Webelos Den Blue, and Eric Krussell in Webelos Den Gold.

John Twichell and Matthew Kennedy tied for best designed car in the pack. Den winners in design were Larry Vergaglia, Scott Olivieri and Charles Field.

John Gosselin received the Wolf rank.

Tri-community staff certified after CPR course

The staff of Tri Community Health Services, Inc., nurses, therapists, aides and office workers -- have just been certified in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), according to Jayne Tapia, professional director of the agency.

"While many of our registered nurses have practiced CPR at hospitals where they were attached to cardiac care units, it was of great benefit to practice their skills with instruction by fire department members who are currently using heart-saving CPR on the job on a daily basis," Mrs. Tapia said. Arrangements to make CPR certification possible for staff members was made by M. Gloria Pearson, assistant director of Tri Community. Ms. Pearson is in charge of in-service education for the staff of the Medicare-certified agency serving the home and community health needs of Winchester.

Course instructors were Cambridge firemen obtained through the Symmes Citizen's CPR Program.

All grades sing at Mystic concert

Jolly was the season as the Mystic School children presented their Christmas concert in several performances to capacity audiences. With direction from Jean Loudon, music specialist, and with aid from Dr. Martha Grenzeback, principal, and the teaching staff, all grades were able to participate in this year's expanded program.

Scenery to deck the halls was provided by students with guidance from Mrs. Sophia Mone, art specialist. Mistress of ceremonies, Julie Stein, set up each scene with a holiday message of introduction to each class.

Grade one in their white choir capes presented their Christmas list from which they asked for stars to shine on Christmas night, for Christmas trees and for peace on earth. Acting out the scene on stage were: Paul Marshall, Sarah Jones, Katie Turner, Laurie Jean Minetti, David Escott, Scott Todisco, Andre Behrmann, Shawn Ferrari and Scott Todisco.

They finished their presentation with 'Christmas Day Will Soon Be Here' (and I can hardly wait!) and 'Bells in the Steeple'.

Instrumentalists for grade one were: Rene Aswad, Katie Daggett, Sarah Mone, Julie Kenerson, Ben Lombard, Jason McCarthy, Philip Robillard and Bill Weylman.

Before a colorful sleigh ride scene complete with jingling bells, the second grade bedecked in bright red choir capes sang the Dutch song 'Sinter Klaus' and the American favorite 'Jingle Bells'. Then they asked the musical question 'Who Has A Beard That's Long And White?'. They ended with a 'Holiday Carol' and 'Joyous Hanukkah'.

In the sleigh were: Wendy Boerner, Ted Welch, Eddie Duffy, Jonathan Furey, Chris DeAgazio, Sean Lyons and Steven Behrmann. Instrumentalists for grade two were: Wendy Cass, Tina Conolly, Michael Picciello, Michael Fieleke, Debra Harrington and Abigail Wechsler.

The third graders in gold choir capes presented a scene of bell ringers with giant golden bells swaying gently as they sang 'Why Do Bells On Christmas Ring?' and 'Everywhere the Bells of Christmas Ring'. A spirited hand-clapping rendition of 'Zumba Zumba' completed their presentation.

Bell ringers were: Mark Bortman, Alex Samoiloff, Marc Todisco, Danny Phinney, Eric Hersfield, Cynthia DeAgazio, Lauren Suwak, Anthony Duros, Jimmy Bowers, Warren Cox and Katie Carroll. Instrumentalists were: Katie Binding, Robin Cass, Chris Herlihy, Danny Kenerson, Gwen Latta, Kara Marshall, John McCarthy, Phoebe Porter, Stephen Rodriguez, Kent Sahrrier, Melissa Skehan, Kristen Veitch and Joel Zuccola.

A stable of marvelous animals was background for the fourth graders in their green choir capes singing about 'The Friendly Beasts' as the large papier mache creatures nodded their heads in time to the music. They also sang the 'Carol of the Birds' and the popular French carol 'Il Est Ne Le Divin Enfant'. In the animal scene were: Annmarie Venuti, Anne Cowen, Chris Collins, Jay Herlihy and Jonathan Griffith.

The fifth graders in their red and white choir capes offered an old world Yuletide scene as wool-capped and neck-scarved carolers gathered around a gas street lantern to sing 'Still Still' with verses both in German and in English, 'Joy to the World' and 'Pray God Bless' a charming carol sung in unison and in rounds.

In the scene were: John Serabian, David O'Connor, Tim Wade, Ellen Welsh, Jeff Purcell and Ravi Sharma. Instrumentalists were: Elizabeth Wechsler, Scott Ferrari, Jana Furey, Paul Sughrie and Suzanne Milauskas.

The final scene depicted the three golden-crowned and richly-robed Magi following the Christmas star. The voices of the fifth-sixth grade chorus in their robes of red blended in unison and in harmony to present 'angels We Have Heard On High', 'African Noel' featuring Tad Cooper and John Reidy on lively bongos, 'Were You There That Christmas Night' and 'Drummer Boy'. The Magi were: Paul Mortenson, David Tonasueck and Billy Thomas. The program ended with the audience joining the chorus to sing 'Silent Night'.

DAR meeting this Monday on education

28 points against Burlington

Holly Stevenson sets WHS record as girls split a pair of basketball games

By Lynn Foden

They worked hard for it and they finally made it. The Winchester High School girls' basketball team won their first game after dropping their previous two games. In a very close game against Burlington, Winchester came out on top by a score of 50-42.

The key to this victory can be summed up in two words - Holly Stevenson. She led the Sachem attack with 28 points. Not only does that tie her own personal record for most points in one game, it is also the school record. Holly was unstoppable. Again her foul shooting was superb, making four out of six attempts. Her talents, though, were not limited just to offense. Her rebounding was an integral part of the Sachem defense.

Burlington got off to an early lead. From the first basket of the game, they dominated the rest of the quarter, at times having a six or eight-point advantage. Winchester tightened up, taking away many of their fast-break attempts. The Sachems still could not quite catch up and the first quarter ended with Burlington leading 18-12.

Winchester came out fighting in the second quarter. They took advantage of turn-overs and demonstrated excellent ball handling and effective passing. The game was soon tied at 20. The Sachems' defense was superb, so Burlington was unable to get in a good position for shooting. The quarter ended with the two teams tied at 24.

The third quarter opened with Winchester going ahead through the use of good fast breaks. The lead then saw-sawed back and forth between Winchester and Burlington until, finally, at the end of the quarter, Burlington gained the advantage and went ahead by just two, with the score 38-36.

The final quarter was all Winchester. The Sachems showed good anticipation. They profited greatly by stealing the ball and then setting up Cathy Driscoll for the lay up. Holly used her height to good advantage and was, therefore, very effective when shooting in the key. Linda Pierce helped Winchester to control the ball by frequently tying it up and leaping for many rebounds. With Kelly Gately as the backbone of the Sachem defense, it was difficult for Burlington to get good shots. She was not alone in the back court. Diane Cullen and Cathy Driscoll, who was the second highest scorer, both aided in containing the Burlington attack. Barbara Jacobs was vital in causing Burlington to turn the ball over.

The other forward, Laurie Redmond, proved herself a vital asset to the offense with her ability to set up plays. It was a well-played game and the girls really deserved the win. They won by a final score of 50-42. They have the talent, so hopefully now this will start an upward trend.

Belmont

In their next outing, the girls played hard once again, but they did not fare quite so well. In a close game against Belmont, the Winchester team lost in the closing minutes by a score of 46-43.

The game opened with a lot of fast action up and down the court. Belmont capitalized on this on a slew of steals from behind early to get an early lead, but Winchester calmed the game down some. This was to the Sachems' advantage. Laurie Redmond made a pair of steals. Holly Stevenson, with a slight advantage in height, dominated the back boards early. The game was close at end of the first period with Belmont ahead only slightly, 11-10.

The Sachems carried over some of their drive from the first quarter into the second quarter, but it did not last for long. The stall in the offense was not from a lack of shots. When they had the ball down at Belmont's end, they sometimes had as many as six attempts, but nonetheless, they had a great deal of trouble getting the ball to go through the hoop. Winchester was also plagued with turnovers due to careless dribbling and inaccurate passes. Belmont dominated this quarter leaving Winchester 10 points behind, 30-20.

In the third quarter, the Winchester defense stiffened up, but their offense still had not quite got it all together. Linda Pierce did, however, make a handful of good rebounds and Holly's positioning was very beneficial in breaking Belmont's plays and not allowing them to drive through the key. Belmont remained easily on top of things, 39-30.

The final quarter was a whole new ball game. The Sachems were on the war path. They began forcing mistakes on Belmont and tallying up the score with fast breaks. The lead changed hands with every basket for the next few minutes. With only 55 seconds left, there was a time out and the score was 44-43 Belmont. The Sachems had made a valiant comeback and at this point, the game could have gone either way. Unfortunately for Winchester, when play resumed, it went the wrong way with Belmont scoring one more basket and thereby icing the game.

Although the Sachems had made some mistakes early in the game, they showed in the end that they are a good team and one that will have to be reckoned with later on. Their 1-3 record is not a true indication of the girls' ability. It is a long season and shortly we should be seeing that number in the win column rising.

JVs defeat Burlington by one point

Led by the great defensive play of John "Benny" Brosnan the Sachem Jayvees came back from a six point fourth quarter deficit to tie the Belmont Marauder jayvees at the buzzer on John Shattuck's clutch 10-foot jumper and then went on to win in overtime by the score of 73-72.

Shattuck scored four points in the overtime and Ron Dokus hit a short jumper with 27 seconds left to put the Sachems up by one at 71-70. Then, for the second straight game, Jeff Cahill hit two crucial free throws with eight seconds remaining to ice the victory for the Sachems. - Jack Nolan

Tough loss to Belmont

Swimming Sachems drop first meet of season 86-85

The Winchester High boys swim team started off its 1977-78 season last Wednesday against Belmont at Belmont High. As they did last year the Sachems dominated the meet but still ended up on the short end of the stick. The final score in a squeaker of a meet was Belmont 86-Winchester 85.

To show the Sachems' dominance, they won 8 out of 11 first place events, but because of a complicated scoring system, still lost by one small point. Again, as in the past years of the team, because of a lack of depth Winchester lost a meet which could have easily gone in their favor. And like the past two years against Belmont, Winchester was ahead going into the last relay and lost.

The Sachems started fast with a first and third place finish in the medley relay. The team of David Blasi, Chris Porter, Micky Minutoli, and tri-captain Richard Palumbo swam to an easy first, while the relay team of Kevin Gosselin, Dick Gardner, Brian Berkley, and tri-captain Mark Vernaglia finished a surprising third.

The Sachems picked up another first in the 200-yard freestyle, but the scramble for third place was the exciting part of this race. Steven Ciccio and Paul McDonough of Winchester and a Belmont swimmer ended up in a three-way tie. Since first and second place were clearly settled the judges took the remaining six points in that event and divided them equally among the three swimmers.

In the 200 individual medley Winchester's Micky Minutoli picked up still another first. Brian Berkley swam hard to finish fifth place in the same event.

One of the Sachems' few losses came in the 50-yard freestyle. Sophomore Chris Porter gave his best effort, but could only finish second just a second behind a Belmont opponent. Mark Vernaglia finished just behind Porter for the third place. Sophomore John MacNamara rounded out the scoring with a sixth place finish in the same event.

Mark Vernaglia came back in the diving competition and handily took a first in his specialty. Charlie Boyle was right behind to take second place with a strong performance also. First year diver Mark Estabrook did surprisingly well in his first competition and placed fifth in fine form.

At this point the Sachems led 45-33, and continued in their winning ways with David Blasi taking a first in the 100-yard butterfly. Even though Winchester won the event they still lost three points to Belmont which is an example of the confusing scoring systems.

The Sachems picked up still another first in the 100-yard freestyle with Richard Palumbo leading the way this time. Brian Berkley and Paul McDonough finished fifth and sixth respectively.

In the grueling 50-yard freestyle Micky Minutoli swam hard for a first place with Mark Estabrook placing fourth and Kenny Gosselin giving his best effort to pick up a sixth place.

The flurry of first places kept coming Winchester's way, this time in the 100-yard back stroke. David Blasi had the honors this time. In the same event Steve Ciccio and Kevin Gosselin finished third and fifth which were very important if Winchester was to win the meet.

Winchester suffered only its second loss in the next event, the 100-yard breaststroke. Chris Porter was again on the short end of a close race. This time he only lost by half a second. Dick Gardner finished fourth and tri-captain Mark Opel swam hard for a sixth place finish.

In the end it all came down to the 400-yard freestyle relay, and Winchester had only a handful of swimmers who were eligible to swim. To win the meet, all the Sachems needed was a second place finish. The relay team of John MacNamara, Steve Hurley, Kenny Gosselin, and Greg Plowman swam their best and finished fourth, which was better than expected. The other relay team had the hopes of the Sachems riding on them. The swimmers in this relay were Mark Estabrook, Paul McDonough, Steven Ciccio and Mark Opel. Despite a valiant effort by the team, especially Mark Opel, who had just swam the event before, they were touched out by less than half a second.

The final score of Belmont 86 and Winchester 85 seemed to be wrong, but it wasn't and it showed in the disappointment on the faces of the Sachem Swimmers. It was a meet that they deserved to win.

Showing their trophies and sporting tee shirts from the Elks, these six youngsters won in their divisions of the recreation department Elks hoop shoot contest. Potential regional winners are (front) Sandra Jordan (girls 12-13), Julie Gibbons (girls 10-11), and Debbie Taylor (girls 8-9); (rear) Kenneth Double (boys 8-9), Chris Hoffman (boys 12-13), and Andy Laats (boys 10-11).

Girl gymnasts lose squeaker to Melrose, 80.40-77.65

By Kelly Gately

Even though the Winchester High School Girl's Gymnastics team received an impressive score of 77.65, it was not enough as Melrose scored an 80.40 to hand Winchester their first league loss.

In a very close meet, Melrose went out in front in the uneven parallel bars in what proved to be the most lopsided of all the events, even though the difference was only 2.4, 18.0 - 15.6, Melrose winning. Melrose's Jean Bushee led all scorers with her 6.65; Denise Cann's 5.9 and Deb Campbell's 5.45 concluded the scoring.

Teri Allard took high honors for Winchester with her 5.35, with Peggy McCabe, 5.2 and Maureen McCabe, 5.05, finishing up the scoring.

Winchester came back to defeat Melrose on the beam with a 18.3 - 17.55 edge. Maureen McCabe received Winchester's top score with her 6.15 with Teri Allard and Anne Bird close behind with a 6.1 and 6.05. Jinny Mulcahy had her team's best with a 6.45 as Mary McBride, 5.75 and Colleen Shingleton, 5.35, wound up the scoring.

In the closest of all the events, vaulting,

Melrose edged out a 22.45 - 22.2 victory. Jean Bushee guided her team to victory with her impressive 8.15, with Mary McBride's 7.3 and Deb DiLaffa's 6.45 also contributing to the scoring. Laurie Vincent also received an excellent score of 7.9, with Maureen McCabe and Anne Bird also obtaining first rate scores with a 7.25 and 7.05.

Coming into the last event, floor exercises, Winchester was trailing 58.0 - 65.1. They needed a victory but couldn't pull it out as they lost a close one, 22.4 - 21.55.

Jean Bushee's 7.8 led all scorers with Sue Corcoran, 7.6, and Roberta Arena, 7.0, capturing the last two spots. Winchester's best was Maureen McCabe's 7.45. A 7.1 by Teri Allard and a 7.0 by Laurie Vincent combined for Winchester's final score.

Winchester is improving from meet to meet, and they continue to raise their team score from the beginning of the year. They number only eight competitors now, as Joyce Frylund is out due to an injury to her ankle.

First league loss

Gymnasts lose to Needham, Lincoln-Sudbury teams

By Maureen McCabe

The Winchester High Boys Gymnastics team encountered two skilled teams and suffered two losses last week.

The team suffered the first defeat last Tuesday against a powerful Lincoln-Sudbury team. Although Winchester was only able to raise 63 points to Lincoln-Sudbury's 106 points, the Sachems gave their best effort.

Last Thursday the competition was a little bit closer, but the Sachems were handed another loss by Needham.

The floor exercise event gave Needham the early lead. Points for Needham were tallied up by Sulkala (7.1), Amrick (6.1) and Alton (4.75). Peter MacDonald paced the locals with a 4.65. Jon Belinowicz and Steve Campo completed the scoring with a 3.20 and 3.05 respectively.

On the side horse, the Sachems received 9.55 points to Needham's 11.85, but this was the closest Winchester could get to the team from Needham. MacDonald and Paul Selvitelli each merited 3.25 with Campo's 3.05 rounding out the scoring.

The high bar padded Needham's lead with Mertzner earning a 4.3 and Amrick and Sulkala each obtaining a 4.2. Winchester's top scores were MacDonald's 3.0, Mark Mulvaney's 2.75 and John DeMars' 2.40.

The Sachems were able to muster 8.15 points on the parallel bars with MacDonald's 3.45, Mulvaney's 3.3 and Paul Maxwell's 3.1. Needham's Sulkala was awarded a 5.0 with Amrick's 5.0 and Mertzner's 4.05, completing the scoring.

The vault proved to be another close event, but Winchester was again overpowered by Needham. Winchester's MacDonald and Needham's Sulkala took top honors, each receiving 8.05. Dillon's 7.35 and Amrick's 7.15 added to the Needham's lead. Mulvaney's 5.4 and Maxwell's 5.3 aided the Sachems.

The final event, rings, was the frosting on the cake as Needham glided to a 9.4 victory. MacDonald's score of 3.5, Al Class' 2.85, and Anders Bjarngard's 2.45 completed Winchester's 66.0 point total.

Mary Tuttle, assistant to the president of the college, will be the principal guest speaker. The meeting will be preceded by dessert and coffee and is open to the public.

'Why a woman's college?' topic of panel discussion

The Winchester Mount Holyoke Alumnae Club is hosting a panel discussion on "Why a Woman's College?", to be held Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. in the Meeting Room of the Winchester Public Library.

Featured guest speaker will be Mary E. Tuttle, assistant to the president of the college, who also serves as secretary to the board of trustees and as affirmative action officer of the college. Miss Tuttle has also been active in the ABC (A Better Chance Program) for many years, having been an director of the first ABC Summer Program on the Mt. Holyoke campus in 1965 and since then as a trustee of the National ABC Board.

Mrs. Arthur Hall, class of 1963 at Mt. Holyoke and a Winchester resident, will lead the panel, which also includes Susan McLean of Boston, class of '77 and a research assistant at Harvard Medical School, and Donna Criscione, '80, a graduate of Winchester High School. In view of the topic of the panel, interested high school students and their parents are especially welcome.

Mount Holyoke is one of the few colleges which has chosen to remain a woman's college in the face of mounting pressures to become a co-educational institution. There are many good reasons, backed by valid statistics, why a woman's college is an excellent choice for many young women. If for any reason you have ever wondered "Why a Woman's College?" come and have your questions answered and draw your own conclusions as to the validity and important role of a woman's college in today's society. The meeting will begin with dessert and coffee at 7:15. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Couples a go go

Last Saturday evening 23 persons showed up for bowling, and 14 bowlers bowled 10 or more pins over their averages.

Bowlers of the evening go to Ray Pothier, bowling 113 pins over his average, and Gayle Pothier, 64 pins over her average.

High men's games went to Ray Pothier, 182. Stan Hart bowled a high single of 191. Women's high single went to Angela Pollino, 176 and to Louise Hart, 174. High series went to Ray Pothier, 524.

Going into the New Year the four top bowlers are: Guy Pollino, Bob Harris, Stan Hart and Chat Watts.

Guy and Angela Pollino were hosts after bowling. Tom and Vi Gangel gave a Christmas party for the group Dec. 17.

Winter meeting of Girl Scouts this Wednesday

The Winchester Community Girl Scout Association will hold its winter meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church. All Brownie, Junior and Cadette leaders and assistants are invited to attend.

Mrs. Lewis Thompson, education chairman for the Boston Committee for UNICEF, will present the program. Using UNICEF resources and materials, she will share information on the life styles and cultures of children living in selected countries of Asia, Africa, and Latin America. She will demonstrate and provide program ideas on games, foods, festivals, songs and dances, arts and crafts, and stories which leaders may use with their troops.

During February Winchester Girl Scouts will join with scouts and guides all over the world in observing World Friendship Month. Mrs. Robert Johnson will preside at a brief business meeting. Mrs. Joseph Twichell and Mrs. David Beaver will lead a discussion on plans for Girl Scout Week.

Clint Hamblin, show director, and Mrs. John Sutherland, chairman of this year's Winton Club Cabaret, at tryouts for the show, "Surprise!"

Town Hall fills as Winton Club signs up talent

The Town Hall was full as Mrs. John Sutherland, chairman of the Winton Club show, "Surprise!", explained sign-up procedures on talent night to soloists, dancers, and a unicycle rider tried out for the show.

Mrs. Sutherland, her general committee, Mrs. Paul Gleason and her talent committee, were on hand to welcome newcomers and renew past friendships.

Bunny and Gerry Roberts of the Chateau de Ville productions and director Clint Hamblin began the auditions, with dance groups in the lower level of Town Hall and singers and dancers on the stage.

Audrey Aquaviva, who accompanied Clint Hamblin, took charge of future chorus lines and demonstrated the beginning of dance routines to be used in the show. During the break of auditioning for soloists, the dancers had their tryouts.

The cabaret is to be held January 31 through February 4. A billboard will be found elsewhere in The Star giving all the details about show times and easy availability of tickets.

Canal Association winter meeting is Sunday in Lowell

Artifacts from the 1803-1853 Old Middlesex Canal will be on display at the Alumni Lydon Library at the University of Lowell on Sunday at 2.

Joseph Kopsysinski, chief librarian and curator for the Middlesex Canal Archives, housed in the RARE BOOK Section of the Alumni Lydon Library, will give a show using lantern slides (old glass negatives) of photos taken in 1902.

There are several displays planned, including early bills and papers signed by John Hancock and Proprietors John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

Winchester's Frances VerPlanck is president of the Middlesex Canal Association. The meeting Sunday is the winter meeting of the association and the public is invited.

Boston actress to be leader of Drama Workshop

Both senior and youth workshops will be enhanced by the leadership of Dianne Giardella of Awakening, a new comedy-drama created by Theater Workshop Boston from scene improvisations. Now playing at Eliot Hall, Jamaica Plain, it is described as a modern rite of passage about six people trapped overnight in the observation deck of a Boston skyscraper who find their lives transformed by the intrusion of the unexpected.

Dianne will co-lead the Winchester Drama Workshop's middle school group on Tuesday afternoons at 3:15 at Lincoln School and will alternate with Lee Whittemore, a yoga specialist, at the senior citizen group on Thursdays at 2.

The older youth groups (ages 12-15) will meet on Wednesdays at 3:30 in the social studies open area at the high school with David Russell of Curtain and Cue. While achieving academically as a National Merit Scholar, David has still managed to be active in local theater since he hoped to create and toured as Nathan Detroit in the Lynch Junior High School's Guys and Dolls; as Jigger Craigin in Carousel and in van Italie's The Interview at Winchester High School; and at the Lyric Stage workshop in Romeo and Juliet. Now he returns to the Winchester Drama Workshop as a co-leader.

Registration will continue at the Winchester Recreation Department (729-4514) until workshops open January 17, 18 and 19 or until groups reach capacity numbers. For further information contact Paulett Taggart, Winchester Drama Workshop, 17 Ridgfield rd.

Children's films

January 17

How the Bear Lost His Tail: This is a tale about a wily fox and how he hood-winks a naive bear who has been teaching him to catch fish with his tail. This is a Rumanian story adapted from an Aesop fable.

The Railroad: The famous comedian, Buster Keaton, journeys across Canada riding the railway on a small motorized hand cart. There will be a Tuesday afternoon film program for school age children at 3:30 p.m.

Junior library film program to start Jan. 19th

The Winchester Junior Library has planned a special film program for pre-school children. The series will open on Jan. 19 and run for four Thursdays, ending on Feb. 8. Showings start at 1:30 p.m. and last for half an hour. This is a "drop-in" event, held in the Story Hour Room.

Jan. 30 will be the first day of registration for the pre-school story hours which commence February 28. It is necessary to come to the library to sign-up four-year olds, or those children who will turn four by June 1. Sessions are scheduled for Tuesday or Wednesday or Thursday mornings or Wednesday afternoons and consist of 45 minutes of stories, games, fingerplays and films.

Witchcraft topic of Historical Society

Do you believe in witchcraft? Many of our ancestors did. At the general meeting on Thursday evening, Jan. 19, the Winchester Historical Society will present Dr. John Bohstedt, professor of history at Harvard University. He will speak on witchcraft in the 16th and 17th centuries in American and Europe.

New information will be given, especially on the role of disease in the spread of the witchcraft hysteria. The part played by the Church and the role of neighborly malice will also be discussed.

The meeting, beginning at 8, will be held in the Unitarian Church and is open to all interested in our historical past.

Volunteers needed

Volunteers are needed to work in many different areas in the Cambridge school system. Call 492-7046 for more information.

PLEASE

Why not clean out your attic, closets, basement and donate those reusable items to us!

The Winchester Rotary Club needs your articles, furniture, rugs, glass, books, sports equipment, etc. to help make their community projects a success. Call us for a pick-up or bring them in yourself.

Sat. 10-12 noon, Mon. 7 pm-9 pm.

Home, Garden Club meeting is Wed.

The Winchester Home and Garden Club will hold its January general meeting on Wednesday at 1 at the Crawford Memorial Church.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. David Karp, Winchester Home and Garden Club member, who will give a lecture on Micronesia and the South Pacific Islands. She will include slides and interesting handicrafts of that area.

Ten is at 1 and the meeting at 1:30. There will be a guest fee.

Hospital Friends plan orientations for this Wednesday

Ever wonder how things operate up at Winchester Hospital? Do you have some time to find out?

One way to find out is to join the Friends of Winchester Hospital volunteer organization. Members volunteer their time on a regular basis, either during the day of during the evening, to one of 20 different services.

Two orientations for prospective volunteers will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. at the hospital board room. To find out more about the Friends, call the volunteer department at Winchester Hospital, or contact Mrs. Richard Ashley (729-7163) or Mr. Carl Olson (944-2231).

George F. Bennett

A funeral mass was said in St. Anthony's Church in Lawrence Jan. 5 for George F. Bennett, who died at Winchester Hospital Jan. 3 of carcinoma.

Mr. Bennett, 71, was a resident of West Palm Beach, Fla. and had been in Winchester for the past three months. He was a former resident of Methuen, and he was born in Lebanon.

Mr. Bennett worked as a mill man at the Boston Naval Ship Yard for 35 years and had been retired 12 years. He belonged to St. Anthony's Church in Lawrence.

He was the husband of the late Belinda M. (Bugler) Bennett. Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. Donna Foley of Winchester, a son, George R. Bennett of Wollaston, and three grandchildren.

Burial was at St. Anthony's Cemetery in Methuen. The Lane Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Donations in his memory may be made to the American Cancer Society, 247 Commonwealth ave., Boston.

Henry B. Wightman

Henry B. Wightman, 58, formerly of Winchester, died Jan. 1 in his home town of Brightwaters, Long Island, New York.

Graveside services were held for Mr. Wightman Jan. 5 at Wildwood Cemetery, conducted by Rev. Roger Cormier of St. Mary's Church.

Mr. Wightman was born in Watertown and lived in Winchester for 25 years before moving to Long Island, where he lived another 25 years. He attended Winchester schools and graduated from Hamilton College in 1942. He spent one year at Harvard College as well.

From 1942, he served as a bomber pilot with the US Army in North Africa. He was shot down three times in action. After his military service he became a civilian pilot, flying first for Northeast Airlines, then for Delta Airlines until his retirement in 1969.

He was the husband of Veronica B. Wightman of Long Island and the father of William H. II, Margaret Traynor, Marilyn Wallace and Maureen Wightman, all of Long Island. He was brother to Bennett Wightman of Londonderry, NH and formerly of Winchester. Mr. Wightman was the son of the late William H. and Margaret (Boyd) Wightman of Winchester.

The Lane Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Lillian A. Whitman

Lillian A. (Randlett) Whitman died in Lexington on January 4.

She was born in Lawrence and educated at Bates College. A longtime resident of Winchester, Mrs. Whitman was active in the affairs of the First Congregational Church, which her late husband, Warren C. Whitman, served as deacon.

Very interested in horticultural and political matters, Mrs. Whitman was a member and president of the Winchester Garden Club, Women's Republican Club of Winchester, Fortnightly, and chairman of the Winchester Republican Town Committee.

A memorial service will be held Monday at 2 at the First Congregational Church, with Rev. Walter Davis officiating. Burial is in Wildwood Cemetery. Norris Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Arthur M. Cochran

Arthur M. Cochran died Monday at Lawrence Memorial Hospital at the age of 67. He had been a resident of 192 Mystic Valley pkwy.

Born and educated in Medford, Mr. Cochran was a graduate of Medford High School and of Tufts College, where he was captain of the basketball team. Named an All-American in 1931, Mr. Cochran graduated from Tufts in 1932. He served as the college's basketball coach for 12 years.

He was also assistant to the president of Tufts College. In 1941 he became New England Regional Director at the Veterans Administration in Boston. Mr. Cochran had served as a lieutenant commander with the Navy Reserve during the war years 1944-46.

Mr. Cochran became chief of program control at Natick Labs in 1953 and until his retirement in 1973 was chief of program control at Hanscom Air Force Base in Bedford.

Mr. Cochran was active in the affairs of the First Congregational Church and was a member of the Prudential Committee of that church. Funeral services are scheduled at the First Congregational Church today at 2, with private burial services to follow.

Mr. Cochran is survived by his wife, Laura S. (Salminen) Cochran of Winchester, a son, Steven M. of Michigan, and a daughter, Lynne J. Cochran of Brighton. He also leaves a grandchild, a brother, C. Leonard of Randolph, and a sister, Margaret Cochran of Florida.

Donations in his memory may be made to the First Congregational Church. Lane Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mary A. Woelke

Mary A. Woelke of 12 Myrtle st. died January 7 at Malden Hospital. She was 86.

Born in East Boston, Miss Woelke resided in Woburn and Malden in addition to the 19 years she was a resident of Winchester.

She leaves a sister, Almira H. Green of Winchester and several nieces and nephews in Massachusetts, Maine, New York, and Ohio.

The funeral services were held Tuesday morning with Rev. Howard E. Kruger officiating. Burial was at Forestdale Cemetery in Malden. Norris Funeral Home handled the arrangements.

Program Monday on alcohol abuse at NE Memorial

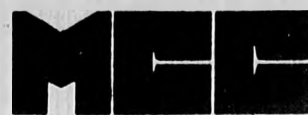

Alcohol is a very important and useful drug. But it is also the most abused drug in America. In an effort to educate the people of greater Boston on the values of alcohol, New England Memorial Hospital will present a program at 7 p.m. Monday entitled "Alcohol: Its Use and Abuse." Presented in the hospital auditorium, in Stoneham, the program will include a film, a panel discussion and a question and answer session. Anyone who is interested in attending the single-evening class should contact Health Education at New England Memorial Hospital, 665-1740, extension 426.

Planning board questions, Ullian and lawyer defend Winchester House plans

Agreeing to reconsider the Bonnell Ford site for his middle-income housing for the elderly, Arthur Ullian told the planning board Monday night that his proposed construction on Waterfield road would revitalize the center.

Ullian, representing Boston Investment and Development Co., is seeking permission from the board of appeal to override zoning bylaws which forbid multi-family housing in certain residential and business districts.

He applied to HUD for Section 8 housing subsidy, but was unsuccessful. Ullian has applied for the second round, with expectations of a successful petition. Of 90 projects submitted to HUD, Winchester House was ranked 12, Kargman said. Ten of the projects were approved.

The planning board, anticipating a public hearing between Ullian and the board of appeal on February 2, asked the developer to their regular meeting to answer some questions and to give them an update. At that meeting, the planning board learned that the hearing, postponed once, has been postponed again at Ullian's request until sometime in March.

Planning board member Charles N. Tseckares has been particularly concerned with the proposed Winchester House development and had several questions for Ullian and his attorney, Robert Kargman.

"I am concerned about this project, but I think Winchester needs this kind of housing," Tseckares said. "My concern is with the townscapes. If we must have something on this site, then your plan seems good, but I question if this is the site we want."

He further said, "I was hoping the board of appeal could work with you to find another site."

Ullian and his attorney emphasized that they had looked into other sites in town, including the Bonnell property, but that this location on Waterfield was "among the two or three choicest sites in the greater Boston area."

Atty. Kargman noted that the asking price for the Bonnell property on Main street "could only lend itself to constructing one million dollar condominiums" and that the theatre site on the other side of Main street was not available.

Planning Board Member Otto F. Schaefer Jr. suggested that the seven-story building be moved back from Waterfield road "to relieve some of the choking of that site." The plans as they are now call for a 110-unit building which fronts on Waterfield road for a width of two apartments and a hall, and then goes back toward the Rangeley road area. On the third floor there is a connection to the train station.

Ullian said that he would become the landlord of the train station building and would rehabilitate it. There would not be commercial use of space, he said. Rather the present offices would be put to some kind of common use for the apartment tenants, perhaps for in-house feeding, Ullian suggested.

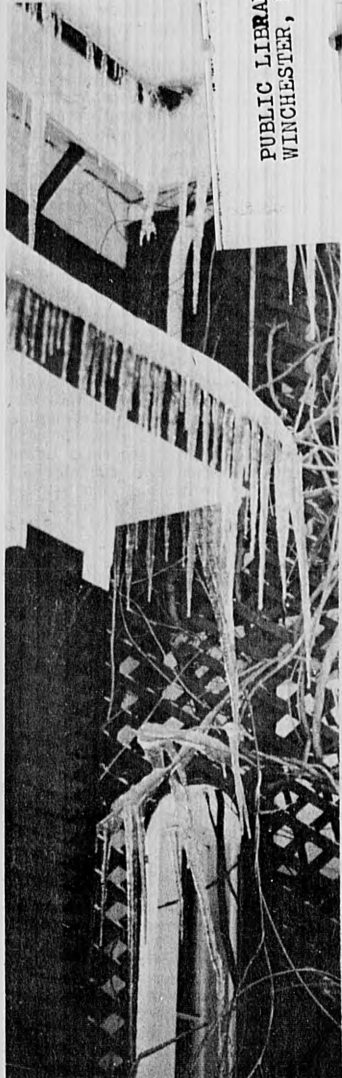

William S. Cummings also urged that the building be moved back. "It seems like political gerrymandering to satisfy the (Rangeley) residents at town-wide expense," he said. Residents of Rangeley road and Rangeley Ridge have been outspoken in their opposition to the apartment development. Four residents were present at the planning board meeting Monday.

Ullian defended his building, as he has at previous planning board and neighborhood meetings, explaining the tenancy requirements again.

He is looking for 100 percent subsidized housing from the department of housing and urban development. If granted, elderly persons over 62 and handicapped of any age would be subsidized if they came within income limitations and would pay full rent if they did not.

The owner-developer would choose the

Adult education starts Jan. 30th at high school

The winter session of the Winchester Adult Education Program will begin during the week of Jan. 30.

A number of new courses will be offered including American Musical Theater: Past & Present, Fun With Film, Parent Effectiveness Training, Antiques and How to Know Them, Basic Computer Programming, Basic Income Tax Preparation, Self Defense for Women, The Art of Portrait Painting and Visual Expression.

Students may register by mail through one of the many flyers located all around town or in person in the main office of the high school from 6:30 - 8 on Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 25 and 26.

Schools lack challenge, need better ratios, say private school parents

Better teacher-pupil ratios, more challenging programs, and discipline are the main reasons Winchester parents send their children to private school.

Such is the conclusion drawn by Superintendent William MacDonald from a survey taken of local parents of private school children.

About 10 per cent of the school age children in Winchester are in private schools - 484 students. The survey, sent out at the behest of the school committee, was returned by the parents of 183 of those children. Supt. MacDonald reported on the survey at a recent school committee meeting.

Of the respondents, 68 pointed to a 'more challenging academic program' as one reason for sending their children out of the public system.

"It's a very important and telling criticism that the public schools are not challenging enough," commented committee Chairman Robert Frank. The committee has directed MacDonald to investigate how the curriculum might be altered to respond to this criticism.

"The subject of 'raising the bar' - making the public school curriculum more challenging - has come up before at school committee meetings. 'It seems the concerns here (in the report) are similar to the ones we as a committee have been expressing throughout the year,'" noted board member Heinrich Holland.

The committee in the past has pointed to lower standard test scores and a lack of emphasis on programs for "gifted" students as problems to be dealt with in the system.

"I have yet to find anyone who thinks the

May be cut more

School budget pared to $112,000 increase

Under pressure from the finance committee to cut their budget for next year, the school committee has been paring away at their personal services and other expenses budgets over the past two weeks.

Originally projected to increase by $370,000, the budget has been reduced to $8,728,000, an increase of roughly $112,000 over last year's budget. There are indications that the final figure will be reduced even more.

The committee presented their budget at a sparsely attended public hearing at McCall Junior High School Jan. 11. Board member Constance Papas gave an overview of the budget, which at that time was still $247,000 higher than last year's total. She noted that that figure represented less than a three per cent increase.

"We have made difficult choices and will continue to scrutinize the budget for additional savings," said Mrs. Papas. She said the budget "is open to further discussion and modification before a final vote is taken on January 30 and before its subsequent presentation at the annual town meeting."

Since the hearing, the school board had chopped away at the other expenses budget, which is now up by four per cent; as opposed to an original increase of 10 per cent.

Another $60,000 has been taken out of the budget for salary differentials. This figure represents the amount saved as a result of staff turnovers - that is, when a teacher leaving the system is replaced by a teacher on a lower salary step. Another $12,000 was taken out from the budget for salary increments, which have been overbudgeted in the past.

The school board may well reduce the increase down to zero by the time they finish with the budget. Mrs. Papas noted that if the $43,000 budgeted to reduce the pupil-teacher ratios for grades 2 and 3 were taken out, and if the amount needed for sabbaticals is much less than the $95,000 budgeted, then there would be little if any increase in the budget.

The school board voted to reduce the ratios for grades 2 and 3 from 25-to-1 to 22-to-1 last fall in an effort to reinvest some of the savings gained from declining enrollments. The board will re-examine the proposal at this Monday's meeting, however. Mrs. Papas said she would rather wait until the system is reorganized and schools are closed in the following year (1980) to start making substantial program improvements.

Whatever moves the board takes in the next week, they will have to defend the budget again before the finance committee in a joint meeting Jan. 26 (this meeting was originally set for tonight and later postponed. The boards met once before Dec. 29).

At the hearing Jan. 11, about 35 persons, mostly FinCom members and other town officials, along with school administrators, showed up.

Noting a projected decrease in enrollment of 356 students, along with an increase in the budget, Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins said she was "disturbed at a rather dramatic increase in per pupil costs for next year."

"That's something we worry about as much as you," responded school board member Heinrich Holland, who explained that there are a number of costs in the school system which are not directly related to enrollment decline.

Holland cited the fact that no school closings are planned for next year as one reason for the increase. He predicted "a sizeable reduction in costs" for 1980-81, when some school closings seem likely. "It will keep rising until then," said Holland of the budget.

Along with the capital costs involved with keeping all the schools open next year, Mrs. Papas pointed to a number of other costs not directly related to enrollment.

"First, there will be approximately 12.5 fewer teaching positions in the school system in fiscal year 1979," she said. "While our general pupil-teacher ratio is 25-to-1, it should be noted that because of the way numbers fall in classroom populations, because of age groupings, room size limitations, and the range of elective offerings, this is not always possible."

"Second," she continued, "as our staff becomes less mobile and more mature, the average cost of teachers' salaries increases, and this cost is not offset by reductions, which tend to come from the bottom end of the salary scale."

"Third, we have provided approximately $95,000 in our budget for the maximum number of sabbaticals, as required by contract, but we will make any necessary adjustment in that account after April 1st, when requests are reviewed."

Mrs. Papas also noted that the demand for services has increased in recent years, especially in the area of special education (Chapter 766) programs.

Catherine Alexander presented the details of the Chapter 766 budget, noting that there are currently 673 students receiving help under state-mandated programs. While the number is down from last year, she said new requests for core evaluations have been coming in at a rate of about 10 per month.

In addition to school-aged children, Mrs. Alexander pointed out that the school system is now also responsible for all special needs students aged 3-6, some students currently in state institutionalized programs, and any 18-21-year-old students without high school diplomas.

One addition to the 1979 Chapter 766 budget is a program at the high school for students who are "exhibiting anti-social or 'acting-out' behavior and for lack of a better definition can be classified as having moderate to severe emotional problems." This program will involve 12-15 students at the high school in a "highly structured, alternative class environment."

The total 766 budget shows a slight decrease, from $932,210 this year to $930,129 for next year. "Chapter 766 has begun to stabilize within the school setting," said Mrs.

Insurance agent threatened

Local officers assist FBI in extortion investigation

It's not every day the FBI shows up in Winchester.

But that was the case this week, when federal agents enlisted the support of local police in cornering an extortion suspect.

Wayne G. Trippett, 32, of Whitin ave., Revere, was arrested Monday evening in Revere in connection with threats against a local insurance agent and his family.

Apparently alerted by Peter Scribner of Melrose, who operates an insurance business at 40 Church st. here in town, FBI agents first appeared in Winchester Jan. 6 and asked the police for help in stalking out Scribner's office.

According to police, Scribner had received an anonymous letter demanding payment of $50,000 on threat of death. The letter also told Scribner that a phone call would come in around 6:30 p.m. on the 6th with instructions as to where to drop off the money.

Officers Theodore Yeanacopolis and Kenneth Albertelli joined 11 FBI agents in stalking out Scribner's office in anticipation of the call.

But the call never came. After a few hours, the Winchester officers were back on normal duty.

The FBI was back in town Monday, again enlisting local help. This time, Sergeant Roland Roy went along.

Since the last contact, Scribner had received more threatening notes, both at his office and at his home in Melrose, demanding the $50,000 and this time threatening his family as well.

A phone call came around noon from the extortionist, and still another around 6:30 the same evening. Scribner told the man during the second call that he would not be able to obtain the money, but that he could put together a lesser sum. The extortionist arranged to call back in two hours.

The phone rang again at 8:30, and the extortionist said the smaller sum would do. He then gave Scribner instructions for the drop-off, set for the parking lot of the Squire Club in Revere.

Inspector William Nash and Sgt. Roy accompanied the FBI team to the Revere nightclub and set up their stakeout. The money was dropped near a dumpster in back of the club.

At about 11:30, the agents saw a white male enter the lot and retrieve the package of money. The man went to his car, where he was arrested and identified as Trippett. The package contained just over $100, enough to make the charge a violation of the federal extortion statute.

The suspect was taken to the Kennedy Building in Boston, where he was booked. He was scheduled to appear before a US magistrate in Federal Court Tuesday morning.

Postman awarded for heroism

Perhaps it's the chance occurrences of life that bring out the best in people. At any rate, Postman Daniel E. Coss of 30 Salem st. had his chance last August and proved himself.

Coss was recently awarded by the post office for "an act of heroism, at risk of life or personal safety, in time of emergency."

The citation for the special achievement award, tells the story simply.

"On Tuesday, Aug. 23, 1977, Daniel E. Coss, in the course of his rounds as a mail carrier, observed a dog attacking a child. Showing complete disregard for his own safety, Daniel went to the aid of the child, who by this time had been bitten several times. After driving off the dog, Dan carried the girl to his truck and placed her inside for her own protection, since the dog made several further tries at re-attacking his victim."

The parents of the little girl, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Scanlon, sent a letter to the postman expressing their gratitude "for Danny's unselfish action in preventing further harm to their daughter."

The award, a check from the post office for $100, was given to Coss Jan. 11 by Winchester Postmaster Daniel J. Moynihan, along with regional manager Charles R. Santos.

Local son chosen as astronaut for the Space Shuttle

Cmdr. Frederick H. Hauck

On Monday, NASA released the names of 35 new astronauts who will take part in Space Shuttle operations in the 1980's. Among those on the list is Commander Frederick H. Hauck, USN, son of Mrs. Philip Hauck and the late Captain Philip F. Hauck, USN of Canterbury road.

Commander Hauck was born in Long Beach, CA., and attended public schools in Washington, DC, and Winchester. He was graduated from Tufts University in June, 1962, and was commissioned an ensign in the US Naval Reserve that same week in ceremonies aboard the USS Constitution.

He later decided to make the Navy his career and became an officer in the regular Navy. He received a master's in nuclear engineering from MIT in 1966, after which he entered training in naval aviation, receiving his wings in 1967. Five years ago, as a test pilot stationed at the Naval Air Station, Patuxent, Maryland, he participated in the testing of the F-14. He is currently executive officer of a squadron of A-6's, based at Whidby Island, Washington. He expects to report for duty at NASA headquarters in July.

Commander Hauck is married to the former Dolly Bowman of Kensington, Md., who is a graduate of Jackson College, and they have two children, a daughter, Whitney, and a son, Stephen.

Workmen have been busy over at the former site of Renton's Market. The entire block, owned by Centennial Realty Trust, which is run by Bob, George, and Ronald Surabian of Winchester, is being renovated. Bob Surabian reports two new stores will be moving in soon. He says the effort is in part to show the townspeople that "Winchester Center isn't dead." (Staff photo)

Town census due Jan. 20

The annual town census forms have gone out in the mail, and residents are asked to return them to the town clerk's office by Jan. 20 at the latest.

Be sure to read the instructions carefully, as the forms are different this year from past years. The information is used to compile the list of residents and is also utilized by the school department, fire and water departments, and by the state.

Those failing to return the information or filing false information are subject to a penalty under law.

★ Survey

In order to keep the ratios steady and trim the budget, the committee has cut several courses from the high school curriculum, notably Latin III, two social studies courses, several English electives, and others.

In defense of the curriculum, Asst. Supt. Walter Gleason said reports show students are meeting expectancy scores and in some cases exceeding them. As an example, he cited math scores, where "Eighty to ninety-five per cent" of the students are meeting the system's criteria. Gleason, who is in charge of curriculum, conceded, "The criteria may not be high enough, but at least we have the means of finding out how we're doing."

Board member Jack Nobel questioned whether an adequate amount of homework was being doled out to students. He said he had heard of some courses where there was no homework required at all.

Gleason responded that he knew of no courses at the secondary level which did not require some homework.

"Within certain limits, the kids will achieve what we expect them to achieve," said Frank.

MacDonald said he would be bringing the subject of making the curriculum more challenging up with the school principals.

According to MacDonald, a "very significant" number of parents cited discipline—or the lack of it—as a reason for sending their children off to private school. The superintendent, noting that many of the children had been pulled out of the public system three or more years ago, argued that discipline in the schools, particularly at the junior high level, has improved since then. He pointed to a change in the junior high administration as one reason for the improvement.

Other reasons parents gave for sending their children to private school, ranked by the superintendent according to how frequently they were cited, include: more individual attention (related to the pupil-teacher ratio), more rigid classroom structure, staffing, curriculum offerings, athletic programs, family tradition, extracurricular programs, length of school day, special needs, adjustment problems, less rigid classroom structure, and transportation.

Of the 484 private school children from Winchester, 176 are at St. Mary's and 12 are special needs students in private school placements. The greatest number of the remaining students attend Belmont Hill (56). Among the other schools most frequently attended are: Bartlett School (31), Austin Preparatory (28), Belmont Day School (24), and Buckingham Browne and Nichols (23). MacDonald also surveyed several communities and found Winchester to have less than the "average" percentage of private school students—about 10 per cent. He said 12-16 per cent was "a normal population in terms of private schools."

"I am extremely pleased to find us on the low side," commented board member Catherine Alexander, "and perhaps we are not experiencing a tremendous flight to private schools."

★ Budget

Alexander, "and it may even taper off as we are able to 'graduate' some students back into the mainstream of public education and to 'reclaim' others who are presently placed in out-of-district schools and for whom we must pay tuition."

Mrs. Alexander added, "The programmatic emphasis has clearly shifted during this year from the diagnosis and evaluation and referral stage to the building of actual service delivery."

Many of the questions at the hearing centered around staffing levels. FinCom member John Twomey asked the committee why there are more teachers budgeted for the junior high schools than for the high school, when the enrollment at the junior highs is lower.

The school board did not have the answer at hand, but Lynch Principal Robert Fitzgerald supplied it at the committee meeting the following evening.

Fitzgerald said the academic extras program at the junior highs adds about 4.2 teachers; there are two librarians and two reading specialists instead of the one of each at the high school; and, he said, "the fact that we operate two buildings has some impact."

In addition, all students at the junior high schools take seven periods per day, while high school students take five or six periods.

FinCom members Alice Mirak and Twomey questioned why the school board cut Latin III from the curriculum for next year. Noting that it had taken some effort to get Latin into the curriculum, Twomey concluded, "Now you're finally giving it the death blow." Mrs. Mirak wondered why the board would cut out the course to trim the budget while voting in additions to other parts of the budget.

"We have to shrink the number of potential offerings in some proportion to the enrollment decline in order to realize savings from it," replied Frank. "It's a choice, and not a pleasant one."

Holland said he would be "delighted" to see Latin III back in the curriculum and said if the public shows enough support for it, the course would probably be reinstated.

"But," said Frank, "if you're going to come to us and say cut the budget, you have to recognize that when you add back Latin III you have to take something else out."

Frank added that just because a program exists in the curriculum is no reason to perpetuate it. "We have to always look to areas where we ought to add things and look to where we're not getting enough out of a program."

Mrs. Mirak also questioned the addition of $43,000 to the budget to lower primary school ratios. She noted that "no school at present is staffed higher than 23-10-1, and many are below."

Frank explained that enrollments this year were below the projections; since the staffing level is determined in the spring, according to the enrollment projections, many of the elementary classes turned out smaller than expected. Frank said the administration was working on improving its projection technique, and that the elementary schools are budgeted for next year at a 22-10-1 ratio for grades K-3 and 25-10-1 for grades 4-6.

The elementary personal services budget is up overall by $92,096. While the number of teachers will be cut from 90.5 to 83.5 (a dollar savings of about $126,000), this saving was offset by other factors, including:

—$53,000 for step increases and salary increments;

—$43,000 to reduce the ratio in grades 2 and 3 to 22-10-1; —$10,000 reallocated from administrative costs, representing the teaching time of teaching-principal Robert Forest at Ambrose;

—$20,000 for "additional staffing that took place after adoption of the 1978 budget."

Selectmen Chairman Hankins told the school board at last week's hearing, "I'm glad to see the budget has already been reduced (from the original estimate), but I hope the school committee will keep in mind that there will be other burdens placed on the town this year and keep the increases as small as possible." Mrs. Hankins mentioned unemployment insurance and a pension fund for town employees as two of the new costs the town will be facing this year.

There is another additional cost in sight for the future as well: negotiations are continuing for the teachers and secretaries, and no estimate has been included in the school budget figures to date. Negotiated increases for the principals, custodians and food service workers are included in the budget.

Mrs. Hankins asked if the committee expected about a five per cent rise in teacher salaries. Chairman Frank's response was, "I don't think it is constructive for us to comment on what that assumption will be." A five per cent increase would add about $250,000 to the personal services budget.

School Committee notes

Chapter 766 funding

When we said last week in a front page story that state funding for special education in Winchester (under Chapter 766) was down for this year, we were only partially right.

The article said $1,033,000 was the "estimated" reimbursement from the state. In fact, that figure represents what the school department estimated to be the cost of Chapter 766 programs for the year. That cost included overhead—a portion of administrative salaries, equipment costs, etc.

By law, the assessors have to use that sum to calculate the tax rate, says Town Comptroller Alphonse Faggiano.

But the Cherry Sheet figures released last spring showed that the state planned on paying back considerably less—in the area of $650,000, in fact. So while the assessors used one figure, the school department and the finance committee bargained on another.

So when the state announced that Winchester would be getting back $782,000, town officials figured they were getting back a good deal more than they expected. The town also received a one-time grant of $157,000, which brings the total for Chapter 766 reimbursements for this year to $939,169, pretty close to the actual cost of the program, if you take out the overhead.

Jan. 23 meeting

The next regular school committee meeting (as opposed to the numerous budget meetings held of late) is scheduled for Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Sanborn House.

On the agenda are:

—A discussion of whether or not to extend kindergarten to full day sessions;

—The impact on curriculum of having one school in the system for grades K-8;

—A report on testing results;

—A request for approval of a teacher effectiveness training course;

—Reconsideration of an earlier vote to reduce the pupil-teacher ratio in grades 2 and 3 to 22-10-1.

Title I night

The Winchester Title I Parent Advisory Council unanimously voted at their monthly meeting Dec. 8 at Lynch Junior High to hold a combined "Title I Night" at McCall Junior.

This program, coordinated by Mrs. Misty Schwartzman, will be Tuesday from 7:30 to 8:30 in the math open area, adjacent to the Title I room.

The next meeting of the Winchester PAC will be held at St. Mary's School March 9 from 9:30 to 10:30.

tenants, approximately 90 percent of which he expects would come from Winchester. Ullian said that is the standard figure. If any of the units were to remain vacant, the government would pay 80 percent of the rent for 60 days, but after a year it would pay nothing.

In answer to a question from the board, Ullian said that his stake in the esthetics of the building is not contingent on less than 100 percent subsidy. The board had questioned if a developer who puts up his own money in a project is more likely to maintain the building better than one who knows his rents will come in anyway.

Ullian's attorney said, "There is a substantial investment in this project and a lengthy mortgage. In addition, the subsidy can be removed at any time if the premises are found not to be safe, decent, and sanitary." He added, "We'd be throwing away value if we didn't make it the best we could."

Another question from the board concerned the number of parking spaces the Winchester House would have. Parking would be under the building and to the rear. There have been 31 spaces allocated in the plans.

Tseckares asked if 31 spaces were enough for a 110-unit building. Ullian thought that it would be sufficient, but said he would be willing to change parking plans if necessary.

Toward the end of the hour-long discussion, Ullian and Atty. Kargman, answered several more questions. In response to both members of the board and residents at the meeting, Ullian said the seven-story building would be air conditioned and would be acoustically designed to cut down noise from passing trains. He said he would be paying taxes and would be willing to submit a landscaping plan for approval.

Ullian ended the meeting by agreeing to investigate new sites for Winchester House.

Firemen out for car fires and accidents

There were several car fires over the past week, and firemen responded to three mutual aid calls to neighboring towns. In addition, winter weather has led to accidents and problems throughout town with water pipes and boilers.

Firefighters responding to a call for a car fire on Lowell avenue Jan. 6 found a 1977 Chevrolet station wagon immersed in flames. On Jan. 9 a late model Plymouth wagon was discovered on fire on Cross street. Another car was partially damaged by fire Jan. 10 on Robinhood road. And arson was suspected in the case of a car fire Jan. 11 on Fernway near Cambridge street. The car was found to have been stolen the same day from the Somerville High School parking lot.

Broken pipes caused extensive damage to the first and second floors and the basement of a home on Leslie road Jan. 7. Frozen pipes

at UMass Boston

Trustees of the University of Massachusetts recently appointed Claire A. Van Ummerson acting chancellor of the University's Boston campus.

She succeeds Carlo L. Golino, who submitted his resignation in November, effective January 31.

Mrs. Van Ummerson, 42, has been associated with UMass-Boston since 1968, and has been associated vice chancellor for academic affairs since 1976. She joined the faculty in 1968 as an assistant professor of biology, and was promoted to associated professor, with tenure, in 1974.

She is married to Dr. Frank Van Ummerson, a dentist, and they have two children. The Van Ummersens live in Winchester.

burst in another home Jan. 10, apparently caused because the home had been without power since the outage of Jan. 9.

A fire broke out in a Sheridan circle home Jan. 7 when the resident tried to move a refrigerator tied to a gas line. Heavy smoke damage and a burned floor resulted, and the refrigerator was a total loss.

Engine 2 and the ambulance responded to a one-car accident Jan. 9 in front of 148 Forest st. One person was taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment.

Four persons were treated for facial injuries after a two-car accident near Sandy Beach on the Mystic Valley Parkway Jan. 10. Engine 2 and the ambulance responded, and the injured persons were taken to Lawrence Memorial Hospital.

On Monday, a car collided with a snowplow on Main street, and one person was taken to Winchester Hospital for treatment.

Firemen went out on three mutual aid calls this week. Ladder 1 went to Stoneham on a second alarm Jan. 12 to help out at a fire at Love's Furniture Store. On the same day, an engine company went to Stoneham fire headquarters to cover while Stoneham firemen were out on another box alarm.

The third mutual aid call was to Arlington Saturday to help local units with a medical aid call.

At 8 a.m. Jan. 12, a driver who had parked his fuel truck at Swanton street and Florence avenue found his truck was leaking. Firemen were called in to wash down the area.

Engine 2 and Ladder 1 put out a chimney fire on the evening of Jan. 12.

Water in the boiler room at the Crawford Church caused some problems Sunday morning, and firemen responded to help pump the room out.

The department also helped out when one of the town's sidewalk plows ran into the wall and broke the display window at the Coward Shoe Store downtown on Sunday.

Yore named to head fire association

At the Annual Meeting of the Winchester Fireman's Relief Association, held on January 9, the following officers were elected for 1978:

President, Kevin M. Yore; vice president, Robert J. Sullivan, Jr.; secretary, Norman E. Doucette; treasurer, William J. O'Leary.

Board of directors, Paul E. Hogan, George J. Moran, Norman J. Delorey, and Thomas P. McDonough.

Auditors, Robert M. Walsh, Jr., John J. Frongillo, Jr., and Kenneth P. Duffy.

THE WINCHESTER STAR

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

Clean it up!

Once upon a time the Aberjona River and Mystic Lakes were clean. There were plenty of fish, and it must have made a pleasant afternoon, sitting in a boat or along the shore, waiting for a bite. Hardly a second thought could have crossed the minds of bathers as they drove in off of Sandy Beach for a cool dip on a hot summer's day.

And now, for all but the youngest and most innocent, there must be second thoughts and more before they even venture near the shores of Mystic Lake. The water there and in the river is rated Class C by the state: "Unfit for contact with human skin."

Something ought to be done about it, one might say. Well, there is a group of citizens in the Mystic Valley Basin that is trying to do something about it: the Mystic River Watershed Association.

In conjunction with the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, the watershed association has compiled a preliminary report on the entire basin, and they mean to make some changes. They are supporting the Mass. Division of Water Pollution Control in an effort to upgrade the lakes and river to Class B, which means the waters would be fit for fishing and swimming once again.

On Feb. 3, a public hearing will be held in Gardner Auditorium at the State House to discuss new criteria and new regulations for the Mystic Valley Basin. Members of the general public, along with representatives of the watershed association and others, are invited to attend and submit testimony. The hearing will continue throughout the day, in order to give as many persons as possible a chance to speak their minds.

We urge all interested citizens and town officials to attend the meeting and testify. Copies of the proposed new rules and regulations are available through the division of water pollution control, 110 Tremont St., Boston, 02108.

Written testimony may be submitted to the division, and anyone wishing to speak up in person should call the division (727-3855) and get your name on the list.

The long range results of these proceedings will have a substantial impact on Winchester: the opportunity is there to start cleaning up the Aberjona River and the Mystic Lakes and open up a whole new recreation area, right on our doorstep, for public use.

If you'd like to see your children able to get what they deserve from the open space we have left, speak up now. —DKF

Bay State roll call

December 19-23

The House. The House held 30 roll calls during the week, raising the session's total to an even 750. The roll call records local representatives' votes on 11 key tallies.

Certificates of need (H2960, H6661, H6806) — House defeated three of Gov. Dukakis' amendments to bills allowing construction and expansion of two hospitals and one nursing home, totalling some $34 million. The amendment to all three bills directs the hospital or nursing home, the department of public health, the local health council, and other community representatives to study and develop a less costly alternative to the proposed projects, and to report back by May 1, 1978, at which time the public health council would have 90 days to accept the lower cost alternative or the original plan. The three projects were denied approval by the public health council under the certificate of need law which is needed for any medical facilities desiring to spend over $100,000 for renovations or construction, and under state law, the legislature can override the council's decisions.

Rep. Sherman Saltmarsh voted all three times against development of lower cost plans for the three projects.

Real estate brokers (H1596) — House defeated 152-52 a bill requiring a written disclosure statement by real estate brokers and salesmen, when selling residential real estate. Under the bill, the statement, required before the offer to buy and purchase and sales agreement, would inform the buyer that the broker represents the seller, not the buyer; that the purchase and sales agreement is binding when signed, and that the buyer should consider hiring a lawyer. Failure to give the written statement to the buyer could result in suspension of broker's license, return of all deposits, and a three-day period for the buyer to revoke his offer to buy.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the bill.

Appeals Board (H3765) — House defeated 127-103 a bill providing that failure to act on a petition or permit by a planning or appeals board shall not be deemed as approval of those petitions or permits.

Rep. Saltmarsh opposed the bill.

Cardiopulmonary (S189) — House gave final approval 210-5 to a measure requiring training in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) to be offered to students in public school health classes, if a majority of the local school committee approves it. CPR teaches how to treat and save heart attack victims in an emergency.

Saltmarsh voted with the majority.

Ethics - WBZ-TV — House defeated 146-84 a move to suspend rules to allow House consideration of an order directing the House ethics committee to hand over all materials in connection with its

Enough study

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a town resident and homeowner since 1937, I certainly have been interested in the future of Winchester's business center. In these brief 40 years we have seen many changes, signs of "progress", particularly in the increased use of the automobile. Winchester was planned for the 19th century, witness the many square "horse and buggy" street corners, and a shopping center which even raising the railroad tracks has not overcome the inevitable obsolescence.

This has been accentuated recently by the efforts of TMM Vincent G. Carroll, of 207 Highland Ave., to improve the parking situation for shoppers at the center by removing the meters for a trial period of one year, substituting a two-hour time limit properly enforced. Notice that at least two local banks have opened branches in more accessible locations. It has been rumored that some owners and employees of business concerns take up the very limited parking spaces at or near their establishments for considerable time. If this be true I must confess, but sadly, that I do not understand why anyone would be concerned about the fate of the business center.

How can we compete with ample free parking areas such as in Stoneham, Reading, Wakefield, Wellington, Burlington Mall, etc.? Haven't we "studied Winchester Center to death"?

John H. Burt
2 Hollywood Rd.
PS net income of our local parking meters could, in "Plain's" language, be considered "peanuts".

Letter of intent

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A recent editorial on school closing alluded to rental between the Bartlett School and Winchester stating that the Bartlett School has not indicated a preference for remaining at the Wyman School property. According to the terms of the rental agreement negotiations for a new lease could not be initiated prior to January 1, 1978.

In compliance with the agreement, The Bartlett School has sent a letter of intent to the Selectmen of Winchester, stating its desire to continue leasing the property.

The Director of the Bartlett School, Norine T. Casey, is delighted to be a part of this fine community, and looks forward to more happy years as a tenant in the Wyman School property.

Birds are like people

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It seems to me that birds are like people, in many ways. They have individuality, temperament, personality. They are all differently endowed: some are perfect in feather and form, others are not. Some seem to be handicapped, in one way or another, and some of these handicapped ones, I find from my observations, frequently compensate in other ways for whatever it may be that they are lacking.

For instance we have one little grey junco that has no tail. In profile she (in deference to women's lib, the prestigious League of Women Voters, federal laws against discrimination, etc., I will call it a "she") and avoid any further hassle about it (she). I say, looks something like a gray dish without a handle, lopsided and altogether out of balance.

But looks are deceiving in her case. This little girl makes up in aggressiveness for whatever feathers she may lack in her tail. As far as I can see, she flies around the yard as well as any of the other birds. Somehow she manages to balance and steer without her rudder, even when it involves flying up to the main feeder, which is about 10 feet off the ground. She hits the holes in the fence which I use to discourage pigeons without difficulty, and, once aboard, proceeds to take over the premises without further delay.

Whenever challenged by a bird her size, she lowers her little head on her outstretched neck, and charges like a bull at the intruder, giving him the "bum's rush" like a bouncer in a waterfront barroom. She then retains possession of the platform alone until she has had her fill.

Whether she was born without a tail, whether some cat got it, whether she got caught in a revolving door, or just failed to get across South Border road in time when one of our local "hot-rod" drivers was taking the scenic road to Boston, I cannot say. I hope for her sake that a new tail grows out again soon. It must be very traumatic for a female bird to be without such an important article of dress when every other bird has one to display. Maybe she will be easier to get along with if it does. I suspect that the fact that she is "different" accounts, in part, for her aggressive behavior.

Talk on energy

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

The Winchester-Arlington Peace Action Committee will sponsor a presentation on The Use of Nuclear Energy, given by Dr. Robert Case of the Edith Fox Library, 175 Mass. Ave. in East Arlington on Tuesday, Jan. 24 at 8 p.m.

Dr. Case is professor of mathematics at Northeastern University and a member of the Advisory Commission on Energy Policy of the National Council of Churches. As a scientist and political activist, Dr. Case is an articulate opponent of our current national energy policy. He is impressive not only for his expertise in this area, but for his ability to communicate creatively about what he thinks.

It is the hope of the Peace Committee that interested people will come to hear Dr. Case and that there will be some good discussion.

Mary Lawler

No parole

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

A "peach of a guy" is the way we would have described Patrick (Packy) Hughes nine years ago. I remember him well, after all, he lived across the street during the summer. My God, who wouldn't remember his incredibly handsome face when he smiled at you on the beach?

Oh yes, who could ever forget Packy Hughes, age 27, father of two and husband to Diana — suddenly shot to death Dec. 21, 1968? Well, it seems the parole board is considering the request of George P. McGrath (convicted murderer of Patrick Hughes) for commutation of his two life sentences after serving only eight-and-a-half years.

You see, George is a new man. He's put that December day behind him now and just wants a chance to be free once again.

Tell him no, members of the board — not unless he can bring Packy Hughes home to see his kids next Christmas Eve.

P.G. Keenan
288 Main St.

(Editor's note: P.G. Keenan knew Patrick Hughes as a neighbor during summer residence in Marshfield.)

Effective letter

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Good gracious, me! What a power failure that must have been to have "effected" (with an "e," as you reported in the opening paragraph of your lead article last week) nine hundred Boston Edison customers! Since The American Heritage Dictionary (1976) defines the verb "effect" as "to produce as a result; bring about; make," the Edison company must find power failures of such magnitude to be extremely profitable!

Was the proofreader's office by any chance located in the area where the lights went out?

Humorously yours,
Carol Y. McRae (Mrs. A.I.)
40 Calumet Rd.

Startling case history

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Noting a Mrs. Phyllis Estabrook's letter in this week's paper (Jan. 12) on the subject of cigarette smokers in middle or even advanced age, who hesitate to quit smoking because they feel it may be too late, or possibly think they "have it made", I would like to emphasize Mrs. Estabrook's letter, and also, for the very first time, offer a published proof of her subject matter which happened to this writer almost eight years ago and which should help any addict, via a startling case history.

I had been a two-to three-pack-a-day smoker for a period of about 50 years, scoffed at anybody who ever tried to warn me that I was smoking too much, and gayly continued on until I was brought up short one day, when I had left my chair to go up and turn off the TV set while my visiting daughter-in-law was there. I never made it. I simply passed out totally, fell and hit my head on the TV set sharp corner, and the next thing I knew I was still on the floor, my wife wiping my head, and my daughter-in-law had phoned my physician, who immediately sent for the ambulance, where I went with lights on and the siren going full blast.

On arrival at the hospital I was put to bed and given the usual treatment given to heart patients, whereas I was not in any way suffering from heart disease but only a high blood pressure condition, for which the doctor had been treating me for some years, and felt he had under control. It was not for three days that he had consulted with another specialist who visited me, asked a few questions gave me a few pokes in the usual places, and immediately had me transferred off the heart floor and into a new world.

In a word, he suspected both emphysema and chronic bronchitis and began tests to pin this down. He was successful, and of course right, and I then spent the following six weeks practically on a respirator of some kind, both the portable one that orderlies wheel around the floor five times a day and a huge wall-to-wall affair that you sat down with a technician and sucked in and blew out for a long session once or twice a week. I also was taken to the surgery once and whatever they did I never knew, except that they had put me out, and I was there for an hour, and inserted some instrument into my lungs.

Meanwhile I had lost about 30 pounds in weight, looked like a walking corpse, and for at least two weeks I was thought to be on the edge of death — so my surgeon physician told me.

Obviously after all this, nobody had to tell me to never smoke another cigarette — I had simply lost all desire, and am now in the eighth year of no cigarettes (an occasional one of those tipped light cigars that I didn't inhale and which have had no result whatever, good or bad).

If a chronic cigarette smoker could get up the courage to simply put himself in the hands of a doctor and be hospitalized for a few weeks, he could prove that he would quit smoking with no further problem — provided he could afford it. Most people short of 65 years could not afford it.

I just by chance dropped a short note to my ex-physician (in a nearby suburb, where we lived for a few years) telling him how I was getting on, after nearly eight years. He wrote back the very same day and congratulated me and said he knew of nobody who could even write a letter like mine after going through what I had.

So, it is little wonder that such efforts as that of Mrs. Estabrook's, could be wonderful and should get total publicity and not an obscure little note in the back pages of a paper.

I don't go around telling people not to smoke — I don't even kick if they come in my house as a guest and smoke. I feel it's none of my business, but I really feel for so many kids of both sexes who I see smoking cigarettes, and wish there were some way I could get through to them. I guess they have to wait it out and find out for themselves — often too late.

Shrimp cocktail, anyone?

By The Observer

Resident Maurice DiBlasi made the front page of the Herald-American this week, in a story about all the "bugs and worms" he's found in local water supplies.

We've seen them too — and smelled them. The presence of fresh water shrimp in the reservoirs probably indicates the presence of a good, healthy food chain up there. But do we have to drink them?

Considering the problems Winchester's had with contamination over the past few months, this is a problem town officials and the water department should be investigating. There doesn't seem to be any immediate threat to public health; but who's to say the problems of last fall won't happen again?

***

This comes a bit late, but it's needed nonetheless. Two weeks ago we ran an advertisement, with the heading, "EPA Citizen's Bulletin." The heading is misleading and should have carried a clearly visible disclaimer: It was not a bulletin released by the Environmental Protection Agency, nor was it sponsored by the EPA.

Some part of the advertisement may in fact have come from an EPA bulletin, but what portion of the ad is quoted from the EPA is not clearly marked.

To repeat: the advertisement was in no way sponsored, endorsed, or generated by the EPA.

***

So far, 65 persons have shown an interest in becoming town comptroller, but all indications are that the number will go much higher.

That 65 does not include potential applicants who will be seeing the ad in their professional publications for the first time this week.

The screening committee has a pool going, with members guessing on the number who will submit their resumes by 7:30 Feb. 13. Selectmen were astounded and very pleased to hear that guesses range from a low of somewhere in the 90's to a high of 304.

The one question Selectmen Chairman Barbara Hankins had for screening committee chairman John McElwee was the practicality of having so many applications to go through.

In his precise, efficient manner, McElwee replied, "I don't see that as a problem at all." With his efficient and no-nonsense approach to the matters at hand, the chairman is fully capable of leading his committee through 300 applications.

We hope that Winchester will be fortunate enough to have that many persons who want to take on the job of comptroller.

***

Four residents have taken out papers to run for office, as of Tuesday:

Barbara Hankins will run for another three-year term on the board of selectmen; N. Bruce Hanes is seeking re-election to the board of health; Clarence S. Borggaard has thrown his chapeau into the ring for a three-year term as library trustee; and Edward F. Stepper will run for a five-year term on the housing authority.

The ranks of those running for town meeting member are still pretty slim, though. Only three persons have taken out papers; eight seats in each district will be up for filling this spring. And for the veterans of the meeting: anyone seeking re-election to town meeting does not have to take out papers.

The Keystone Cop Award this week goes to the member of Winchester's finest who, after having chains put on his car in the police garage, started to back out, caught one of the bicycles stored there (which bicycle was tied to a nearby steam pipe) on the front bumper pulled the bicycle and thereby unwittingly yanked the pipe out of joint.

Last week's award goes to the whole department for running out of gas. It seems that in the course of changing vendors, someone forgot to arrange for a refill. The supply got down too low, humidity built up in the tank, and the officers had to look elsewhere for gas to avoid having water fool up their fuel lines.

***

Looking for parttime, sometime work? Chief McHugh says the police department is looking for two school crossing guards to fill in as substitutes. The hours and days vary; however, the chief says there is one opening which may be good for the next six weeks. Contact the police department for more information.

Directory needed

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I first approached Clare Corcoran, principal of Vinson-Owen Elementary School, about a year ago and asked her if we might survey the parents of our school and determine if they might like a school directory such as the one we had in a previous school district.

At that time a simple notice sent home to the parents would have easily assessed the extent of any support for what I found to be an invaluable source of communication among parents at our former school. Instead of surveying the parents, Dr. Corcoran referred me to Superintendent MacDonald, who suggested this be done through the V-O Parents' Association.

I was told at the V-O Parents' Association Board meeting on April 13, 1977 that the parents did not want a school directory. I directed the board to the first question on a sample survey sheet, which reads as follows: "I think a Vinson-Owen School Directory is a good idea." (Check yes or no.) I suggested that we could easily find out if the parents wanted a vehicle of communication by this simple survey. I was told that it would have to be a "board oriented project" and was not given the option of sending it home

The Winchester High School Class of 1968 is looking for persons to help organize a 10th year reunion. Anyone interested should call 729-2960 or 861-8619.

***

Another entry in the bloopers column: Contrary to the by-line on the basketball story in last week's Star, Jack Noble did not write the story. The author was Jack Nolan (WHS '77), who was home from college (U. Missouri) for a couple of weeks and offered to help out with our sports coverage. Jack wrote the High School Update column and took pictures for The Star last year.

***

Charles Tseckares of the planning board is "becoming very interested" in the parking problem in the center and "wants to approach the board of selectmen and the town meeting with something significant."

The latest effect of meter feeding and inattention to parking rules apparently has been to chase the Handcraft House from Thompson Street.

Citing the closing of the store, Tseckares pointed to employees in first floor offices who park all day in front of their business, instead of using municipal lots and walking.

William Cummings, also on the planning board, noted his sadness at seeing the Handcraft House going. "It's a shop worth going downtown for — you wouldn't find one like it at the Mall or downtown Boston," he said.

If the parking problems downtown are driving businesses from Winchester at the same time that people are concerned about how to "revitalize" the same area, it is time to second Tseckares' thought and propose something "significant" to the selectmen and to the town.

***

A cul-de-sac in the Pine Ridge area will be needing a name and Planning Board Member William S. Cummings seconded a suggestion made by Town Archivist Ed Galvin.

One of the names Galvin suggested was that of Harrison Chadwick, long an important force in town. "I would like to see something named for Harrison Chadwick in tribute to his service to Winchester," he said.

Among other suggestions: Mabel Stinson, first town clerk in New England; Increase Nowell, early landholder; Samuel Smith, owner of the Vinson-Owen House; and David Youngman, town clerk, apothecary, physician who delivered the first Winchester baby.

Henry E. Simonds also made some suggestions: Samuel Smith, landowner in the late 1800's; Dr. Howard J. Chidley, prominent Congregational minister for 40 years; Rockfield, the name of the hill in the area; W.H. Bicknell, etcher and painter who lived on Arlington Street in the 1880's; and Hiawatha, in honor of Indians who used to live in this region.

***

Sheriff John F. Buckley, Sheriff of Middlesex County, was the principal speaker at the Winchester Rotary Club's weekly luncheon meeting recently.

Sheriff Buckley spoke to a capacity audience of interested Rotarians and guests about the many programs which have been instituted into the correctional system of Middlesex County resulting in reduced crime and helping to return rehabilitated persons to society as meaningful citizens.

These points were supported by the reduced number of inmates at the New Middlesex House of Correction.

Discussions are presently being held between the county and the state to see if this facility can be utilized by the state as one of their correctional institutions.

Pardon our error, and apologies to Henry Simonds: we reported last week that no one has signed up for the town committee on names.

Well, someone has after all. Henry Simonds, who played a key role in the historical commission's old house survey, put in his name in December, and someone down at Town Hall apparently missed it.

A Winchester native whose family has lived here for generations, Simonds has taken on a new task: recording the history of the town's streets and their names. When he's done with that, Simonds says he'll be starting on a history of the fire department.

In the meantime, he is working part-time at the town clerk's office, helping out with the town census.

under my own name, which I would gladly have done. The board voted unanimously not to survey the pa. ents.

I think a dire, or you would provide a vehicle of communication, which our school badly needs. Vinson-Owen has the highest pupil-teacher ratio of any elementary school in the town. Grades 2-6 have a ratio of 26:1. The third grade class has 36 students. Last year this same class had 34 students. The second and third grade teachers are among the finest I have ever seen. But I, as a certified teacher, and my husband, as a professor at MIT, know that you can teach more to 23 students than to 36 students, assuming the same ability range in both groups. There is an aide, but aides are not hired to prepare or teach lessons. They are hired to assist. These third graders are taught science, social studies, and language daily in a group of 36.

I believe the latest rated capacity of our school is about 335 students. Our principal, Clare Corcoran, has suggested that she could handle more, and that she has had as many as 400. At what cost? The two second grade classes in our school have a total of 45 students. In 1980, when these second graders are fifth graders and V-O is scheduled to absorb more students in these grades as a

Part III: The future

Consolidation comes to a vote at annual meeting Tuesday

(This is the third in a three-part series on the proposed consolidation of Winchester, Choate Memorial and Symmes Hospitals. Part three looks ahead to the future.)

Facing 1978 and the years ahead, the governing board of Winchester Hospital, along with those of many other community hospitals across the state, have had to look squarely at the idea of consolidation as a way to solve the problem of meeting the public's persistent and increasing demand for its services while hampered by inadequate space for expansion.

Public Law 93-641 has already mandated that hospitals in contiguous service areas focus area-wide in their planning to meet the specific health care needs of their area residents. And recent actions by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health in reviewing applications from hospitals for certificates of need to expand their services reflect a resistance by the health department to granting any approval, without the hospital having thoroughly explored the possibility of consolidation or the sharing of services with neighboring hospitals.

The handwriting of government, both federal and state, is already on the wall. It is already written, "You may not undertake any expense of alteration, renovation or building or introduce any new service or purchase any new equipment if the total cost exceeds $100,000 without first receiving approval from us." As a result, many hospitals have had to re-assess their positions in maintaining up-to-date institutions in accordance with governmental standards while, at the same time, providing modern medical care for their patients.

Many are now speculating that, by 1985, most hospitals in the country will be members of integrated systems of health care provider organizations. And a growing number of informed health care leaders believe that the voluntary hospital system will survive only if there is substantial voluntary movement toward interhospital collaboration.

A recent survey by the American Hospital Association showed that 1,070 of the nation's non-federal hospitals belong to a merged hospital system. The same survey reports 350 multiple hospital systems encompassing hospitals of all sizes. More than 3,100 hospitals are involved in sharing arrangements with one or more institutions.

Unlike many other businesses, the community hospital cannot afford the luxury of maintaining a status quo. Rapid advances in medical technology, occurring almost daily, must be reflected in new programs, new services and new equipment at the hospital or the hospital runs the risk of being by-passed by area physicians, patients and prospective employees, all of whom are concerned with modern, up-to-date medicine and health care. If the hospital cannot meet the needs of these three groups, it risks falling behind in its medical image and ultimately becoming, in effect, a "band-aid station."

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 24 at its annual meeting, Winchester Hospital's governing board will consider the question of consolidation with Choate Memorial and Symmes Hospitals.

Their decision, at that meeting, may be as momentous as the one made 66 years ago by a small group of determined, far-sighted and courageous ladies who took action to solve a problem pertinent to their era.

Annual town election.

For heart diseases

Research funding paying off with advances in medicine

by Ms. Phyllis Eastbrooks Campaign Chairman

During the past 25 years, cardiovascular medicine has made extraordinary progress in the fields of diagnosis, prevention, treatment, surgery, coronary care and rehabilitation. Many of these advances have been speeded by the increase in funding for research, and the application of new knowledge in programs developed by the American Heart Association.

Electronics and related technologies have joined forces with medicine to introduce a wide variety of devices and techniques that make more precise and effective the diagnosis and treatment of cardiovascular disorders. For examples:

Cardiac Catheterization - A thin plastic tube is passed through a vein of an arm or leg and through the heart valves into the heart chamber as X-rays enable the physician to guide the movement of the catheter. With a catheter in a heart chamber, pressure can be measured, blood samples taken, and X-ray opaque dyes injected to reveal irregularities or abnormalities of the inner surface of the heart and blood vessels.

Anticardiolipography - X-ray opaque fluid is injected into a heart chamber or through a blood vessel while high-speed X-ray motion picture photography records the passage of the dye through the heart to outline valve damage, heart defects or blood vessel disorders.

Ultrasound - Ultrasound frequencies, inaudible to the human ear, are bounced off ultrasound detectors to reveal blood vessel lesions and deformities of the heart. These devices permit the recording of the movement of blood as it flows through peripheral blood vessels without using needles, or in any way injuring the patient (non-invasive techniques).

Exercise Tolerance Tests - Electrocardiograms are taken and other tests performed to record the effects of physical effort as the patient exercises or walks on a treadmill or up and down stairs. These tests reveal physical capacity of post-heart attack victims to perform various tasks.

In all, 19,000,000 research dollars were invested by the American Heart Association and affiliates in 1975-76. But many more answers still are needed. Statistics covering 1968 - 1974 indicate that the age-adjusted death rate for coronary heart disease has fallen 14 percent. But much more needs to be done, more knowledge must be gained. The exact reasons for the drop in death rate are not known. Unknown also are the direct causes of high blood pressure and atherosclerosis. There is no totally reliable way to predict a heart attack or stroke.

Research must continue to refine advances that have been made. Drugs to lower blood pressure are being improved so that they are less expensive and have less side effects. A vaccine to provide long-term control against streptococcal infection should be developed.

Preventive cardiology must be improved and implemented. Research should determine how early high blood pressure and atherosclerosis begin in children and when preventive treatment should be initiated. Better ways must be found to identify those with actual and potential heart disease. Once identified, they must be brought under effective control and prevention programs. Patients must be motivated to persist with the continued medical care presently needed to keep high blood pressure and rheumatic fever under control.

The current level of cardiovascular research must be continued - and expanded - if these objectives are to be met in the future.

The American Heart Association represents you, through your contributions, on the research battleground against cardiovascular diseases.

You can do your part to help. Saturday, Feb. 11, 1978 is Winchester Merchants Heart Fund Saturday. All merchants in Winchester are being asked to donate a percentage of their profits on this one day, or a simple contribution to help fight the nation's number one killer - heart disease.

Ms. Eastbrooks and her volunteers will be visiting each merchant and will distribute educational materials at this time. They are asking local residents to please patronize the stores in Winchester on Saturday, Feb. 11 - please support Winchester's merchants so they can support this most worthy cause.

WATER AND HEALTH

It is time to take a good look at the facts and figures on the impurities in our water supply.

A Washington release reports that 60-90% of all cancer stems from commonplace pollutants in our environment.

A Library of Congress Report - Fumes in the air and chemicals in drinking water are increasing risks of cancer, heart disease and genetic mutations.

The Environmental Protection Agency has discovered that chlorine reacts with natural organics in the water and produces cancer causing agents in drinking water.

The Government is very concerned about the 5% increase in cancer each year.

There is no question that cancer is caused from both chemicals and viruses and Winchester water contains both.

Viruses in drinking water are a major health hazard and yet there is no standard for viruses. This is mainly because tests for them are difficult to make. The coliform bacteria test is used to indicate the presence of viruses for these two are usually found together. Coliform and viruses come from warm blooded animals and human waste.

The combination of old leaking sewer lines and old leaking water lines underground can allow the sewerage to enter the drinking water pipes when the water pressure is low or when it is shut off for repairs.

This water pipe problem is wide spread. Both Medford and Lynn are experiencing coliform bacteria in their water lines as Winchester.

Chemical carcinogens in drinking water are the other dangerous element. When the chlorine level is increased so does the formation of cancer causing chemicals increase. How much of these toxic chemicals can a person endure?

The human body was never meant to ingest so many harmful chemicals. The body chemistry is being changed causing normal cells to act abnormal, and this is known as cancer. Of course, everyone's body chemistry is different. Therefore, the effects will vary, but there is no way to tell how it will affect each individual so it is like playing Russian Roulette.

The Environmental Protection Agency is very concerned about dangerous chemicals in drinking water that measure in the low parts per billion. If you convert the 1.5 parts per million of chlorine now being used to its equivalent to parts per billion it comes out to 1,500 parts per billion of chlorine being ingested with a high amount of cancer causing chemicals. There is no higher single dosage intake of a chemical carcinogen than in tap water today. This consumption is made by every child and adult every day. It's no wonder that cancer is fast becoming the number one killer in this Country. It's no coincidence that cancer became a problem since chlorine was first used and has increased as the chlorine dosage increases throughout the Country.

Dr. Samuel Epstein, a surgeon, a professor and a specialist in cancer research was interviewed on the Dan Rather show and talked about water and said, "Don't alarm the public is the familiar outcry!"

"I think very serious questions have to be raised against a great number of the people in authority in this country for their having allowed the continued exposure of human populations to chemical carcinogens in water.

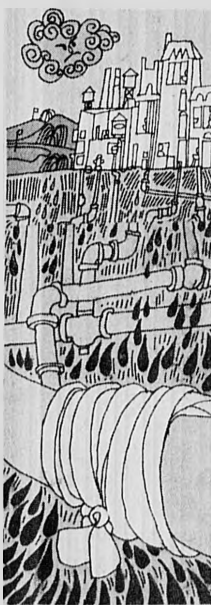

The mere fact that the levels are low - as far as a part per thousand, a part per million, a part per billion - doesn't mean anything. I could give you one part per billion - of botulinus toxin and you would drop dead immediately.

The one final point I would make about low levels is that there is no such thing as a safe level for chemical carcinogens, and this has been reiterated repeatedly by every expert committee. We don't know how to set safe levels for chemical carcinogens.

The public are entitled to what information there is, and they're entitled to make their own free choices. That is the essence of a democracy, where people can make choices on the basis of informed opinion. I think it's critical in any democracy that information should flow freely."

BOSTON GLOBE front page headline September 26, 1975

Water main leaks waste 75 million gallons in MDC area daily

Underground pipes have deteriorated with age. Most old pipes are worn out and leaking badly.

The amount of water leaking each day from the following Cities:

Medford, 3.6 million	Newton, 1.8 million
Worcester, 3.1 million	Cambridge, 1.7 million
Somerville, 3 million	Norwood, 1.6 million
Malden, 2.6 million

The old worn out sewer lines are also leaking but the amount of leakage is difficult to measure.

We have advanced in every area of technology except in water treatment and now it is finally taken place. These Home Water Purifiers have been tested on their ability of removing the impurities and chemicals in tap water by the Massachusetts Food and Drug Administration - the State Testing Laboratory in Lawrence and many reliable independent Laboratories and found this system is the most effective way of purifying our drinking water.

The Multi Pure filtration unit is a proven way of purifying tap drinking water.

See this health unit on display or call for a free home demonstration. Groups or organizations could call for a talk on water and health and how best to cope with the problems in water.

Local actors in dinner-theatre

The Candellite Players will continue their successful run of dinner theatre engagements at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel.

Plaza Suite, performed last fall, received excellent reviews. The upcoming production will be Neil Simon's Barefoot in the Park, featuring Jay Sibley, former Winchester resident, in the mother's role which she played in summer stock on Nantucket.

The Candellite Players is the brainchild of Ms. Sibley, who is also the company director. Winchester members are Ann Foskett, Mary Klug, Betty Vallee, Jack Guilderson and Ken Astill. Roles in Barefoot will be played by local residents Maureen Longmire, Peter Haydn, and former Winchesterite Frank Thayer, in addition to Ms. Sibley.

The play will be performed Jan. 27 and 28 and again Feb. 24 and 25. The price of tickets includes dinner, dancing, parking, tax and gratuities.

Future productions include Everyone Loves Opal on May 12-14, Last of the Red Hot Lovers in September, and Any Wednesday, directed by Bob Storer, in October.

Information and reservations are available by calling Annette at 426-2000 ext. 242.

Ron Fiorelli makes good as Denver caterer

Ron Fiorelli, a Winchester High School graduate, started working at the Denver Marriott Hotel mowing lawns and plowing snow. A year later, he is now catering manager.

He is in charge of about 35 persons involved in the daily operation of providing catering services at meetings, banquets and other functions held at the 464-room hotel.

Fiorelli began with the Denver Marriott when it opened in December 1975. He had applied for a job as a bartender, but there were no openings at the time, so he went into the grounds department. Six months later, Fiorelli, who attended Doane College in Crete, Nebraska, was transferred to the position of banquet houseman, setting up tables and chairs. Then 30 days later, he became floor manager, supervising the setting up.

Says Fiorelli, "The everyday problems of the employees who are setting up for a meeting or banquet are easier for me to relate to because I've been there."

Guild planning Snowflake social

The Winchester Chapter of the Guild of the Infant Saviour will hold its first social of the new year with a Snowflake Dessert Bridge and Whist Party on Tuesday, Jan. 24, at Gifford Hall of the Crawford Memorial Church.

Miss Alice M. O'Leary, president, will welcome the members and friends. Dessert and coffee will be served at 12:30, and bridge will start promptly at 1:15.

Mrs. Jeremiah McCarron is chairlady assisted by Mrs. C. Philip O'Rourke as co-chairlady with the following committee: Miss Margaret Callahan, Mrs. Frederick Connor, Mrs. Charles Cooke, Mrs. Walter Crotty, Mrs.

Patrick Curley, Mrs. Joseph Flynn, Mrs. Andrew Guthrie, Jr., Mrs. Newell Hare, Mrs. James Hayes, Mrs. William Hogan, Mrs. Henry Wagner, Mrs. Walter Malloy, Mrs. James Mawn, and Mrs. Bari McDonough.

Also Miss Adelaide McGovern, Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, Miss Mary M. McLaughlin, Mrs. Joseph Mullen, Mrs. Matthew Noonan, Miss Helen Louise Noone, Miss Mary O'Connor, Mrs. Joseph Pallotta, Mrs. William Pearce, Miss Mary Power, Mrs. Martin Titilash, Miss Alice Tully, Miss Gertrude Tully, Mrs. Henry Valcour, Mrs. Clarence Viger and Mrs. William Wadden.

Dancing classes start winter term

The Winchester-Woburn Social Dance Classes, featuring ballroom, disco and line dance instruction, including the hustle, will start a winter session for adults, beginner through intermediate levels, Monday Jan. 30 at the Crawford Memorial Church in Winchester and Friday, Feb. 3 at the United Methodist Church in Woburn.

All classes, open to the public, will be conducted by Susan Ehrreich and Dance Associates and will continue for nine weeks. A class for teenagers will be held in Lexington Tuesdays at 6 p.m., at the United Methodist Church, 2600 Mass. ave.

Classes in Winchester will be held Mondays at 7 p.m. for adult beginners and at 8:30 p.m. for adult intermediates at the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. In Woburn, on Fridays there will also be an adult beginner class at 8:30 p.m. and an adult intermediate class at 7 p.m. The teen class in Lexington will be on Tuesdays at 6 p.m.

The primary purpose of these classes is to equip people with a basic knowledge of a variety of popular dances, so they can enjoy and participate in any kind of social function, be it a school dance, wedding, company party, formal dinner dance or discotheque.

Registration for the Winchester and Woburn Dance Classes is now in progress. Those interested should contact Susan Ehrreich for further information at 1-358-7545 or 1-358-4067 in Wayland.

Jackie O'Callaghan has reason to be smiling: he won a jarful of jelly beans — along with the jar and a $10 credit to his savings account — by guessing how many beans are in the jar. The contest was held at the Washington Street branch of the Winchester Savings Bank from Dec. 8-22. Jackie, shown with sister Kelly and teller Lorraine Greco, guessed 957 beans, the closest of the roughly 70 guesses made by neighborhood kids. There were 938 in the jar. Jackie, 6, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Callaghan, 9 Bellevue ave. (Staff photo) result of school closings, will our present second graders have 18th grade classes of 30 or more? I think our school should be enrolled to capacity which as I understand it is 45 sq. ft. per child. Beyond that I feel any space or teacher time should be utilized to upgrade the quality of education. If we have space let's have a language lab or a science lab or a woodworking shop. This is what school systems like Brookline offer.

The value of our homes is directly affected by the quality of the Winchester school system. Ten per cent of our residents already have chosen to send their children to private schools. My tax bill is in excess of $4000.00. I feel our children deserve the best education that Winchester can provide according to the suggested rules and regulations. This does not include overcrowded buildings and class sizes of 36 students. We are told that our last year's class of 34 did well on the Stanford Achievement Tests. I ask, compared to what? Compared to these same students in a class size of 22? Compared to other high achieving towns? Let's continue the high quality of education that Winchester has always maintained, and let's continue to attract the conscientious type of resident that has always made our town great!

Communication is vital for maintaining excellence in education. The directory we think would be helpful for parents would contain no personal information. It would contain only names and addresses so that parents could communicate. The school committee, at Clare Corcoran's request through Superintendent MacDonald, debated the issue and chose to interpret the law in a way that denies parents access to the names and addresses of other parents. Town Counsel Douglas Randall and other legal experts interpret the law in a way that protects the student but does not penalize the parents. Parents' names and addresses for public institutions are public documents. Anyone wanting to get a name or address has ready access to it at the town hall where every Winchester resident above a certain age is listed with address, year of birth, and occupation. The price of the List of Residents is a mere two dollars. Any insurance salesman can buy it, and I assure you will not waste time trying to get a V-O school directory when he can easily purchase a directory of the whole town.

I hope all Winchester school parents will look ahead. Keep your options for communication open. Learn the facts. If you wanted to contact other parents at your school about an issue that seemed important to you without fear of censorship by school authorities, how would you do it without the names and addresses of the parents at your school?

New dates for open burning

Open burning will be allowed until March 15 with a permit from the fire department. Under new provisions approved by the state department of environmental quality engineering, brush, cane, driftwood and forestry debris can be disposed of by open burning between Jan. 15 and March 15 subject to the following stipulations:

Open burning must be conducted on land proximate to the place of generation, no closer than 75 feet to any dwelling and only between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

No such burning may take place at a refuse disposal facility as described in Section 150A of Chapter 111, General Laws.

All permitted open burning must be conducted under the provisions of a properly executed permit, during periods of good atmospheric ventilation, without causing a nuisance and with smoke minimizing starts.

Fire Chief Robert W. McElhinney says that this regulation does not apply to commercial or institutional land clearing for non-agricultural purposes.

Deadlines

Deadlines for The Winchester Star are as follows: 3 p.m. Mondays for news copy and pictures; 4 p.m. Tuesdays for classified ads; and 5 p.m. Tuesdays for display ads.

Bay State roll call

evaluation of the WBZ-TV I-Teams' allegations of many House members' misconduct to the House clerk.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted for the rules suspension.

Car insurance rates (H6910) — House gave final approval 179-45, to a measure rolling back 1978 car insurance rates to the level of rates effective Jan. 1, 1976 pending the insurance commissioner's report on a new rate structure.

Rep. Saltmarsh voted against the rate roll back.

Pay hike (H6859) — House defeated 135-77 an amendment to strike the pay increases for the chairman and members of the industrial accident board. The amendment would eliminate a total of some $68,000 in hikes — including a hike from $24,426 to $30,168 for 11 members and from $26,550 to $31,738 for the chairman.

Saltmarsh voted against the pay hikes.

Minimum wage (H6917) — House gave final approval 183-6 to a measure increasing the minimum wage to $2.65 an hour in 1978, $2.90 in 1979, $3.10 in 1980, and $3.35 in 1981.

Saltmarsh favored the measure.

The Senate. The Senate held 17 roll calls last week, raising the 1977 total to 376. The roll call records total senators' vote on 7 key tallies.

BB guns (H6631) — Senate rejected 23-1 a substitute version of a bill regulating the sale of air, pellet, and BB guns. The substitute version exempts BB rifles (more than 16-inch barrel) from the Bartley-Fox Gun Law, but keeps BB pistols (less than 16 inch barrel) under the Bartley-Fox Law. The original version it attempts to replace exempts any BB pistols or rifles from the Bartley-Fox Law.

Sen. Samuel Rotondi opposed the substitute bill.

Medicolegal investigation (H5939) Senate concurred 34-1 with a House amendment to the bill establishing the committee on medicolegal investigation and creating the position of chief medical examiner. The amendment gives the medical examiner, rather than the district attorney, final control over moving a corpse.

Sen. Rotondi voted for the amendment.

On-premise signs (H6313) — Senate rejected 23-8 a measure allowing some changes including painting, relettering, and repairing of existing on-premise signs without special approval.

Rotondi voted against the measure.

Massport tax (H6988) — Senate concurred 21-7 with the House and passed a measure levying a five percent excise tax against Massport's gross receipts, with 4.7 percent of the tax going to Boston and .3 percent to Chelsea. The Senate had originally passed a bill requiring vendors and leaseholders to pay local property taxes.

Sen. Rotondi opposed the five percent tax.

Pay hikes (H6859) — Senate approved 24-7 a measure hiking some $75,000 in salaries including the commissioner of the blind from $20,250 to $27,500, hiking the salary of the 11 members of the industrial accident board from $24,426 to $30,168, and of the industrial board chairman from $26,550 to $31,738.

Sen. Rotondi favored the measure.

Teachers' residency requirement (H6885) — Senate defeated 28-1 an amendment to a bill which prohibits school committees from forcing residency requirements on teachers. The amendment would have made the law "local option," meaning it would take effect only in communities where the school committee accepted it.

Sen. Rotondi voted with the majority.

Prisons (H6908) — Senate defeated 29-4 a capitol outlay budget amendment which would have eliminated some $5 million for prison expansion at Bridgewater and Gardner Correctional facilities.

Rotondi was in favor of the expansion.

Registration for Children's Theatre spring workshops

Registration for the Winchester Children's Theatre spring workshop will take place Monday from 3-5 p.m. in the meeting room of the public library.

The theater workshop and demonstration program will be under the direction of Peggy Sawyer, a co-founder and director of Andy's Theatre in Mason, N.H., a summer theater organization for children aged 4-20.

Classes will be held at the Lincoln School auditorium beginning Monday, Feb. 6 from 3-5 p.m. for smaller children; on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7-9 p.m., and on Saturday mornings from 9-12. All are invited to come and register their preference. The program is co-sponsored by the recreation department.

The first of the 1977-78 season's productions by the Children's Theatre was presented before Thanksgiving. About 50 children aged 5-15, some new newcomers and some veterans, took part in the three playlets and one all-dance number, directed by Elaine Kasparian and choreographer Celia Schneider. Ms. Schneider will be teaching dance in the spring program.

Children's films

The Hound That Thought That He Was A Raccoon: This Walt Disney film is about a young puppy who is adopted by a raccoon family. Later he is trained to be a hunting dog, but was unable to forget his friendship for the raccoon. This film is 48 minutes in length.

'Adventures' sets student auditions

Adventures in Music will have auditions for its student orchestra and dance troupe which will perform in a final concert on April 9. This concert features the music of Kabelevsky's "The Comedians" which was written for the Children's Theater of Moscow.

Winchester student instrumentalists who are interested in performing with a professional orchestra under the direction of Newton Wayland must be in the sixth grade and have a solid background in an orchestral instrument. They must contact Burton Cowgill at the high school by Friday.

Adult volleyball set for Tuesdays

The popular adult exercise class and co-recreational volleyball program has resumed every Tuesday evening at the Lincoln School.

Donald L. Spinney, director of recreation, says the program is run under the direction of Noreen Arcari, a YMCA-certified physical fitness specialist. All adults interested in the exercise class should report to the gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. with volleyball following at 8:30.

No mini-college for next two weeks

There will be no Wednesday afternoon mini-college at the high school for the next two weeks.

Scout recognition dinner is Jan. 28

Winchester's Donald Van Roosen, president of the Minuteman Council of Boy Scouts, will officiate at the annual recognition dinner Jan. 28 at the Minuteman Regional Vocational High School in Lexington.

The event honors adults for their commitment to youth. Tickets are available by calling the council office at 438-9500.

H. Gardner Bradlee elected corporator at Mt. Auburn Hosp.

H. Gardner Bradlee of Winchester has been elected a Corporator and Treasurer of Mount Auburn Hospital in Cambridge. The election was held at the Hospital's annual Corporation meeting Jan. 11. Bradlee is president of the Cambridge Trust Company.

Mrs. Webster Brockleman, scenery chairman for the Winton Club show this year, gets a helping hand from Prescott Keyes, a member of the stage crew. Titled "Surprise!", the show will run Jan. 31-Feb. 4.

Winton Cabaret in second week of rehearsals

This is the second week of full rehearsal for the 1978 Winton Club Cabaret Show, "SURPRISE!" The day's schedule starts with a nine a.m. rehearsal for the traditional Winton Club drill, and from then on through the evening the Town Hall auditorium is a consistently busy place.

Rehearsals for singers, dancers and specialty acts are carefully arranged to coordinate with working schedules and family responsibilities. The newest addition to this year's show is Kevin Farrell, accompanist, musical director and arranger. He is young and enthusiastic about the "local talent."

The special effects and scenery that accompany "SURPRISE!" are being designed and created by Mrs. Webster Brockleman of Winton Club, and she and her innovative committee can be seen painting daily at the Town Hall turning square yards of flats into England, Spain, France and of course Africa. The entire stage of the hall and its apron has been turned into a luxurious castle, and the orchestra pit is now a deep running moat.

All of the scenery has to be framed, hung, and braced, before it can be used, and this year the stage crew is under the co-chairmanship of Frank Gunby and John Sutherland. They and their crew of about 20 husbands of Winton Club members build the scenery, assemble it and hang the flats, and then they run the backstage machinery and ropes during production nights. Frank Kelley and his wife "Midge" have come up from Boothbay Harbor, Me. to help with scenery and production.

The sound and lighting for this show is always done by professional companies, as wiring for such projects must be done by registered engineers to achieve the best effect.

Frank Muraco has worked with Winton Club members for many years, and it is his knowledge and experience that makes each show chairman's job a little easier and a lot more pleasant. The Town Hall is always warm, paths are free of snow and ice.

Show production begins Jan. 31 with the traditional children's night, and then Wednesday through Saturday it is cabaret style for all who have floor seats.

Wednesday night is a special night for groups, senior citizens, hospital employees, Winchester Town Hall staff, and other local groups.

Thursday night is a night for those whose week-ends are tied up, as there is dancing, and the show time of 8:30 guarantees an early evening for working people.

Friday and Saturday nights are optional black-tie for those who feel like being a bit special.

Sachems top Wakefield get dumped by Lexington

By George Parker

The Sachem basketball team won and lost last week, as they defeated Wakefield 58-49, and were destroyed by Lexington 42-69.

Against Wakefield, Winchester clearly dominated, as they never fell behind, thanks to the efforts of Glenn Mills, (18 points), R.J. Brosnan (eight points), and Donny Allard, who reversed his short-lived scoring slump with 14 points.

Eight of these points came in the second quarter, when the Sachems nearly put the game away, as the defense, lead by Brosnan, held Wakefield to eight points, while the offense ran up 14 points, including a string of eight consecutive points. However, after this, Wakefield called a time out, and came back to match Winchester point for point to the end of the quarter.

Wakefield continued this effort early in the third quarter, outscoring Winchester 6-4. However, the Sachems reassured themselves, as the defense tightened up to allow Wakefield only five more points, while the offense racked up 12, to make the score 42-27 at the buzzer.

It was as Sachem Coach Doc Wheeler put it: "We played three good quarters of basketball."

The fourth quarter was a different story from the first three, for while the offense continued their pace, putting in 16 points, the defense fell apart, and allowed 22 points.

Therefore, the final score was 58-49 in the Sachem's favor, a victory largely determined by the effectiveness of the Sachem defense.

Unfortunately, the next game was almost the exact opposite of the Wakefield game, for, though the result of the game was determined by the defense, Lexington was clearly the superior team.

The Minutemen's man-to-man defense was totally effective. The hustle of the Lexington players did not allow the Sachems to effectively set up their plays and forced them to rush the shots they were able to make. The ultimate result of this strategy was a great many Sachem turnovers, many of which Lexington was able to convert.

Winchester's zone defense was rendered ineffective by the Minutemen game plan. This had four of the Lexington players working outside the zone, whipping the ball around until they either found a chance to feed the ball to Gene Mewborn (21 points) in the lane, or to display their outside shooting prowess.

Winchester's offense, on the other hand, was stymied by the Minutemen strategy, which centered on stopping Glenn Mills and any sort of inside shooting. That this plan was successful is reflected in the scores of Mills (10 points, six rebounds), and Donny Allard (16 points, 6 rebounds); for Allard, as a guard, is more of an outside shooter, and therefore did not receive as much attention. Allard's excellent performance, however, was not nearly enough to produce a victory, for Lexington was in control from the start.

The Minutemen began the barrage immediately, running off six unanswered points before Glenn Mills broke the ice for Winchester with a jump shot off a pass from Allard. From then on, the scoring was matched fairly evenly, though the Sachems had a slight edge, so that at the end of the first quarter, Lexington was only ahead by four.

The second quarter started the way the first had ended, with both teams playing fairly evenly for the initial part of the period, to make the score 14-21. After that, however, the Minutemen put their act into high gear, and proceeded to outscore the Sachems 13-6 in the remainder of the quarter.

Eight of these points came from Mewborn's efforts in the lane, as the Lexington offense continued to pick away at the Sachem's zone. In the other end, it was a different story, as the hustle the Minutemen put into their man-to-man defense began to tell on the Sachems. However, this defense was also drawing quite a few fouls: 11, to be exact, at the half. Seven of these fouls resulted in Sachem free throws, and Winchester gladly sank 12 of the 13 shots given them, to make the score at the half 20-34.

Lexington continued their onslaught at the opening of the second half, outscoring the Sachems 16-8, of the Sachem points, four came from Donny Allard and two each from Anthony Davis and Gary Tedesco (with eight rebounds), while Tom Sullivan, Gene Newborn, Charles McCarthy, Dan Tyler, and Ruan Liana combined for the Minutemen points. These points came in spite of a switch to a man-to-man defense by the Winchester squad midway through the quarter.

"We were forced into it," said Doc Wheeler of his decision, "I don't like man-to-man, because its results in foul trouble, and because Lexington is good against it."

The truth of this statement was demonstrated in the next quarter, as Lexington proceeded to score 19 points, despite the hustle the Sachems put into their defense.

However, the Winchester offense showed a great improvement as they were finally able to penetrate the Lexington defense and score 14 points. Thus the game ended 69-42, in Lexington's favor, largely due to the "super defense" of the Minutemen.

The Sachems next games are against Watertown and Stoneham, both away, and the team would appreciate increased support at these games.

Local curlers host annual bonspiel here

Curlers at the Winchester Country Club hosted their 21st Annual Mixed Bonspiel Jan. 12-15, with two dozen rinks from the U.S. and Canada in competition. Mary Louise and Ben Wright were chairmen of this event, assisted by a committee of Winchester curlers.

The winner of the first event, the Farnsworth Trophy, for the third year in a row, was the Gordon Symons Royal Montreal Curling Club rink with Norma Symons, Al Symons, and Fran Whitten. Interestingly enough, for the second year in a row, the runner-up was Bill Fuller's Lennoxville, Quebec rink with Josee Rourke, Bill Rourke, and Margaret Ann Fuller.

The second event Neiley Trophy was won by the Wellesley 1 rink, the Drapers and Wests, who defeated the Winchester 3 rink of Joe Butler, Mary Louise Wright, Ben Wright, and Bunny Butler. Competing for the third event Barton Trophy, the Wellesley 2 rink of the Barkis and Broadbents, with Winchester's Peter Corcoran substituting in most of the matches, was defeated by the Winchester 2 rink of Dick and Peg Pettingell and Bob and Grace Murray.

The awards ceremony was held at Winchester Country Club after the Sunday afternoon final matches. A Scottish bagpiper in full regalia was present to pipe the curlers on and off the ice, and to play Auld Lang Syne at the closing ceremonies.

Hockey team, still working for first win, drops two more

By Linda Pierce

The Winchester High School hockey team is still looking for their first win as they dropped two more games to Stoneham and Wakefield.

The Sachems played Stoneham Jan. 11 at the USA rink in Winchester. They were disappointed in the way they had played as they skated off the ice after the third period, and understandably so: they had lost the game by a score of 10-2.

The Sachems seem to be plagued with an inability to score. They hustle down the ice and shoot, but the opposing goalie seems always to stick out a leg or hand and come up with the puck. Winchester's only goals against Stoneham were scored by Mark Carzo and Jack Collins.

Saturday night when the Sachems played Wakefield at USA rink, the team skated out slapping their sticks on the ice in an effort to generate some life for a team that is winless.

Coach Berman's starting line-up had Frank Vozella in goal, George Surabian at right wing, Mark McGoldrick center, and Hugo Lafauci at left wing. This was Lafauci's first game back from his injury and he proved to be a help. The starting defensemen were Ken Carlson and Bob Coppins.

The Sachems had an early scoring bid when Hugo Lafauci and George Surabian made a good rush, passing the puck back and forth, and Lafauci shot on goal. But the puck was lost in congestion around the net. Surabian and Lafauci were poking away at the puck in an effort to put it into the net as the goalie tried to cover up. However the whistle blew and play was called.

Winchester kept Wakefield off the score board until 10 minutes into the period, when the Warriors scored two quick goals. The first Warrior goal was scored by McCarthy, the other by Kumble. Winchester skated off the ice after the first period trailing 2-0.

The Sachems began the second period plagued with penalties. They checked well and hustled right from the moment they stepped on the ice until the moment they stepped off. However, they were unable to capitalize on their shots. Another Warrior goal came with four minutes left in the period with Wakefield on a power play. It was scored by Kumble, his second of the night.

The third period looked good for the Sachems. The puck was always in the Warrior end. Hugo Lafauci had a good scoring bid, coming around the back of the Wakefield net. Unfortunately the Warrior goalie caught sight of him out of the corner of his eye, and was able to stop the shot. The Sachems applied a lot of pressure but there were no goals scored for either team. The game ended 3-0 with a Wakefield win.

Randy Pearl with eight points, and Jon Kalman with six.

These rather low scores are indicative of how effective the Wakefield man-to-man defense was against the Sachems, while Winchester's zone defense was not very potent, and allowed 55 points, in comparison to the meager 46 that the Warriors yielded.

This same phenomenon occurred in the Lexington game, for again the Sachems were totally outgunned, 74-43. Again, the main reason for the defeat was the lack of experience of the Sachems, for they were easily rattled by the man-to-man defense that was vigorously inflicted upon them. As a result, none of the Sachems scored in double figures, the high scorers being John Brosnan and Jim Kohr with nine and eight points.

On the other hand, the Minutemen JV had four scorers in double figures, with the high scorer racking up 18 points. Obviously, the Minutemen had complete control over the Sachems, largely as a result of their experience, for again the Sachems went up against a team comprised, for the most part, of juniors. Lexington, like Wakefield, has a separate sophomore program.

In their next two games, the JV team goes up against Stoneham and Woburn.

JV hoopsters overpowered by Wakefield team

By George Parker

The Winchester JV basketball team recently suffered two defeats, at the hands of Wakefield (55-46) and Lexington (74-43).

Against Wakefield, the Sachems were overpowered, for most of the Wakefield players were juniors, the products of Wakefield's sophomore program. This added years of experience was very evident in the way they played, for they committed fewer turnovers and were less easily rattled.

However, all was not gloom for the Sachems, for Jim Kohr played an excellent game, scoring 11 points and hauling down the same number of rebounds. Unfortunately, he was the only member of the team to score in double figures, the other high scorers being

Lose to Belmont, Malden

Sachem swimmers trounce Minuteman Voke, 105-56

By Kevin Gosselin

The WHS boys' swim team chalked up their first win of the season by defeating the Minuteman Regional Vocational School in Lexington by the score of 105-56.

Having lost to Belmont the previous week by the score of 86-85, the swimmers were ready for retribution. In the opening event, the 200-yard medley relay, Winchester quickly showed its power by taking a first place with the relay squad of Steven Ciccio, Mark Estabrook, Tri-Capt. David Blasi, and Tri-Capt. Mark Vernaglia. Coming in a very close third, (2-10ths of a second!), was the squad of Dick Gardner, Mickey Minutoli, Chris Porter and Kevin Gosselin.

The next event showed some excellent swimming by junior Paul McDonough, as he placed second in the 200-yard freestyle. John MacNamara finished fourth, narrowly beating teammate Ken Gosselin, who placed fifth.

The 200-yard Individual medley saw Winchester take a first, second, and fourth in the six lane scoring system. Sophomore sensation Micky Minutoli came in first, with fellow sophomore Brian Berkley second. Gregg Ploowman, swimming the event for the first time, came in with a hard-fought fourth.

The Winchester swimmers exploded off their blocks to finish first, third and fourth in the 50-yard freestyle. Sophomore sprinter Chris Porter narrowly defeated his Minuteman opponent for the first place, with Junior Tri-Capt. Mark Opel grabbing third and Vernaglia fourth.

Diving was next, and again Winchester dominated with a first, third and fourth place finish. Senior Mark Vernaglia showed great poise and form as he dived consistently to win over his Lexington adversary. Senior Charlie Boyle placed third, showing excellent execution throughout all his dives. His trademark dive is a back one and a half somersault with one and a half twists, a dive which must be seen to be truly appreciated.

Sophomore Mark Estabrook finished off the scoring with his fourth place performance. The 100-yard butterfly was won by David Blasi. In the 100 freestyle, Chris Porter won, clocking well under a minute. He was followed by Mark Opel, who finished second and senior Dick Gardner, who finished sixth.

The grueling 500-yard freestyle was next. Mickey Minutoli proved himself once again, by taking first place. He was followed by Paul McDonough who finished third, and senior Ken Gosselin who finished fourth. The 100-yard backstroke saw David Blasi pick up his third "first place" of the meet. Senior Kevin Gosselin came in third, with junior Steve Ciccio fourth.

The swimming Sachems totally dominated the 100-yard breaststroke, as they swept the top three spots for 13 big points. Dick Gardner picked up his first win of the season, with Estabrook and Berkley right behind him. In the final event of the meet, Winchester placed second and fourth in the 4x100 freestyle relay to close the scoring at Winchester 105 and the Minutemen, 56.

In another non-league meet, the Sachems bowed to Malden, 43-40. The meet started off with Winchester winning the medley relay with the squad of Steve Ciccio, Dick Gardner, Micky Minutoli, and Mark Vernaglia. The relay squad of Mark Estabrook, Mark Opel, Paul McDonough and Kevin Gosselin came in a close third.

The 200-yard freestyle saw Paul McDonough out-touch his Malden rivals to finish second. Sophomore John MacNamara showed future potential, finishing with an impressive fourth place. In the 200-yard Individual Medley, Micky Minutoli continued his winning ways by finishing first. Kevin Gosselin came in a respectable fourth.

The 50-yard freestyle saw an extremely close race culminate in Malden's favor. Chris Porter, although having a better time than his Malden victor, placed second on a judge's decision. Mark Vernaglia finished in third place.

In the diving event, the best that the Sachems could do was second and fourth, as both Mark Vernaglia and Charlie Boyle succumbed to the strong diving squad of Malden.

The 100-yard butterfly brought another disappointment as David Blasi finished second. Ken Gosselin finished a distant fourth. In the 100-yard freestyle, Richard Palumbo and Mark Estabrook finished first and fourth, respectively, as the Sachems finally got back some important points.

Sophomore Micky "Minnow" Minutoli picked up his third "first place" of the meet in winning the 500-yard freestyle. Micky has won all of his individual races so far this year, which is quite a feat for a first year man!

(Coming in fourth for the Sachems in the same event was Dick Gardner.)

By the time the 100-yard backstroke was around, Winchester was losing by a considerable margin. It was then that Coach Palumbo put in his muscle. The 100-yard backstroke saw David Blasi and Richard Palumbo go "one-two" as Winchester finally went ahead in the scoring.

The Sachems were only able to place second and third in the breaststroke event, with sophomores Chris Porter and Mark Estabrook pulling through. Going into the final event of the day, the Sachems were leading by one slim point. In order to win the meet, they had to finish first in the 4x100 relay. The best Winchester could do was finish second, as Malden finished first and third to win the meet.

Many thanks are given to Ann-Louise Casey, Marissa Gulino, and Veronica Karp for their help with the timing and score keeping.

Phil Kadesch in tennis tourney

Phil Kadesch of Winchester achieved outstanding success last weekend in both the singles and doubles of the Tennis Barn $5000 Men's Pro Tennis Championships at Newington, NH.

Kadesch and Jeff Aarts of Newington, NH won the doubles event by defeating Tim Mayotte and Chris Mayotte of Springfield in the finals. They triumphed over a field that included many players with world rankings and prevailed in an earlier round over New England's No. 1 ranked team, John Mayotte of Great Barrington and Jim Ratliff of Connecticut.

In the singles, Kadesch upset the No. 1 seed in the tournament in the first round, Paul McNamee of Australia, who is currently ranked No.

94 in the world Association of Tennis Professional rankings. Unfortunately, young Kadesch, currently a teaching pro at the Westford Tennis Club, was upset himself in the next round by Tom Mott of Holden.

Record now 2-3

Gymnasts defeat Arlington

By Maureen McCabe

Winchester High Boy's Gymnastics team defeated Arlington last Friday by a 10 point margin, leaving the Sachems with a 2-3 record.

Arlington took the early lead by dominating the floor exercise. Rich Vartanian led all scorers with a 6.15. Greg Vartanian and Paul Rosenfield added to the Arlington tally with their scores of 4.4 and 3.1 respectively. Sachem Pete MacDonald's 4.2 along with Steve Campo's 3.45 and Jon Belinowicz's 3.35 gave the Sachems 10.95 points.

Winchester was victorious on the side horse gaining 9.20 points. MacDonald received a 3.6 with Paul Selvitelli's 3.35 and Campo's 2.85 completing the Sachem score. Arlington's Rich Vartanian merited a 3.0 with Rosenfield gaining a 2.45 and Ed O'Neil a 2.0.

Winchester increased their lead on the high bar with MacDonald's 4.2 taking top honors. Mark Mulvaney and Anders Bjarnagard each clipped in scores of 2.35 to the Sachem total.

Arlington's two competitors were only able to muster 4.90 points with Rich Vartanian's 2.7 and Greg Vartanian's 2.2.

The parallel bars gave Arlington a slight victory with their total of 11.55. Rich Vartanian garnered a 4.5, Greg Vartanian, a 3.65 and O'Neil, a 3.4. Sachem scores were achieved by MacDonald (3.5), Paul Maxwell (3.15), and Mulvaney (3.05).

Winchester gained 18.75 points on the vault to Arlington's 13.45. Arlington's Rich Vartanian was awarded a 7.5 with Greg Vartanian's 5.95 rounding out the score. MacDonald's 7.35, Mulvaney's 5.9 and Bjarnagard's 5.5 padded the Sachem lead.

The rings favored the Sachems, stretching their victory to a final 68.10 points. MacDonald posted a 3.9. Al Class obtained a 3.15 and Bjarnagard took third position with a 2.85. Arlington's O'Neil and Rich Vartanian gained 7.10 points, but the Winchester team had overpowered the team from Arlington.

Girls even basketball record

By Lynn Foden

The girls' basketball team evened up their record to 3-3 with two impressive victories over Wakefield and Lexington. On last Tuesday evening at Wakefield the Sachemettes routed the opposition 58-32. At home on Friday, the girls overpowered Lexington with the final score being 49-31.

The Sachems got off on the right foot with Linda Pierce scoring the first basket and it was all smooth sailing from there. The Sachems defense did their job well by blocking out Wakefield. Barbara Jacobs came up with numerous rebounds on both offense and defense. Holly Stevenson made a couple of good steals which subsequently led to Sachem scores. She and Linda dominated the Sachem scoring in this quarter, both with eight points. Their scoring effectiveness was due in part to the skill of the guards, Kelly Gately and Kathy Day, to make accurate entering passes. The score at the quarter's end was 35-20.

After getting the ball from the opening tap of the second quarter, the Sachems were reluctant to let Wakefield get the ball. The defense caused Wakefield to turn over the ball, thereby originating fast breaks which were fed down to either Linda or Holly under the basket. Barbara often weaved through Wakefield defense driving for the layups. Wakefield tried to tighten up their defense towards the end of the half. They started to press and were able to cause some bad passes and steals but Winchester refused to let them capitalize on them. The half ended with the Sachems ahead 35-20.

The third quarter started off slowly for both teams. Neither team could generate much offense. Each would send the ball up on many occasions but it never seemed to come down through the hoop. The Sachems, by the middle of the quarter, were able to put it together and get some scoring drives going. They were able to build their lead to 22 points. The score was then 46-24.

Wakefield was given a couple of extra minutes early in the fourth quarter to try to catch up when the clock was not started at the opening of the quarter. The starting lineup for this quarter was different from the other three quarters. Instead of the usual Holly Stevenson, Linda Pierce, Barbara Jacobs, Kelly Gately and Kathy Day team, the starters now were Terry Burns, Kathleen Driscoll, Christine Driscoll, Laurie Redmond and Carol Hollohan. They played a good, controlled game with a lot of precision passing setting up baskets. They were replaced half way through the quarter by the regular starters. The speed of the game then picked up with Winchester's fast break. Holly Stevenson was high scorer with 17, followed by Barbara Jacobs with 15 and Linda Pierce with 12. It was a fine team effort. The final score was 58-32, Winchester on top.

In the girls' next game against Lexington, they demonstrated clearly how defense should be played. It took Lexington ten minutes and forty-two seconds before they were able to score. Winchester's defense in the first quarter was like a steel curtain. Kelly Gately and Kathy Day, as guards, kept Lexington out of the key. Both of them were aggressive and they followed the ball well. They forced bad passes into the center and blocked shots. Barbara Jacobs on three occasions batted potential baskets down. When Lexington was finally able to put the ball up, either Linda Pierce or Holly Stevenson were able to come down with the rebound.

The Winchester offense played equally as well as the defense. Kelly Gately broke Lexington's fast break and reversed it so that it was Winchester scoring on a fast break. Kathy Day made good passes from the top of the key across to Barbara Jacobs under the basket. Barbara did a fine job of driving to the basket for the score. Holly Stevenson and Linda Pierce were able to score well from underneath with centering passes to them from the guards. This was by far Winchester's best quarter all season. They left the court leading 21-0.

The second quarter started off slowly for both teams. Shortly after the quarter began, substitutions were made and quickly a whole new lineup was in for Winchester. They were Terry Burns, Kathleen Driscoll, Christine Driscoll, Laurie Redmond and Carol Hollohan. They hung tough, but Lexington was more than due for a basket. It finally came at 2:42 of this quarter from a six-foot jump shot. They scored again at 4:00 on a layup.

These first two baskets fired Lexington up and they gained momentum. Their surge of offense ground to a halt when Winchester put their starting players back in. The Sachem offense had been dormant up until now, having scored only one basket. With two minutes left, everything began to click. There were a number of passes to Linda, who was open in the corner, and she was able to set up the score or get the point herself. Holly did the rest of the scoring in that quarter, forcing the ball in after rebounds. At half time, the score was 29-12.

Lexington came out controlling the ball in the third quarter, but their shooting was inaccurate and Linda was often able to get the rebounds. Winchester came right back. The Sachems started intercepting passes and causing turnovers. The score was 35-19 at the end of the third quarter.

The final quarter was the most offensive one for both teams. Lexington started pressing, but Winchester was not to be tripped up. Kelly Gately and Kathy Day worked together continually to bring the ball down court. Barbara Jacobs, who planned a good aggressive game blocking many shots, fouled out at 6:52. Winchester remained successful in their ability to work the ball into the center. Holly Stevenson had another great scoring day. She got more than half of Winchester's baskets with 25 points. Linda and Barbara were both in double figures with 13 and 10 points respectively. This is the kind of performance we have been expecting to see all season long.

Down to the wire

Tracksters edge Stoneham

By George Parker

The Winchester track team defeated Stoneham last Tuesday by the narrowest of margins, 44-42. The closeness of the score reflects the type of races that the Sachems ran; almost every one was closely contested.

In the 45-yard dash, Scott Farrar won by just edging is opponent out with a time of 5.3 seconds. However, there were no other Sachems behind him, only Stoneham runners.

In the hurdles, the situation was reversed, as Scott Kajander was barely nosed out of first place by his Stoneham opponent, while Tim Morgan took third place, one-tenth of a second behind Kajander's 6.3 seconds time. However, the 300 saw only one Winchester runner, Paul Mafera, in the top three, and he was in third place, with a time of 37.6 seconds.

The 800, a race that is usually dominated by Charlie Larkin, was extremely close, as both Charlie and his opponent, Jack Fitzgerald, had the same time, 1:15.7 (a new school record); but Charlie had a step advantage over Fitzgerald.

In the 1000, Ed Kirkpatrick again won easily, with his time of 2:26.8, and Ken Kirk also scored, adding another crucial point to the Winchester tally with his third place finish.

In the mile, Andy Wilsack also easily defeated his opponent, despite his rather slow (for him) time of 4:49.0.

Andy was followed by a Stoneham runner and Mike Haukeland, who also had a slow race, as his time of 5:19.3 reflects.

The two-mile was, fortunately, rather easy to get points in, for Stoneham has only one good two-miler, and no one to back him up. Jim Wilbur, returning from a prolonged injury, took second place, though his opponent lapped him, and John Baker (11:45.8) took third.

In the field events, Reilly Atkinson took second place in the high jump with his leap of 5'4", and Brian O'Connor, of course, took first place in the shot put, with an excellent toss of 51 feet, 6 inches.

Therefore, it all came down to the relay. The score was 42-39 in Stoneham's favor, and the relay is an all-or-nothing event, for the winner gets five points, and the loser gets zero.

The race started off fine, as Scott Farrar took hold of the lead at the start, and retained it until he handed off to Ed Kirkpatrick. Ed lost some ground to his opponent initially, but then made it up, so that at the hand-off to Andy Wilsack, the race was tied. Andy then proceeded to build up a lead of five yards, before he handed the baton to Charlie Larkin. This leg of the race was almost a repeat of the 600, for Charlie was matched up against Fitzgerald, who is almost equal in speed to Charlie. Charlie retained the advantage he had been given by Wilsack, and though he could not improve on it by any great amount, it was sufficient for the victory — of both the race and the meet. The final time — 3:39.8, the final score, 44-42.

Beat Burlington, 4-2

Mites hold onto second place

The Winchester Mites continue to play excellent hockey and remain in second place of the Middlesex Youth Hockey League.

Sukjong Chung scored a 120-foot goal to help the Winchester Mites to their latest win, 4-2 over Burlington at the Burlington Ice Palace Saturday morning.

Chung's goal came as he attempted to clear the puck from behind his own blue line. His shot caught the Burlington goalie going the wrong way and gave Winchester its third and game-winning goal.

Burlington scored first with 56 seconds played from the drop of the puck. Pete Regan scored unassisted five minutes later. Both teams played defensive hockey and kept the score tied until the third period.

Pete Regan scored again with one minute played in the third period on an unassisted backhand shot to put Winchester ahead. The shot followed a rink-long rush from behind his own net.

Sukjong Chung then scored the 120-foot goal at 5:59 into the period. Burlington responded with their second goal of the game at 7:15. Then with 4:41 left, Regan completed his hat trick to seal it for Winchester.

Regan was chosen first star of the game.

Chung was chosen second star. Kevin Boyle playing goal made some excellent saves to guard the Winchester lead.

Marc Falzano, Ronny Settipane, Matt Quill, Marc Todisco, David Brett, Billy Coppins, Derek Sullivan, Ted Dever, Scott Paine, and Greg Winn were also awarded stars for their efforts in the game and for getting to the rink through the snowstorm.

New basketball league to start

The Winchester Recreation Department is setting up a basketball league for men 18 and older.

Teams of nine players will be admitted to the league and referees and timer-scorekeeper will be supplied for the Wednesday evening games.

Roster applications may be picked up in the recreation department's office on the second floor of Town Hall and must be returned by Jan. 28. Recreation Coordinator Jerry Ferro is heading the new league and he has further information available.

ZONING AND THE LAND OWNER

A good community has zoning laws to protect its homeowners. However, zoning is even more important to the buyers of land who are planning to erect their own home. Some communities may have zoning that will make it impossible for you to build the home you plan.

For instance, one community may require a specific amount of acreage for a one-family zone. If you buy a smaller lot than the zoning ordinance requires, you may not be able to build the house you want on the lot you own.

Also, look into the type of home which is allowable in your zoning area. You may plan to build a second floor apartment, possibly for another member of your family or even for rental purposes. If the property is a one-family residential zone, you may be out of luck. No need to worry as long as you check out the zoning before you buy.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester, Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Julie Collins, sister in Follen concert

Julie G. Collins, formerly associated here with the Methodist and Unitarian churches, will be presenting a concert with her sister, Juliette G. Huff, at the Follen Community Church, where Mrs. Collins has been organist since September.

The concert of organ duet, organ solo and duo-piano music is planned for Sunday at 4. Tickets are not required but a donation would be accepted.

Works on the program include a four-hand organ fugue by Bach, St. Anne Prelude and Fugue of J.S. Bach, piano works by Chopin, Saint-Saens, Debussy, and Milhaud.

There will be a reception after the concert.

Juliette Huff (L) and Julie Collins

Class at NEMH for babysitters

New England Memorial Hospital offers a "Babysitters' Class" that will begin its next four-week session at 3:30 p.m., Jan. 25, in the hospital auditorium. Subsequent meetings will be held on Wednesdays, Feb. 1, 8 and 15.

The class, taught by health educator, Debbie Lukens, is designed to be both entertaining and educational. Guest speakers such as a police safety officer, fire department chief and nurses will discuss the aspects of safety and proper child-care.

If you are interested in this course, call the Health Education Office, New England Memorial Hospital, at 665-1740, extension 426. Advance registration is advisable due to limited space. The ages of the babysitting students are usually 16-14 years.

Commissioned

Anne R. Orton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Rozelle of 326 Main st., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant Orton, selected through competitive examination for attendance at the school, now goes to Keesler AFB, Miss., for training as an administration officer.

The lieutenant, a 1967 graduate of Winchester High School, received a B.S. degree in psychology in 1977 from the Oregon College of Education at Monmouth.

Complete degrees

Three Winchester students are among those recently completing degree requirements at the University of Maine at Orono.

Among the degree candidates are Scott E. Atkinson, 20 Everett rd., Carol S. Goultanis, 21 Samoset rd., and Robert Maietta, 15 Cranston rd.

Lung Association seeking nominees for clean air prizes

The Middlesex-Cambridge Lung Association (MCLA) is encouraging individuals in Middlesex County to do something about air pollution. For the fourth consecutive year, the "Christmas Seal" people are seeking nominees for their Clean Air Awards. Anyone in Massachusetts can submit nominations from now to February 1. The purpose of the awards program is to place emphasis on the positive aspects of maintaining clean air and acknowledge those who have made a sincere effort to keep our air clean. Awards will be presented in the spring.

According to Daniel F. O'Grady, MCLA Board Member and chairman of the American Lung Association of Massachusetts' Environmental Committee, "these awards will be presented for responsible and conscientious efforts to keep the atmosphere free from harmful contaminants." He added that "the awards recognize outstanding efforts to control air pollution and not simply adherence to compliance schedules."

Facilities eligible to enter include, but are not limited to, utilities, foundries, incinerators, heavy and light manufacturing, waste disposal facilities, and transportation programs. Nominations should be sent to the American Lung Association of Massachusetts, P.O. Box 427, Newton Upper Falls, MA 02464 or call 969-1090 for more information.

'No pressing need'

Gov't. regulations committee nixes town meeting on charter revisions

There will apparently be no special town meeting to determine various changes proposed for the town's two-year-old charter.

Although David Mortensen, chairman of the government regulations committee, suggested to both the board of selectmen and the finance committee Monday night that his group would be prepared to present several charter revisions, there seemed to be "no pressing need" to call a special meeting.

Selectmen agreed with Mortensen, but the finance committee preferred to see the charter revisions dealt with at a town meeting separate from the other business at hand.

"We have about half a dozen charter revision changes to propose," Mortensen told the FinCom, "but none would change the budget."

FinCom member James B.L. Lane suggested that the changes "should not be bogged down by a regular town meeting" and member John J. Williams concurred, saying, "Your revisions would not get the attention they deserve."

Mortensen responded, "You must remember that Michael Saraco (former charter commissioner) will probably press for a cemetery commission and maybe some other changes and we would expect to go for more than one night."

FinCom Chairman Alice K. Mirak concurred with her board that a special town meeting should be held.

DPW asks for staffing and equipment

Director of Public Works Walter J. Tonaszuck is requesting a full time electrician for work in the schools and town buildings and an additional transfer station operator-highway department employee.

The need for additional DPW staffing and equipment replacement was brought to the attention of the board of selectmen by Tonaszuck at the board's meeting Monday night.

The electrician, Tonaszuck said, would "round out the trade expertise" in the department. Presently, the position is staffed with a part time electrician and a CETA employee.

Board member Richard Wilsack said "a memo of justification" would be needed by the board to determine how the town is getting along without the full time electrician.

Chair Barbara Hankins added a cost analysis would be necessary before the board could support the full time electrician proposal.

Tonaszuck said the electrician position had previously been approved by the board, but had not been funded.

Chairwoman Hankins asked Tonaszuck whether there was enough work for a full time electrician to do.

"There is a tremendous amount of electrical work to be done," he said. "We receive a list of priority projects from each school, and unfortunately the list and the pocketbook don't always agree."

Further discussion on the electrician position will be raised when cost information is available at a later meeting of the board.

Some people look forward to the snow and just forget about shoveling and digging out their car. Theo Greene of Canterbury road would just as soon get her exercise on cross country skis.

At a meeting of the government regulations committee earlier in the evening, Mortensen had suggested that should selectmen decide to call a special town meeting, the committee would be prepared to present their recommendations. He suggested further that a special meeting could be held the week before the regular town meeting, scheduled to begin on May 1.

There are two major areas which the government regulations committee wants to consider for charter revision. At their meeting next Monday, the committee will make a final recommendation on a capital planning committee.

They also expect to discuss possible consolidation of purchasing, bringing school and other town agencies under one purchasing department.

So far, the committee will make the following recommendations, either at a special town meeting or, more likely, at the fall annual, which is devoted to warrant articles of a non-fiscal nature.

+To favor changing from 30 to 45 days the cut-off date for submission of warrant articles for town meeting (Section 2-12(a) of the charter).

+To favor amending the charter (Section 4-3) so that the board of selectmen cannot revoke the appointment of an acting town manager without cause for at least ten working days.

+To favor a selectmen's proposal that section 4-2(b) be amended so that the town manager can hire and fire (subject to civil service laws) all department heads, officers and subordinates and employees for whom no other method of permanent appointment is provided in the charter.

There have been several other proposals brought before the government regulations committee, but they will not be supported by that committee. Included in this group is a change which would establish a cemetery commission. Other revisions which the government regulations committee will not support would establish an elected board of public works, increase the size of the school committee, and reschedule the budget process.

There was considerable discussion Monday about consolidating the town's purchasing needs into one purchasing department. This would bring various town agencies as well as the school department under the jurisdiction of one centralized department. Purchasing for the school department is done by Assistant Superintendent Jack Fallon. Town Manager Thomas J. Groux and James Vanar, his assistant for budgeting and purchasing, do the purchasing for the town.

Noreen Arcari, a member of the government regulations committee, questioned the current purchasing practices. She said, "We have three people doing the purchasing for

Hospital Friends orientations for volunteers today

The Friends of Winchester Hospital orientation for prospective new volunteers has been rescheduled for this morning at 9:30 and this evening at 7:30 in the hospital board room.

Any questions regarding the meetings or the organization should be directed to the volunteer department at the hospital, or call Mrs. Richard Ashley, 729-7163.

the town and the only place we have a purchasing agent is in the DPW. That's only because we have a DPW. Who orders Town Hall supplies?"

Chairman David Mortensen commented, "When this committee was formed, (former comptroller) Jim Costello said to come around if we needed something like stationery." Mortensen said he had spoken with the town manager earlier in the day and that Groux had told him that he had "a pretty good ability to oversee purchases."

The committee expects to meet with the board of selectmen and the school committee to hear their opinions on the creation of a separate purchasing department. Mortensen is hoping to get together with representatives of these boards next Monday.

Saraco to push for a cemetery commission

Former charter commissioner Michael Saraco said Tuesday that he would "concentrate all his efforts and energies" into pushing for creation of a cemetery commission, despite the lack of support from the government regulations committee.

Saraco said that many people voted for the charter even though it did not provide for a body to oversee the cemetery. In a supplementary statement in the charter in 1975, Saraco said, "One of my disagreements with the commission majority concerns the inclusion of the Wildwood Cemetery in the public works department without consideration of its special needs."

Saraco said he would favor waiting for the fall town meeting to present both his proposals and those of the government regulations committee.

Boosts tax rate $1

County adds $178,000 to FY'78 assessment

The 1978 tax bills aren't even in the mail yet, and already Winchester faces a $1 increase in next year's tax rate.

The rise will come because of an additional $178,237.88 assessment from Middlesex County. The county budget for fiscal 1978, just passed by the legislature, is up $5.9 million this year to $39.34 million.

Because there are less funds available from the state and the federal government to help pay the county's bills, the assessment to the cities and towns in Middlesex County is up by a disproportionate $7.7 million. Much of the rise in the overall budget has been attributed to some 40 new jobs, many of them for the county court system.

Winchester had previously allotted $539,593 for county assessments, and this amount has already been figured into the budget. The extra $178,237 will be raised through the $1 increase in the fiscal 1979 tax rate.

The overall county budget is up by 17.4 per cent over last year; the assessment to cities and towns is up by 28.4 per cent.

The budget has come under fire both from legislators and the Middlesex County Advisory Board, a group of citizens representing the various cities and towns in the county.

24 inches pile up

Storm clean-up may take another one or two weeks

Snow removal and clean-up operations from Friday's storm, which dropped 24 inches of snow on Winchester, are expected to continue for one to two weeks, said DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck.

The storm left DPW employees with a "tremendous task," Tonaszuck said. The major problem is snow removal from the sidewalks.

"We're bringing in loaders and backhoes to do the job," he said, "but there is nowhere to put the snow because snow from street plowing has been piled high."

The DPW has been using Lockeland Park to dump sidewalk snow. Tonaszuck said Lockeland is being used because "We want snow out of the downtown area, and I don't know of a better alternative."

Tonaszuck said snow cannot be dumped in the Aberjona River for environmental reasons. The Swanton street dump site cannot be used because of state regulations to cap the landfill area, he said.

Of the snow related complaints Tonaszuck has received, many have been related to the noise of snow removal operations at night.

"What can we do?" he asked. "Stop picking up the snow?"

The storm's two day total in rental equipment costs and overtime pay for employees has reached $12,500 and $14,000 respectively, Tonaszuck said. Fourteen additional trucks were hired to assist the town's 30 vehicles. Tonaszuck expects snow removal costs to rise with the continued clean-up operations.

Students' test scores 'outstanding'

Winchester students who take college board exams continue to achieve in an outstanding way when evaluated against three comparable groups of communities, according to Walter P. Gleason, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

That's the conclusion of a report on test scores presented by Dr. Gleason to the school committee Monday night. Gleason also reported on test results at the junior high and elementary levels, which show Winchester students to be among the top four per cent of students nationwide in most cases.

In his discussion of the college board scores, Gleason described two sets of tests: the SAT, or scholastic aptitude test, which is a measure of how well a student might be expected to perform; and the CEEB, or college entrance examination board, which evaluates what a student has actually learned.

He stated that in order to make a valid comparison of college board results with other groups, the scores of these two sets of tests must be used together. The college board results, said Gleason must be rated on the basis of how well the students might be expected to perform. This rating adjustment is accomplished by dividing the CEEB scores by the SAT scores to obtain an index number.

Dr. Gleason presented a comparison of Winchester's index numbers with three other groups for 1977. The first is a national grouping of "Suburban — non-industrial" communities as provided by the CEEB testing service. The second is the state of Massachusetts as a whole. And the third is the "Lincoln-Sudbury Consortium", which includes such towns as Weston, Newton and Lexington.

Gleason noted that 75 per cent of Winchester students who take the SAT tests also take the CEEB, compared to a national figure of 22 per cent.

"It can be concluded that, whereas only a select minimum of students take the achievement tests nationally, in Winchester, Legislature several months ago when it approved pay increases for all state employees. County Commissioner Michael McLaughlin, former chairman of the board, explained this week in a telephone interview, that $3.2 million of the remaining $3.9 million increase is also accountable to court orders or state mandates from either the Legislature or the Governor.

According to Rep. Charles F. Flaherty, chairman of the House Committee on Counties, the budget finally approved by the Legislature is less than the budget proposed by the County Commissioners.

His office reported that the County Commissioners originally submitted a budget request of $37.1 million. But then, in a series of about 40 letters, submitted additional budget requests of about $3.5 million, a total of about $40.6 million.

Rep. Flaherty said the Committee on Counties cut more than $2 million from the Commissioners' proposals. He noted that the Senate reinstated many cuts for a net result of $1.3 million in cuts from the Commissioners' proposals.

He added that of the 40 new jobs included in the approved budget are 22 jobs for the Sheriff's department including 12 positions for court officers and 10 correctional officers. The other jobs include seven legal assistants in the district attorney's office, four positions in the probate court, two in the County Commissioners' office (a public information officer and a Director of Tourism and Development) and six new positions in the clerk's office.

There are some increases that no one can control such as the increase of the county debt, collective bargaining increases, cost of living increases and insurance costs.

But the number of jobs can be controlled. Just who is to blame for adding jobs is not certain. It appears the Commissioners' proposals were for 14 new jobs, to which the Legislature added 26.

Commissioner McLaughlin charged that a lot of the jobs were added by the Senate, specifically at the request of Sheriff John Buckley.

The request for the correctional officers for the Sheriff's department was originally submitted by the Commissioners. The ## Town has spent $117,000 so far to fight storms

Last weekend's storm brought snow removal costs to nearly $117,000 for five storms since Dec. 18, for sand, salt, overtime, and rental equipment, according to DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck.

The cost of 2200 tons of sand as of Jan. 23 totaled $7150, Tonaszuck said. 1650 tons of salt cost $28,842.

Overtime costs for DPW employees totaled close to $54,000 for the five storms.

Equipment rental, Tonaszuck said, has reached almost $27,000. Tonaszuck added the town doesn't have enough trucks to cover snow removal in a big storm. Plows haulers and loaders are needed for sidewalk and road clearing. Tonaszuck said rental costs have been cut down with the purchase of a new loader bought by the town this year.

"I think we have proportionally more of our own equipment than other communities of our size," Tonaszuck said.

The additional snow costs began in December with a three day storm which dumped eight inches of snow from Dec. 18 to Dec. 20.

The DPW hired six extra trucks at a cost of approximately $1000 to help removal operations. Overtime costs for that storm, Tonaszuck said, were $11,300.

A six inch snow storm on Jan. 1 had overtime costs of $10,500, the director said. Recent storms on the 13th and 17th cost the town a combined total for overtime of $18,600.

On Jan. 13, ten inches of snow was reported by the DPW. Equipment rentals reached almost $9800 for that storm Tonaszuck said.

The Jan. 17 storm brought five more inches of snow and rental costs of $3300.

Some people would like to see the parking meters downtown permanently disappear.

Local merchants award gifts in 1st baby contest

Marc Robert Butler, the first baby born in 1978 at Winchester Hospital to Winchester parents, has won gifts from eight local merchants who sponsored the "First Baby Contest."

Marc was born Jan. 2 to Linda and Bob Butler, who moved to Winchester from Medford just two months before Marc arrived. He weighed in at 8 lbs., 8.5 oz., and was 21 inches long.

The prizes included: checks from BayBank-Winchester Trust, the Winchester Cooperative Bank, and the Winchester Savings Bank; a bouquet of flowers from the Daisy Shop; a gift certificate from Topsy Turvey; a cash gift from Fitzgerald Fuel; a flower arrangement from Mahoney's Rocky Ledge Farm and Nursery; and a children's album from Winchester TV & Appliance.

Marc's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Butler of Dedham and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gulbicki of Worcester.

Linda and Bob Butler are the parents of Marc Robert Butler, the first baby born to Winchester parents in 1978. Marc was born Jan. 2 at 7:16 a.m. at Winchester Hospital.

Nine take out papers to run for town office

With the town election nine weeks away, several candidates have taken out papers to run for office.

As of Tuesday, the following residents were seeking election: School committee: Sandra S. Rodgers, 5 McCall rd.; Robert S. Frank, 4 Swan rd.; and Mary Jean Weylman, 3 Harrington rd. Board of Selectmen: Barbara S. Hankins, 37 Cabot st.

Board of Health: N. Bruce Hanes, 51 Washington st.

Board of Library Trustees: Clarence S. Horggaard, 22 Franklin st.; and Robert D. Beattie, 17 Cabot st.

Winchester Housing Authority: Edward F. Stepper, 161 Forest st.

Town moderator: John J. Sullivan, 32 Canterbury rd.

School committee member Jack Noble, whose term expires this year, will not seek reelection.

Public hearing on Mystic River set February 3

As most local residents probably know, the water in the Mystic Lakes and the Mystic River is far from clean.

The Mystic River is in fact rated in Class C, "not fit for contact with human skin," by the state division of water pollution control. However, there is a project, now in the planning stages, to improve the water quality of the river and get it up to Class B, which is water "fit for swimming and fishing."

On Feb. 3, from 10 a.m. on, there will be a public hearing in Gardner Auditorium at the State House in Boston. The purpose of the hearing is to issue new criteria and regulations for all waters in the state, including the proposed changes to be made for the Mystic River Basin.

The Mystic River Watershed Association has issued a preliminary report on problems and possibilities for the watershed, which includes Winchester. Copies of the report are available through the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, 44 School st., Boston, 02108.

The MRWA urges anyone interested in local water quality to attend the hearing Feb. 3 and to testify. Written testimony may be sent to the Mass. Division of Water Pollution Control, 110 Tremont st., Boston, 02108.

Anyone wishing to testify in person should contact the DWPC at 727-3855 and get his or her name scheduled at the hearing. Copies of the latest rules and regulations regarding water pollution are also available at the state division.

of the schools saying, the school department is "stressing safety procedures at school" and asked that parents do the same at home. Safety Officer John McKinley, said he was "very surprised" at the few problems encountered with the storm. "People were being very cautious," he said.

McKinley said cruisers with flashing blue lights patrolled five areas aiding school children Monday morning. The cruisers will continue their routes on Tuesday, he said. The areas covered were Johnson road-High street, Church street at Main street and Wildwood street, Main street-Highland avenue-Grove street, Washington street-Highland avenue, and Cross street-Swanton street at Main street.

The Fire Department reported several problems over the weekend that were storm related.

Power was knocked out in the Mary Murphy Apartments on Palmer street Friday morning, after a town vehicle hit an Edison pole. Power was restored in several hours.

The department responded to a call from Golf Carts Co., 50 Cross st., at 1:22 p.m., after a portion of the roof settled breaking a sprinkler pipe.

Engine 2 and Ladder 1 responded to a chimney fire on a Town way at 6 p.m. The smoke damage was traced to a faulty damper.

Sunday, a toboggan accident at the Winchester Country Club occurred at 4:17 p.m. A Burlington man was removed with a back injury to Symmes Hospital.

Two women were brought to Winchester Hospital following a two car collision at the intersection of Harvard and Washington streets on Sunday.

The department spent many hours Saturday and Sunday digging out and marking fire hydrants in the town.

★ DPW staffing

employment was requested by Tonaszuck to provide replacement staffing at the transfer station during times of employee absence.

"I want to have two operators at the transfer station at all times. Right now we are covered, but we're shuffling around men and shifts to do it."

Tonaszuck said the addition of the operator would eliminate possible costly overtime situations.

The board agreed they would like to see a flexible rotational system for DPW employees. Tonaszuck agreed, and said it might be possible to transfer men from one position to another, pending union agreement.

Further discussion on the need for the position will also occur when back up information is available from Tonaszuck and the union.

Tonaszuck also presented a capitol equipment replacement proposal to the board.

Tonaszuck is requesting $126,700 in replacement equipment for this year. The figure represents the cost of equipment after trade-ins of existing equipment.

Not included in the replacement proposal, was an additional request for a $68,000 snowblower to replace the town's 25-year-old snowblower which broke down last winter.

Tonaszuck said the snowblower would cut the cost of renting loaders which are now used to clear large amounts of snow from the streets. The cost of renting loaders is between $50 and $60 per hour. Snow blowers, he added, are faster than loaders for removing snow.

Use of a snowblower may not be needed every winter, Tonaszuck said. But, with the present cost of rental equipment, he felt it would be a worthwhile investment.

Chairwoman Hankins asked whether the department could rent a blower for large snowstorms. Tonaszuck said he knew of no rental companies that provided snowblowers. The purchase of a snowblower is being considered in the town's five year Capital Plan. Other possible large budget expenditures for fiscal 1979 include a new fire engine at $73,000 and plans for a new DPW facility at $50,000.

Many of the equipment replacement proposals which have been submitted for consideration this year have been rated by Tonaszuck as in "poor to awful" condition. These vehicles range from "light weight" pick-up trucks to heavier equipment.

Tonaszuck said further repairs cannot be made on these vehicles.

"Perhaps we should have been more aggressive in trading in vehicles in the past," he said.

★ County budget

Commissioners agreed to keep 8 of 18 counselors employed under a federal matching funds program.

But the Commissioners did not propose to add 12 court officers to the Sheriff's department. The Senate added these positions at the Sheriff's request.

Another way jobs creep into the county budget is unauthorized hiring in periods, such as the last six months, when operating without a budget.

The indigent defenders program is an example. Twenty-two full-time attorneys were hired while waiting for a budget that allowed for only 12.

The Middlesex County Advisory Board (MCAB) was set up by state law to oversee county affairs. The MCAB is required to review the final budget of the Commissioners, hold public hearings, and make recommendations to the Commissioners.

For the fiscal 1978 budget, the MCAB recommended $850,000 in cuts, all of which were rejected by the Commissioners.

The Advisory Board has no power except to make recommendations, which if rejected are filed with the Director of the Bureau of Accounts for implementation in the Legislature.

The MCAB was not aware of any of the additional letters sent to the House Committee on Counties after the Commissioners' original budget proposal was submitted.

The MCAB lacks clout with both the Commissioners and the Legislature, both by statute and by lack of participation by the cities and towns of the county.

Until recently, only mayors of cities and chairmen of Boards of Selectmen could be voting members of the MCAB. The Governor recently signed a bill allowing mayors to appoint designees to the board. Similar Legislation for Selectmen chairmen was not sought.

However, towns can appoint a representative to attend the MCAB meetings, but such designees could not be voting members.

Sen. Rotondi has suggested that all of the operations of county government eventually be turned over to the state or local authorities.

★ Test scores

practically everyone takes it, thereby tending to depress the mean scores in Winchester," he said.

Index numbers compared were for the subjects English composition, math I, math II, biology, American history, chemistry, French, and average achievement. Winchester scored higher in seven and the same in one subject, compared to the CEEB's "Suburban — non-industrial" communities. The index numbers were higher in six and the same in two subjects, compared to Massachusetts as a whole. And compared to the consortium, Winchester ranked higher in four and the same in four. In no subject was Winchester lower than any other comparison group.

Asked how the test results compare with last year's, Gleason said, "I think we're quite visibly better." Board Chairman Robert Frank asked Gleason to come up with figures going back five years or so.

Frank questioned why English composition scores are generally lower than the scores in other subjects.

Gleason admitted that the schools may not be as strong in that area as in others. However, noting that English comp scores are also lower nationally and for the other comparison groups, Gleason said, "Either everybody's weak in it, or the test itself is simply harder."

Describing the results as "encouraging," Frank said he felt the test results "have budget implications. One problem we have is the perception on the part of the public that we don't turn out a very good product. This shows we do."

The school committee was surprised at the high percentage of Winchester students taking the college boards. Gleason explained that, "Traditionally, we have a very, very heavy participation in college boards." He added, "The expectations are heavier in this town than I've seen elsewhere. More kids are looking to college; the aspirations are higher."

Board member Jack Noble contended that the high percentage of students aiming toward college "points to a lack of alternative programs. The high school is designed primarily for one group of kids."

Gleason countered by saying that in designing the curriculum, the administration was reacting to a demand from the community. He pointed to the underenrollment of an accounting II course and the repeated failure of the town to fill its quota at Northeast Regional Technical School in defense of his view.

The assistant superintendent's report also presented results of the Winchester elementary school SAT scores for 1977. Because of Winchester's generally higher average I.Q., comparison of the SAT scores are made against the national scores for higher I.Q. students.

We have been able to determine, "Gleason said, "that the higher level of achievement expected from our students has been met or exceeded in each subject and each of the grades."

Gleason reported steadily increasing results in math computation over the last few years. This has been an area of some concern to both the school department and the parents. In addition, while the reading scores have been above the average, they have not been increasing. The curriculum division is currently reviewing materials in the elementary grades to aid in increasing these relative reading scores.

Jack Noble pointed out that while the level of achievement was at or above expectations, the amount of progress from one grade to the next was in some cases below the expected level of growth, particularly in the sixth grade.

Gleason replied that the numbers "are not absolute, and they tend to vary from year to year." He added: "I don't think it's serious, but I think it's something we could address ourselves to with profit."

The junior high school Standard Achievement Tests also rate well above the national averages, with mathematics showing a slightly higher position than reading. Dr. Gleason feels that the reading scores will improve with the initiation of the reading and writing laboratories at the junior high schools. This has already begun this year in the seventh grade, and will be expanded to grades eight and nine next year.

Gleason was puzzled by some of the results at the junior high level, which, excepting a few subjects, show a drop in the national stanine (or ranking) in the eighth grade.

"I can't figure it out," he said: "I suspect these figures, but I don't know what is wrong." He suggested that if the statistics are not consistent, then the results might be suspect. Overall, the results show junior high students ranking in most cases in the ninth stanine (the top four percent in the nation).

The school department has set up a testing procedure to determine if the standards of the town's own scope and sequence programs for each subject are being met. These tests have been given for only two years now, but have already demonstrated their value.

Math scores at all elementary grades have improved dramatically as a result of curriculum changes made by the math council in response to last year's scores, according to Gleason. English scores in grade 10 advanced much faster than similar national scores, which was attributed to the 10th grade writing lab. Elementary grades social studies scores effected a change in the curriculum to help meet the expected performances in that area. And foreign language scores in junior and senior high schools will be used to evaluate, among other things, the question of maintenance of seventh grade standards due to open enrollment.

Mothers of Twins monthly meeting

The Massachusetts Mothers of Twins Association Inc. Founding Chapter will hold its monthly meeting Monday at 8 p.m. at the Park Avenue Congregational Church, Park Avenue, Arlington.

Discussion will be about the expectation of parents and children in relationship to each other. Question and answer period will follow. Meetings of the Founding Chapter are open to all mothers, grandmothers and legal guardians of twins and multiple births.

Dr. Gleason, Off. McKinley to speak to CSA

Community School Association (CSA) will hold its next meeting, open to the public, Feb. 9, 9:15 at the Washington School. Dr. Walter Gleason is scheduled to give a report on the recent curriculum study and Officer John McKinley will present a safety film.

Director Thomas Tracy of the art department and Director Burton Cowgill of the music department were the final speakers during phase three of C.S.A.'s program, Curriculum: Strengths and Weaknesses.

Both made mention of the talented and dedicated staff active in the Winchester school system and further explained music and art programs available as well as their philosophy and goals. In addition, directors Tracy and Cowgill are involved in the humanities course at twelfth grade which combines English, social studies, art and music.

New deadline

Volpe takes office at Orione Home

Former governor, ambassador to Italy, and Winchester resident John A. Volpe has just assumed the office of chairman of the men's advisory board at the Don Orione Home in East Boston.

Volpe has been associated with the Home since 1949 when the Don Orione Fathers first came to Boston to establish a home for the aged.

Al Longo of Winchester has been named first vice president and Antonio Tambone, also of Winchester, is on the board of directors.

There is a new news deadline for The Star: 3 p.m. on Mondays. All news copy and pictures should be in the office by that time. Classified deadline remains Tuesday at 4 p.m.; display advertising should be in by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Serving The Community For Over 95 Years

Dig it, together

There are not many chances in town to get together in a community endeavor.

There are fires, of course, which always bring out the neighbors, and there are some social events like the Winton Club show and the high school musical.

But for plain, ordinary, helping one another times, there's not much chance. There used to be barn-raising, but we see those on Little House on the Prairie, not on Thornberry road. There were quilting bees, but now the ladies of various church groups are the only ones who do quilts, socially speaking.

So what is there? There's no town day apparently. The loss to Winchester is without words.

We would suggest that snow shoveling is the perfect chance for neighbors to work together for the common good.

The neighbors on a street get together with their snow shovels. Young and old are included in this plan. And dogs too.

You start at one house and everybody works. And sings. And tells awful jokes.

You do the driveway and the front walk and then you move on to the next house.

Before you know it, the street's done. Now, the people who for various medical or other reasons shouldn't heave the snow around also have something to do.

It's hard work, especially when there are several houses to do, and so the non-shovelers prepare cocoa and cookies or coffee or tea. When that shovel is just too heavy to do another load, you all stop for a break prepared by the others.

Maybe by the time the last house emerges from the depths of the new snow, the refreshment-makers could think about hot toddies or mulled cider.

The snow doesn't discriminate. It falls on the three-deckers and the mansions, the cottages and the two-family duplexes.

Our lives sometimes seem to be contained in boxes. The house is a box, the car is a moving box, the office or store is another box.

Come out of your box and help each other. It's fun, it's good for your body and your soul, and, who knows, you might learn that your neighbor has something special to offer you, maybe just a new way of looking at an old problem. ———KLW-F

Expectations too high

And speaking of snow...

There have been numerous complaints from parents that the streets and sidewalks have been unsuitable for the passage of young children going and coming between home and school.

The parents remark that most other towns around here were closed on Monday following the record-breaking storm of the weekend, but that Winchester kept their elementary and secondary schools open.

Director of public works Walter J. Tonaszuck and School Superintendent William C. MacDonald decided, not without some discussion, that the schools would be open. They had a perfectly good reason.

The streets and sidewalks will not be perfectly cleared until sometime next week, Tonaszuck told MacDonald. Schools would have to be closed every day this week if the basis for closing were the condition of the streets and sidewalks.

So they decided to open.

Now, it seems to us that Winchester residents expect a great deal from their DPW. Over many years the town has built up a reputation for clean streets, instantly and without question.

Yes there are small children walking through the center to Lincoln and yes, there are youngsters going on narrow roads to Parkhurst and yes, there is hardly room on the street going to Lynch.

But it would not seem unreasonable for parents to take some of the responsibility in getting their kids to school safely.

On Tuesday morning we saw several mothers walking their youngsters to school. If you are concerned that cars would add to the hazards of children walking, car pool. Or have one parent walk several neighborhood children at a time.

We cannot understand how the people in this town can expect so much so fast.

This was the biggest storm in a century and still the people expect instant clean-up.

We congratulate the DPW on their clean-up. The men have been working around the clock to give you what you ask. We commend the school superintendent on keeping schools open.

It's time the people did their share of the work and took some of the responsibility for their children's safety. ———KLW-F

Letters from readers

Excellent job

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I watch birds out of one window and snowplows out of another. When I woke up early on the morning after the storm, the birds had not yet awakened and the snowplows had all gone to bed. The streets in my neighborhood were all plowed, and plowed well too.

Consequently, I would like to be the first to congratulate the residents, the police, and the snowplow boys on a job well done (the residents for keeping their cars off the streets; the police for seeing to it that they did; and the snowplow boys for taking full advantage of the opportunity thus given them to do an excellent job of clearing away an exceptionally heavy fall of snow.

C.S. Borggaard

P.S. If you don't know what I mean by an excellent job, try to negotiate some of the streets in nearby towns and cities! Boston, for instance, with over 1000 streets unplowed!

Leash law

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I was happy to read about the reward given to Postman Daniel E. Coss for bravery saving a child from the attacks of a vicious dog, but what is being done about the dog? And why are these dogs allowed to roam Winchester to attack our citizens. Who is paying for the medical care to the child and the traumatic anguish to her and her parents?

This article did not discuss the real issue that the town has a 24-hour leash law that is being flagrantly violated every day.

Why should that postman have had to jeopardize his own life when there is an existing law to protect him and the child and everyone in Winchester?

Neglected

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

Sunday afternoon (Jan. 15) I drove to Winchester center. It was cold and wintry. This is to the owners of a spunky, lovable little black "doggie". Possibly a "peek-a-poo".

For quite some time this little innocent was in great danger. Dashing back and forth across the street always checking out the people. He could easily have been crushed by an unsuspecting driver. On Jan. 7 this also took place.

A concerned young man rescued little doggie from the street and brought him into a nearby store. Doggie was cold, wet, shivering, and sand and salt adhered to his fur and paws. We cuddled and warmed our neglected little doggie.

I decided to bring him home to keep safe and warm and left my telephone number at Baskin Robbins.

Little Spunky cooperated until I put him in the car. Before I could get in, little friend made a fast exit. In great haste he ran along the curb, dashed across the street, leaped the snow bank, and raced around the corner of the fabric shop.

This lovable little innocent apparently is a loyal doggie. The license tag was of Winchester and he wore a red collar.

This size doggie is easy to care for. I have a "peek" and use wrapping-type string to secure him to the house door handle. Attach the other end to his collar. After about 5-10 minutes outside he is ready for a few hours indoors. The string is not too heavy and keeps the doggie safe.

If you cannot care for this little darling, why not find a new home for him. This Spunky deserves the best.

Regret decision

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

As a Vinson-Owen parent, I regret the decision of our parents' association not to poll me regarding the suggested school directory.

When I questioned a member of the association about their decision, I was informed that the school administration wished to protect the parents' privacy.

I respect that concern, and yet I note that the parents' association has consistently refused to provide parents a forum for discussion of local school issues. Their guiding philosophy, the board member informed me, is not to get involved in educational areas, as these are best left to the "professionals", the administrators and teachers.

Nevertheless, I, for one, feel there is a need for a parents' group which encourages participation in our local educational process, which examines our school's strengths and weaknesses, and which can suggest improvements, if necessary, in cooperation with the school committee. I resist the idea that parents' questions, comments and criticisms should be limited to biannual report card conferences.

Sanity

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

It was certainly a surprise to me to read in The Star of January 12th the remark attributed to Mr. Jack Noble of the school committee relative to Dr. Gleason's plans to retire in 1981.

It does seem somewhat degrading for a school committee member (particularly one bearing the name of "Noble") to resort to such vulgarity. One might expect him to try to set high standards for the young people he was elected to serve.

I cannot help but wonder why, if Mr. Noble considers the school department a "nuthouse," he does not step down to make room for someone who might be more competent in restoring sanity to our school system.

Town Watch...

Water story not over yet

By The Observer

Winchester's problems with its water system are far from over.

It appears there are some constant sources of contamination in the system — certain places where the water backs up and turns stagnant. In addition, there is natural contamination in the watershed in the Fells.

What this means is that relatively high levels of chlorine will have to be regularly injected into the water supply to kill the bacteria.

That's ok, up to a point. Chlorine is probably the best disinfectant around for cleaning up water supplies. But it has some dangerous properties: for one thing it can chemically react with organic materials to form chloroform, which has in turn been linked to cancer in some studies.

It probably takes a very high level of both organic material and chlorine in the water to produce this effect.

DPW Director Walter Tonaszuck reports that samples of surface water taken from streams in the watershed reveal "extremely high coliform (bacteria) counts coming down" into the reservoirs. "We're checking it out," says Tonaszuck; the DPW is trying to find out under what conditions they get the high counts.

When a second contamination was reported several weeks ago, the amount of chlorine being put into the water was increased to 1.5 parts per million, up from about 1.1 ppm. Tonaszuck says he has been getting fewer complaints about the taste of the water as well.

What about chloroform? The town does not test for it; the state has been testing communities over a period of several years. Says Tonaszuck of the state testing: "We don't know the results; but we have been led to believe that it is within safe limits."

As for the stagnant water in the pipes: that'll have to wait until spring, when the weather will permit the DPW to flush out the system.

A little local talent will get a chance on the tube this week:

Judy Wien, a resident here, will be appearing in a TV special, Wednesday evening Judy plays a marathon runner jogging alongside none other than Joanne Woodward, who plays a 40-year-old school teacher who decides to make a go at the 26-mile Boston Marathon.

Ms. Wien was cast for the role while running around Fresh Pond with her husband Joel. She plays the part of a woman who collapses mid-way through the race from heat exhaustion, which must have been a trick, since the scenes were shot in October. The program, "See How She Runs," will appear on CBS-TV nationwide.

The hearing scheduled for Feb. 2 by the board of appeal on the matter of Winchester House has been postponed.

On the request of the developer Arthur Ullian, the initial hearing will be held March 1 at 7:30 in the meeting room of the library.

The Rotary Club has been very busy this winter — and not just shoveling their sidewalks!

In December the Winchester club hosted a meeting with the Medford group in a spirit of Christmas fellowship.

A group of 165 Rotarians and their guests were entertained by the high school's French singing group, Les Troubadours, under the supervision of Mrs. Eleanor Thistlethwaite. That group, by the way, has been entertaining all over town and in Boston. Tres bien!

For the January meeting, the Rotary Club heard first-hand about the programs and facilities for inmates at the Middlesex House of Correction.

The speaker, Robert Drennan, is completing a six-month sentence and was enthusiastic about Sheriff Buckley's work-release program.

EPA & water

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

I would like to explain the matter of the "EPACitizens' Bulletin" that appeared on a recent Water Purifier ad. Part of this information was direct from an EPACitizens' Bulletin. Another part was from an EPA public release on how the chlorine reacts with nearly any organic material; and the last part was from the most recent study by the EPA on the amount of chloroform found in 133 cities throughout the country. Thirty-five of the 133 cities would violate the proposed EPA standard of 100 P.P.B. of chloroform in their drinking water. The highest amount of chloroform was from water supplies with high vegetation in lakes, then in polluted rivers. This information was in bold print to indicate that it all pertained to the EPA Citizen information. The blend of this information was to bring out the fact that we have this condition in town which is indicated by the taste and odor of the organic matter in the Winchester tap water.

Three years ago when the EPA tested 80 cities and found that all locations had chloroform in their water supply, I visited the EPA office in Boston requesting the Winchester water supply be tested for chloroform and I was told that I would need a letter from the town giving them permission to make the test. I was refused this letter because the State Testing Laboratories in Lawrence would be soon getting the equipment to make this chloroform test. I have been checking and waiting for two and a half years for these tests and their results without success.

My interest in water purification started in 1973 when I had some tests made at the Lawrence Experiment Station on the effectiveness of a Water Purifier I had purchased for my home. During one of the tests on removing organic matter in water, I was told that carbon filtration was now being recommended by the EPA to remove organic compounds in water for they produced cancer in animal experiments. One of the chemists said to me if I rub the skin of these mice with this organic chlorinated hydrocarbons, they would get skin cancer and if it was injected in them, they would get internal cancer. This of course was shocking news and then I realized that this information must have been researched for a long time when two large volumes of carbon treatment books published by the EPA were delivered to the laboratory.

When I tried to get more information and tests made, the door was shut by a high state official with a warning not to alarm the public. The more I looked into the water quality problems the more I found wrong with the system and when I tried to reveal this information to other state officials, I got the same result.

Now I realize that the only way to get this information out in the open is by warning the public of the danger in drinking unfiltered tap water direct from the reservoir with the combination of organic matter and chlorine, which produces the chloroform. This information being presented in ads is intended to inform the public on the water problems in tap water. Informed citizens could then apply some pressure of improving the water quality and to recognize this modern way of purifying tap water.

If the government gives a tax break on insulating a home to save on fuel, why not give a tax break on Home Water Purifiers? Saving lives is much more important than saving heat.

I would not be warning the public needlessly if I didn't feel that the problems are serious and could be easily corrected by home water filtration. My main interest is on the health and welfare of the public who know very little on what comes out of their tap because citizens bulletins never reach the citizens.

Mike Gold, the reporter from the Herald American, must have sensed my intentions when we worked together for the story that appeared on January 17. I am sure he

Religious freedom?

EDITOR OF THE STAR:

This Christmas season in many lands the "voice of mirth and gladness" has ceased. One of these lands is Hungary. Its communist rulers received a boost recently when Billy Graham, after having visited there for a week, declared it a land with freedom of worship, and a proof that Christians can continue their lives in a socialist society. He did not mention that Christians are hounded and persecuted there.

When the Carters "born again" administration returns to the communists, the killers of Christians, the royal crown of Hungary, they will receive another boost. This is the crown where, with Stephen, their first Christian king, was crowned 1000 years ago. He brought the Hungarian people to Christianity.

We Americans are a people so used to the "voice of mirth and gladness" that many of us can pass through lands of desolation without even seeing it, instead of "weeping with those who weep."

While Billy Graham visited Hungary, three Methodist pastors, Lona Vadasczy, Gabor Ivanyi, and Gabor Draskoczy, were charged with "illegal meeting." They risk a minimum punishment of two years imprisonment. On August 28, they had gathered with some of their parishioners on the street and prayed before the entrance to their churches, which had been closed by the communist police. Five other pastors have since been sentenced to prison terms.

These people had tried to speak with Billy Graham during his stay in Hungary. But he had no time for them.

Not since the days of the early Christians of the New Testament times have Christians suffered such cruel persecution for their faith as many thousands are suffering today in communist prisons' concentration and labor "correction" camps and "insane" asylums. There is no freedom of religion in Russia today beyond the liberty to attend a few government licensed churches under secret police approved ministers. Ninety-eight percent of all the churches in Russia are closed today.

School committee notes

Long range plans

The newly-formed task force for the review of long range plans for the school system has held its first couple of meetings, and a prime topic of discussion was the possibility of closing a school as early as September, 1979.

The Parkhurst School was the one fingered for early closing — the school committee and Superintendent William MacDonald have been talking about holding off on school closings until 1980. A subcommittee of the task force will look into the possibility and report back to the entire group.

As the superintendent sees it, the overall charge of the task force is to cost out and analyze three of the long range plans proposed by the Middle School Study Committee and two of the plans submitted by the Concerned Parents Committee; to work out new district lines, transportation implications, and staffing for all schools; to make recommendations for curriculum in the four-year high school and middle school; and to submit a report to the school committee by mid-February.

MacDonald reportedly feels the mid-February deadline is "somewhat ambitious"; nonetheless, the task force will be trying to meet the deadline.

The group has not specifically been directed to come up with a recommendation of its own regarding which plan is preferable; but if one or two plans stand out, the group will probably come out in support of those plans.

Subcommittees have been set up for: cost analysis, redistricting and transportation; preparation and plans for the four-year high school; preparation and plans for the middle school; staffing and curriculum; utilization of buildings that would be excess; and timetable and projections review.

A schedule of meeting dates and subcommittee reports has been set up, and meetings will be held (open to the public) at 12:30 p.m. Feb. 1, 8, and 15. The school committee plans to hold a public hearing March 6.

The task force is made up of representatives of a variety of local organizations, including secondary and elementary school principals, central office personnel, the finance committee, the Community School Association and all of the school parent organizations, a representative from Town Hall, and one member-at-large.

Closings this year?

While the long range planning task force is considering closing Parkhurst in 1979, there are some indications that a move may be made to try to close a school this year.

The call for closings comes because of the dramatic decline in enrollments over the past several years. Enrollments are projected to drop by 356 students for next year, and the numbers indicate the decline will continue.

At the same time, there are pressures on the school committee to cut the budget and realize savings from the decline. The board for its part has repeatedly tried to explain that there are substantial portions of the school budget which are not directly enrollment sensitive. Capital expenditures — for buildings and maintenance, for example — are one such portion of the budget which will not go down much until schools are closed.

The finance committee, however, has remained unconvinced by these arguments. Says FinCom Chairman Alice Mirak: "Enrollment has to permeate every single budget decision in question."

Since the budget is more than likely to increase for next year, it has been suggested that closing a school would effect some savings in a year when the town faces some substantial new costs in other areas, such as employment insurance and an employees' pension fund.

Under all this pressure, the school board has managed to trim down their budget to an increase of between one and two per cent; it may go down even more before town meeting. "I don't think we're prepared to close any schools this year," commented board member Connie Papas. She said she would rather have a long range plan in hand before making any such decision.

Committeeman Dick Holland agrees. "I would rather wait until 1980 when we move to a four-year high school and a single middle school, so we only have to redistrict the kids once." He agrees closing a school early would save money, but cautions, "Considering the disruption, it probably wouldn't be worth it in the long run."

Supt. MacDonald is less unequivocal: "If we could do everything at one time, it would be a lot cleaner. . . But as we study it, if we find the numbers say we have to get rid of some schools, there may be some advantage to closing one school earlier."

Kindergarten

The school committee heard a request from parents Monday night to update and expand the kindergarten program.

Acknowledging the budget constraints under which the school department operates, parent Stephanie Hughes asked the board to consider lengthening the kindergarten sessions and upgrading the curriculum to make it more responsive to the skills children are learning in pre-school years.

The board responded with interest to the proposal, suggesting that an investigation should be made into improving the system. However, they were reluctant to make any commitments for next year's budget.

Mrs. Hughes pointed out that children are more likely than ever before to have been exposed to pre-school education at home, through educational television, and in nursery school programs.

It seems unlikely the board will approve any funds for updating or expanding the program for next year; but the subject will be coming up again—probably when work on the 1979 budget has been completed.

Pupil-teacher ratios

As the budget deadline nears, one proposal approved by the school board last fall appears to be next in line on the chopping block: decreasing pupil-teacher ratios for grades 2 and 3 to 22-to-1.

The plan is one of a few holdouts from a long list of program improvements considered by the board in the fall—before the budget was added up. The projected cost of the proposal is $43,000, and the board has defended it as one way to reinvest funds saved through declining enrollments.

The plan has strong support from the school principals, and it has been discussed repeatedly by the school committee. The prospects for final approval by the board have looked increasingly shaky of late; but at Monday night's meeting, the plan got another shot in the arm, as several principals appeared before the committee to defend it. Supt. MacDonald also confirmed his support of the proposal.

Jack Noble, who said he was persuaded by the principals' arguments, advised the board to hold off on a final decision because two of the five committee members, Catherine Alexander and Heinrich Holland, were not present to vote.

Budget meetings

The school board and the finance committee will have another go-around on the 1979 school budget tonight, starting at 7:30 in the high school cafeteria.

This will be the last chance for the FinCom to have their say until town meeting: the school board plans to vote on a final budget Monday night.

Selectmen's notes

Public Hearings

Selectmen discussed a possible elimination of public hearings on issues that would be duplicated in town meetings.

Chairwoman Barbara Hankins said the hearings are "poorly attended and a lot of work for board members and town administrators."

Board member Edward O'Connell said "the hearings are proven exercises in futility. There is also an expense factor in opening schools and printing costs."

A suggested alternative to the public hearings is the mailing of necessary materials to town meeting members. Hankins said a letter to the Government Regulations Committee will be sent within the week questioning the legality of phasing out public hearings.

Town Forest and West Chardon Road

Stephen Parkhurst of the Town Forest Committee told selectmen the committee's reactions to a proposed cul-de-sac in the plans for laying out West Chardon road. Parkhurst felt the cul-de-sac was not necessary because the area being laid out was small. He did favor a footpath or walkway for public access to the forest. The laying out of West Chardon road will be discussed in a public hearing with the selectmen within a month. Parkhurst's comments echoed those already made by the selectmen about West Chardon road.

Alcoholic Beverage Licenses

Selectmen noted an approval of placing a ballot question on granting alcoholic beverage licenses in town restaurants from the state.

The question, which will appear on the ballot used for the election of town officers, deals with granting no more than three alcoholic beverage licenses to restaurants with a seating capacity of at least 100 persons. The official draft of the question will be presented to the board after a consultation with town counsel.

Bicycle Liaison

The Board of Selectmen approved the Bicycle Study Committee as the official municipal agency to represent Winchester in bikeway planning. The approval was made following a request from the Massachusetts Department of Public Works to grant the responsibilities of bikeway planning to a single agency.

Communications

The board received a letter from Robert Graves, attorney for Bartlett School, requesting formal negotiations for the lease on Bartlett School, Inc.

Glenwood parking

With the concurrence of Frank J. Bacigalupo, owner of Frankie's BP service station, there will be no parking allowed in front of the Main street facility.

Selectmen agreed with Police Chief John P. McHugh that the grade of Glenwood avenue, the lack of visibility, and the absence of curbing, have combined to make "a dangerous and annoying situation" for persons driving onto Main street from Glenwood.

There will be two "No Parking" signs erected: one at Glenwood and the other at the end of the Frankie's BP property line.

In addition, curbing along Main street will be considered as part of the department of public works budget.

Bacigalupo expressed "no objection" and the board thanked him for his cooperation.

Appointments

Town Manager Thomas J. Groux has appointed Florence Karon of 30 South Gateway to the permanent parttime clerical vacancy in the building department, effective Jan. 30.

On the same date, Paul Haggerty Jr. will fill the vacancy of heavy equipment operator in a w-11 grade. Haggerty is a CETA employee in town and has worked in the cemetery department. He is also a call firefighter. Haggerty lives at 251 Swanton st.

BOILING TAP WATER

Boiling water has always been used to kill harmful bacteria and viruses in drinking water. Unless water is boiled for 20 minutes, it may not kill all of the bacteria and allows the viruses to reactivate.

Boiling tap water for a long time can also remove the chlorine and its dangerous by-product - chloroform. When boiling water for only a few minutes as in making coffee or tea, it will double the level of chloroform. One of the drawbacks of boiling water for a long time is that some chemicals become worse and metal pipe corrosion is more concentrated. The pure water is being evaporated leaving higher levels of the impurities behind.

WARNING - Never use hot water from the tap when cooking. Hot water is more corrosive to plumbing than cold water which causes a higher amount of heavy metals to be released into the water.

If you have an instant hot water unit made with a copper tank, it will release high amounts of copper poison. Copper water pipes and water tanks release toxic copper sulfate that will have long term ill effects to health.

Dr. Henry A. Schroeder from Dartmouth Medical College has done 15 years of research on pipe corrosion poison in tap water. Dr. Schroeder claims that this intake of metal pollution is hastening the aging process - increasing high blood pressure - heightening the risk of heart attacks and causing fatigue.

The Government should be informing the Public of the dangers in tap water. Last year they made a big fuss over a harmless decal on a MacDonald glass while most everyone is being poisoned each day by flaking metal pipe corrosion in tap water without the slightest warning.

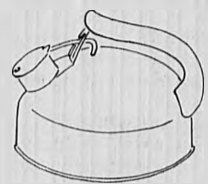

Filtering out toxic chemicals and pipe corrosion with a modern Home Water Purifier is the only way of making tap water safer to drink. Home filtration can restore tap water back to its natural condition.

Art association picture-lending party is Sunday

The final picture lending party of the 1977-1978 season will be held on Sunday from 3-5 p.m. at Boodaklan's Rug Gallery, 1026 Main st., it was announced by Arthur Govoni, president of the Winchester Art Association.

Pictures currently on loan should be returned to the gallery on the preceding Saturday, Jan. 28, between 10 and 11 a.m. Committees for the new season of picture lending are now being formed. Any one interested in working with these groups may sign up at the party.

Members will be able to renew their membership for the new season beginning in May. After March 1 any tickets not sold to old subscribers will be offered to those on the waiting list, and then to the general public.

Any member unable to attend this Sunday may designate a friend to come and make a selection in his stead.

AIM concert auditions are Friday, Saturday

If you can do magic, juggle, perform acrobatic or gymnastic feats, do mime or are a trained dancer, audition to perform in Adventures in Music's April concert.

Featured will be "The Comedians", music by Dmitri Kabalevsky, a story of a traveling troupe of entertainers.

Participants of all ages — junior high, senior high, adults, parents and friends — are welcome to audition to become the nucleus of this itinerant group. Bring a sample of your special talent to Acton High School Auditorium on Friday at 3:30 pm or to Lexington's Clark Junior High Cafeteria on Saturday at 9:30 am. If you wish to audition, but are unable to appear at one of these times, please phone Karen Mahoney in Arlington, 643-3124, before Feb. 1.

McCall student concert tonight

Music will fill the McCall Junior High School auditorium tonight, beginning at 7:45 p.m. as a winter concert will be presented by the McCall Junior High School chorus, band, jazz band, and orchestra.

Many students have been rehearsing under the direction of Ms. Miller (band), Mr. Kontoff (jazz band), Mrs. Thistlethwaite (chorus), and Mr. Woodworth (orchestra). Parents, family, and friends are invited to attend.

Marie Casey, Bruce Brodie wed in November nuptials

Marie Christine Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Casey of Winchester, was married on Nov. 26 to Bruce Barton Brodie, son of Dr. and Mrs. Richard E. Brodie, Westport, Ct.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a beau de soie gown for the evening ceremony at which Rev. James Haddad officiated at Houghton Memorial Chapel at Wellesley College. She carried red roses. The bride's attendants, all sisters, were maid of honor Anne Louise Casey, Rosemary Casey and Bonnie-Jeanne Casey, all of Winchester.

Mr. Brodie was attended by his brother, Scott Evan Brodie of New York, as best man. The bride's brothers serving as ushers were William C., Joseph C., George C., Paul C., and Timothy C., all of Winchester.

The bride, a graduate of Wellesley College, has attended Royal University of Manchester, England. Her husband is a graduate of Yale University and is currently doing graduate work at Columbia University.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Bay Club in Boston. The couple will be at home in New York after a wedding trip to England.

Michael D. Stringer of Winchester has been appointed account supervisor at Giardini-Russell by President Richard L. Warren. In his new position, Stringer's responsibilities will include managing industrial and consumer accounts and acquiring new business. Before his appointment at G-R, Stringer was sales promotion manager for Damon Corporation. He has also worked for other advertising agencies, including Schneider Parker Inc., where he served as an account executive, and Ingalls Associates, Inc., where he was a copywriter.

Benefit for youth hockey

Winchester Youth Hockey and St. Mary's CYO are co-sponsoring a Monte Carlo Night to benefit local hockey programs. It will be held at St. Mary's School Hall March 4 at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available through the Winchester Youth Hockey and St. Mary's Hockey staff. There will be many prizes available for the high rollers and big winners. Refreshments will be served.

Oklahoma! to be spring production at McCall School

Oklahoma!, one of the most popular of all musical comedies, has been chosen as McCall Junior High School's spring production.

Paul Davis, McCall music instructor, is producing the show and is now lining up a production staff. Assisting him is the McCall Parent Association board, with Mrs. Joann Stevens acting as liaison between the school's production staff and the board.

Chairmen for several committees are needed. These include make-up, parent supervision, props, and costumes. Mrs. Stevens urges anyone with an interest in any area of theater production to call 729-0753 for more information.

"Many helping hands are needed," she said, "and it is an exhilarating experience to work on a show like this because of the enthusiasm, energy, and talent of the students."

Bloodmobile February 8th

The next Red Cross Bloodmobile to visit Winchester will be sponsored by the Knights of Columbus on February 8. It will be set up in the new K of C Hall on Mtr. Vernon street, opposite the Town Hall.

Under the leadership of Pat Paladino and Simon Donovan, the Knights are looking forward to establishing a new record. "The location is central, our building is new and attractive, the parking is ample, and most important of all, the need for blood donations is great," said Paladino. "We will welcome all Red Cross blood donors on Wednesday, Feb. 8, from 3 to 8:30."

To sign up in advance a donor should telephone the Red Cross, 729-2300.

Alcohol and drug awareness program at high school

Teenage drinking and drug usage are widespread in many communities today and often are causal factors in automobile accidents, poor performance in school, runaway situations, vandalism and related criminal activity. The alcohol and drug awareness program scheduled for implementation during the week of January 30 is a major effort by the high school to recognize and deal with these vital problems.

This educational program will be geared towards the sophomore class and will focus on two major goals: 1. To provide the sophomores with the basic facts about alcohol and other drugs. 2. To provide the sophomores with opportunities to explore these facts as well as to investigate their own attitudes and feelings about alcohol and drug usage.

Barbara Kleeman, an alcohol education specialist from Mt. Auburn Hospital, Lee Laven of the Mystic Valley Mental Health Clinic, Dr. Donald McLean, well known Winchester pediatrician, and Peggy Sullivan and Thomas Walsh, teachers at Winchester High School, have worked since October with a volunteer group of junior and senior students who will conduct class sessions with the sophomores.

These sessions are being run in cooperation with the social studies department at the high school (the sessions will occur in American Studies I classes) and will offer a variety of opportunities to the sophomores — discussions, role play situations, written work, audio-visual presentations, etc. The classroom sessions will follow a one-day formal introduction of the program that will include a brief talk, a specially selected film and the distribution of pertinent reading material. Appropriate posters, displays and audio-visual materials will be located in the social studies open area during the week for students or adults to experience.

The specially trained teams of juniors and seniors have devoted many hours of their time in preparation for the week's activities and should be highly commended for their efforts. It is their hope that the program will be helpful to sophomores in making wise decisions about alcohol and other drugs. These juniors and seniors are: Maureen Berkley, Mary Budd, Kate Capocce, Mark Carzo, George Casey, Colleen Chandler, MaryAnne DeCarlo, Dottie Dobbins, Chad Doe, Jack Driscoll, Donna Farrell, Steve Ferullo, Therese Florillo, Laura Fitzgerald, and Keven Foley.

Sue Gustin, Amy Harris, Lindsay James, Jane Landry, Charles Larkin, Mark McGoldrick, Lisa Patterson, Sara Puffer, Ed Quinn, Donna Senna, George Surabian, and Diana Wilson.

A letter has been sent to all sophomore parents and students explaining the program. Interested parents should watch for announcements of a special evening program on alcohol and drug awareness that will be provided for parents and faculty during the week of January 30 at the high school.

Learn the Techniques of Fine Cooking

This is a practical series of courses designed for the amateur who cooks for pleasure and satisfaction. It is presented in three parts of five sessions each. You may choose to attend any or all courses. All are held at the Burlington Campus Kitchen.

Classes are held once a week from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. and include lunch. Two sections are available — either on Tuesday or on Thursdays. Course I starts either Tuesday, February 7, 1978, or Thursday, February 9, and continues for five weeks. Courses II and III start March 14 (or March 16) and April 18 (or April 20).

For details, and an outline of the subjects covered in each course and class, call or write Center for Continuing Education 102 Churchill Hall 360 Huntington Avenue Boston, Massachusetts 02115 (617) 437-2408.

Seats available for mid-week's Cabaret shows

"Surprise" is in its final week of rehearsals, despite or because of the weather. Dance routines are being perfected and polished; leading lady Dot Santos is becoming more the Baroness every day, and her husband Dick Santos is alternating between being a hardworking Boston executive and a frantic Prince Pepsi.

The plot of this year's cabaret show centers around a beautiful missing Baroness and the frantic and fun-filled search that Prince Pepsi instigates. This gives the performers an opportunity to skip around various jet spots on the globe depicting the search and rescue team's efforts to recover the beautiful Baroness.

Costumes for "Surprise" are arriving by the van-load when the roads are open, and are being fitted by Mrs. John Culver and her co-chairman Mrs. Prescott Keyes.

This year's traditional Winton Club drill is out of this world, and the special effect costumes could not be found to compliment the set designed by Mrs. Webster Brockelman. So, Mrs. John Sutherland, show chairman, had a sketch made by Jennie Lou Brockelman, and now Dianne Culver has turned her home into a Seventh Avenue establishment. She has taken the sketch, several hundred yards of material, and with the help of a few Winton Club members has produced eye-catching costumes.

Winton Club members are used to stitching a few thousand compress squares, half sheets, or dental sheets; but they are now in the costume business, and reportedly doing very well.

Friday, the day of the big white-out, every activity slowed to a minimum, and Mrs. John Sutherland postponed morning and evening rehearsals for "Surprise", but reminded the cast and musicians that performances are never postponed.

There once was a storm that blew for a Friday and Saturday of show week, but the show went on, even with part of the band stuck in snow drifts and with some of the cast rescued by plows. The audience arrived on time, some on skis, others with snow shoes, and a few in dump trucks.

Therefore, come blizzard, downpour, or a heat wave "Surprise" will be performed beginning with Children's Night this Tuesday right through the last cabaret performance of Feb. 4.

Floor seating is sold out for Friday and Saturday nights, but the remaining balcony seats will be on sale at the door for all cabaret performances. Wednesday and Thursday still have cabaret seating and balcony seating available; for further information call Mrs. Max Goodman at 729-1059.

The Mystic School fifth and sixth grade chorus provided musical offerings for their school Christmas program and for the senior citizens. Shown here are (first row): Jennifer Purcell and Pamela Getson; (second) Andrea Kenerson, Nina Khaurd, Suzanne Milauskas, Cindy Bortman, Jocelyn Hesse, and Tod Wheelodon; (third): Bill Littell, Dennis McCarthy, Jill Matrondola, Michelle Stelow, and Joyce Kohr; (fourth): Diane Intravia, Philip Salmon, Charles Wechsler, and Julie Shaw.

He currently resides with his wife Penny and their two children at 14 Pepperwood Lane, Branford, Conn.

Mental health board meeting is February 1

The Mystic Valley Mental Health and Retardation Area Board will hold its regular monthly meeting Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at Choate Memorial Hospital Cafeteria, 21 Warren Ave., Woburn.

The area board, made up of citizens from each of the six communities in the Mystic Valley Area, including Arlington, Burlington, Lexington, Wilmington, Winchester and Woburn is charged with the responsibility for management and oversight of mental health and mental retardation services provided in the area.

During the course of the meeting reports will be given on the services the Mystic Valley Mental Health Center provides to Woburn residents and the drug services provided to Woburn residents through a Department of Mental Health contract with the Woburn Council of Social Concern. The board will solicit questions and concerns from citizens about mental health and mental retardation services in Woburn and the Mystic Valley Area.

Winchester residents currently serving on the Board, members of which are appointed by the Commissioner of Mental Health, are Mrs. Deborah Cary and Mrs. Katrin Cooper. The board rotates its meeting place among the towns it serve and allots time at each meeting to hear the questions and concerns of citizens.

Divorce is topic of lawyers' meeting

Unitarian nursery open house on 8th

The Unitarian Cooperative Nursery School, will be accepting applications for the 1978-1979 school year at the school's annual open house, Feb. 8, at 8.

Parents of three-and-four-year-olds may fill out applications at that time. Parents of children already enrolled in the school will be on hand to speak with anyone interested in enrolling their child.

The school is non-sectarian. Scholarships are available. Contact Mrs. Pattymac Hewitt for any further information.

Vincent T. Berger Jr.

Couples A Go-Go

In spite of the record-breaking snow storm, 22 bowlers turned out to break some records of their own. The Stutz team took first place away from the Peerless and Hols teams, who were tied for first place.

Bowlers of the evening went to Stefanie Allan, bowling 117 pins over her average and to Chat Watts who bowled 69 pins over his average.

High men's game went to Chat Watts, 186 along with high series, 513. Women's high single went to Angela Pollino, 199.

Improvement in averages after nine evenings of bowling are: Stefanie Allen, five pins; Chat Watts, three pins; Angela Pollino, Mimi Walters, Bob Pawlak, Elliott Walters, Walter Armstrong, Jane Armstrong, two pins each; Whitey Allan and Guy Madera, one pin each. Bob and Joan Harris were hosts after bowling.

Dramatic advances in heart surgery benefit patients

Phyllis Estabrooks
Heart Fund Chairman

During recent decades, dramatic advances have been made in repairing congenital and acquired cardiovascular abnormalities. Surgery has progressed to the point where it is used as a treatment method to repair and replace damaged portions of the heart and blood vessels. Some surgical techniques are occasionally useful in preventing the later development of more serious cardiovascular problems. And surgical procedures are being studied to reduce disability in heart attack victims.

What have been some of the major surgical advances?

Perhaps one of the most significant has been the development of the heart-lung machine, which enables surgeons to operate on and inside the heart while it takes over the functions of heart and lungs. As the machine pumps and oxygenates the blood, the relaxed heart is not only exposed, but also can be opened to correct defects.

A "booster" heart — an implanted auxiliary pump — is being studied which can ease the workload of the patient's heart until it is able to resume its normal functions.

Strides have been made in treating blood vessel diseases, contributing factors to heart attack and stroke. Damaged arteries are replaced by transplanted healthy vessels or flexible synthetic tubing, restoring circulation to major arteries — which supply the brain, kidneys and legs.

Some types of stroke can be anticipated and prevented. Carotid (neck) arteries filling with atherosclerotic deposits can be diagnosed by X-ray. A blocked neck artery can be cleared by surgical removal of the block. Implanted synthetic material can be used to bypass the blocked segment, providing adequate blood supply to the brain.

Electronic pacemakers can maintain regular heart beat for patients suffering from irregular heart rhythms. When necessary, a small power pack implanted under the skin, wired to the heart, provides electrical impulses to control the rhythm and rate of the heart beat.

More than 25,000 babies are born every year with congenital heart defects. If a child is born with a heart defect, he has a better chance today than ever before to overcome this handicap and look forward to normal adult life. Many thousands of lives are saved due to remarkable progress in diagnosis and treatment of congenital heart disease.

After a child has been diagnosed as having a congenital heart defect, further tests may be needed to help the heart specialist and surgeon decide whether an operation is advisable.

The most common defects are holes in the ventricular septum, the dividing wall between the lower chambers of the heart. These holes may also be present in the atrial septum, the wall between the upper chambers. The defect can sometimes be detected at birth because of the unusual murmur the heart makes with each beat. Diagnosis of other defects, however, may require highly elaborate tests.

In most though not all, congenital defects, a heart murmur is present. Many youngsters with healthy hearts also have heart murmurs, which disappear as they mature. The problem is to distinguish between those with organic murmurs and those whose murmurs are not associated with cardiac defects.

The chief causes of death from congenital heart disease are cardiac failure and hypoxia, where the organs and tissues of the body have less than normal oxygen content. Since accurate diagnosis and treatment to correct or relieve congenital malformations are not available, many such deaths can and should be prevented.

To do so requires early recognition that the newborn infant distressed with cyanosis, respiratory difficulty, or failure to thrive may be suffering from congenital heart disease. Immediate referral should be arranged to a cardiac center where complete diagnostic evaluation and medical and surgical treatment can be carried out 24 hours a day.

Saturday, Feb. 11 is Winchester Merchants Health Fund Saturday. We are asking the merchants to please give generously.

Winchester Hospital regional obstetrics center

Only a few seconds old, this newborn baby girl takes her first breath under the watchful eye of Winchester Hospital obstetrician Dr. James McDonough. Winchester is now a regional obstetrical center, drawing patients from the surrounding eight-town area and beyond.

In 1977, 1,604 babies were born at Winchester Hospital, representing a 50 percent increase in the number of deliveries in the past two years. Two-thirds of the births were to residents of an eight-town area—Winchester, Woburn, Wilmington, Reading, Medford, Stoneham, Burlington, and Billerica. The remaining third came from towns outside the local area.

Woburn topped the list of towns with 313 births, Burlington, Billerica, Wilmington, and Reading recorded more than 100 births each. Other couples came from as far away as Lowell and Tewksbury. (see table below)

Winchester Hospital's growth as the regional obstetrical center is due in part to the closing of maternity floors at other hospitals in the area. The most recent took place at Woburn's Choate Memorial in March, 1976. With the resulting higher patient census, Winchester can make more efficient use of its OB facilities.

"The increased emphasis on obstetrical services has attracted experienced nurses and doctors to the hospital," commented Janet Isbell, R.N., obstetrical supervisor. "Sophisticated equipment like the Infant Care Center, which provides centralized treatment for the newborn, is now available for everyday use."

"The hospital offers a family-centered approach to childbirth which appeals to today's parents-to-be," Isbell continued. "Our weekly prepared childbirth classes educate the expectant parents about pregnancy and prepare the couple for the birth experience. Fathers who have taken the course may be present in the delivery room, and we encourage them to participate as coaches during labor and delivery. Our infant — and day-care classes give new parents additional assurance for the responsibilities of parenthood."

"Maternity care reflects the family-centered philosophy, also. The new mother may have her baby with her whenever she wishes, and takes part in as much or as little of her newborn's care as she feels up to."

"The new father may participate in hospital care too," Isbell added. "We don't consider him a visitor, but a member of the family."

ITEMIZE HOUSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

One of the great financial benefits of home ownership versus rental is that you are immediately eligible to deduct a good-sized amount of money from your income tax. As a homeowner, you will generally find it to your advantage to itemize deductions rather than taking the standard deduction.

This is especially true during the earlier years of home ownership. The mortgage interest and real property taxes on your personal residence, when added to other deductible items will usually be well in excess of any standard deduction you could claim. Your home payment may consist of several parts: an amount placed in escrow to pay real estate taxes and fire insurance, FHA mortgage premiums, and an amount applied to reduce the principal of the mortgage. Of these parts, only the interest and taxes are deductible - but that will prove to be a very sizable figure.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at ANN BLACKHAM & CO., 11 Thompson St., Winchester, Phone 729-1663. We're here to help!

Two undefeated wrestlers brighten a dim '78 season

The Sachem wrestlers went out Jan 19 against last year's Middlesex League co-champs Wakefield, still looking for their first dual meet victory. It was not their day, however, as Wakefield walked away with match, winning 42-18. Winchester's lack of depth and inexperience at certain spots made the difference.

Winchester did not have anyone to wrestle in the first two weight classes, 100 and 107 pounds, as they have not all year. So, even before any wrestling had taken place, the Sachems were down 12-0.

In the 114lb. weight division, Winchester's Lenny Rallo fought well in keeping from getting pinned, losing a 16-0 decision.

With the team score now 17-0 in favor of Wakefield, Sean Costello gave Winchester something to cheer about in the 121 weight class. Sean pinned his opponent from Wakefield 44 seconds into the second period. Costello, a senior, is undefeated so far this season with a record of 7-0.

Junior co-captain Rob Romeo then added three more points to the Winchester total with a 5-3 decision at 128. Romeo is also undefeated this year with a record of 5-0.

With the score now 17-9 in favor of Wakefield, sophomore Pete Benson, a JV-wrestler filling the varsity slot at 134 lbs., ran into a Wakefield co-captain and was pinned in the first period.

At 140 lbs., junior Terry Costello earned another 3 points for Winchester with a 6-0 decision.

Don Pigott, a senior at 147 lbs., didn't fare as well though. Don, who weighs only about 140 pounds, was pinned in the second period.

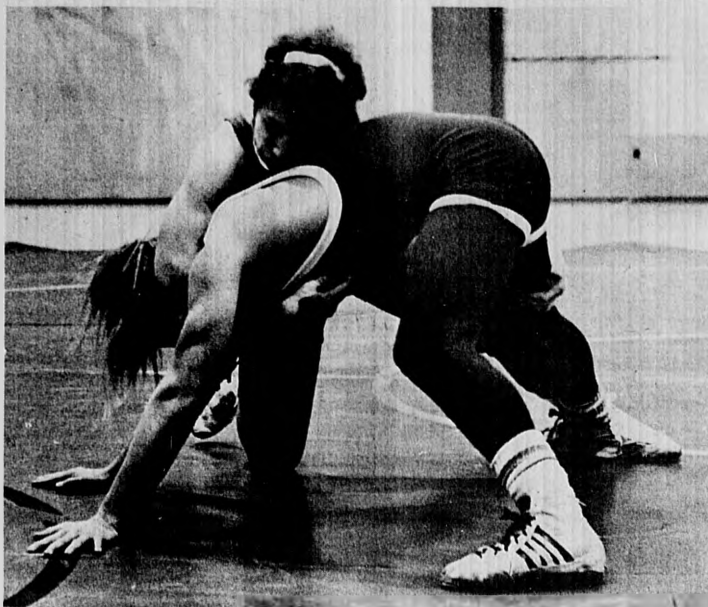

With the teamscore now Wakefield 29 Winchester 12, John "Rhino" Mistretta, took the mat for Winchester at 157 lbs. Wrestling with a fractured thumb, he lost a 9-1 decision.

At 169, sophomore Mike Boeseleers of Winchester was pinned, while another Winchester sophomore, Brad Cowen, lost a 4-0 decision at 187.

At heavyweight, sophomore Lenny Bellino outmuscled and outwrestled his opponent, pinning him in the second period. The final score was Wakefield 42, Winchester 18.

Coach Ted Bentron's wrestlers looked strong in the beginning of the season, dominating Medford in a scrimmage, then tying Weston 30-30 in their first dual meet. The Weston match was especially promising because the Sachems gave away 24 points in forfeits. The season since then has been disappointing as the team dropped their next six matches.

The Sachems latest match was at home against Cambridge Latin-Ridge Tech on Wednesday. On Friday there will be another home match against Belmont, also at 3:30. All home matches are wrestled at the WHS gym.

Sachem grappler John Mistretta puts a grip on opponent in meet against Concord-Carlisle. The team has been hurt by a lack of wrestlers this year, but the season has been brightened by some good individual performances. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

Mills' 25 points leads WHS to win over Watertown, 50-47

By George Parker

The Sachem basketball team edged Watertown last Tuesday, 50-47, as Glenn Mills led the Winchester team to victory with 25 points and 11 rebounds.

Watertown, however, must be credited with playing an excellent game, for they had only seven players available. They managed to hold their own, thanks to their hustle and constant shifts in strategy. This was most apparent in the Raider's defense, for they constantly shifted between the man-to-man and two different types of zone defense, in an attempt to upset the Sachem offense. Fortunately, this was not quite successful: "I was impressed with Mills and Allard, they were very cool, not easily rattled," said Raider coach Sonny Lane.

It was quite evident that Mills and Allard were in control from the outset of the game. Mills ran wild, scoring 10 of the team's 19 points in the first quarter, including the first eight. In the meantime, Allard collected four of his 10 points, and set up many of Mills' baskets. While Mills was running up all these points, Watertown had not given up the ghost, and had scored 12 points, led by four each from Mike Ouellet and Marco Digiovine.

In the second quarter, the Sachems increased their lead by only two more points, as both Winchester and Watertown turned the quarter into a defensive duel. Both teams were affected by the constant shifts in the Watertown defense. Fortunately, this did not upset the Sachems, who just took longer to set up their plays. The Raiders in the meantime were effectively contained by the Sachem zone defense. That both defenses were effective is seen by the number of points scored — Winchester scored nine, Watertown, seven.

Again, Glenn Mills carried the Sachem offense, scoring seven of those nine points. However, five of those points came from foul shots. The other Sachem points came from Jim Kohr's five jump shot to the left of the basket, off a feed from Glenn Mills. This was Jim's first varsity game, for he was brought up to replace a Sachem starter, and he did a "nice job," in the words of Sachem coach Doc Wheeler. The Sachem starter he came up for was Anthony Davis, who was ill. Also on the casualty list was R.J. Brosnan, who, though he was a walking wounded, with a sprained ankle, did see some action, and scored two points.

In the third quarter, both teams played evenly, as the Sachems scored 11, and the Raiders 12 points. However, the Sachems were at a serious disadvantage after both Mills and Allard picked up their fourth fouls. This, of course, necessitated a loosening up of the defense, for these two couldn't afford to pick up another foul, and therefore had to let people by when they usually would have imposed themselves, for fear of drawing a fifth foul.

Despite this, Allard added three more points to his tally, and set up two more baskets. In this quarter, Steve Rooney, Watertown's high scorer, and only scorer in double figures, put in six of his 19 points. The score at the end of the third quarter was Winchester 39, Watertown 31.

The same pace continued in the last quarter, though Watertown out-scored the Sachems 16-11, because Winchester went into a holding pattern at the end to kill the clock. However, the Raiders' managed to break up this four-corner offense enough times to run off six straight points at the end of the game, drawing within three points of Winchester before the buzzer sounded.

Clearly, the Watertown coach had reason to be "happy that they put up a good show," for the Raiders, despite their lack of numbers, were always hustling and were able to remain within striking distance throughout the game. As for the Sachems, they played very well, despite the loss of Davis, and the partial loss of Brosnan, which Doc Wheeler thought was the difference between the game they played and an easy victory.

Watertown's 6-man squad outguns JVs

By George Parker

The Winchester High School JV basketball team suffered a rather humiliating defeat last Wednesday, as they were beaten by the Watertown JV, 59-54. The reason for the humiliation lies in the size of the Watertown squad-six players.

This foreknowledge made the Sachem team extremely confident — too confident. This attitude was soon erased by the playing of the Watertown team, who took advantage of the many Winchester turnovers to outscore the Sachems 12-4 in the first quarter. However, credit should also be given to the referees, who handed out seven fouls to the Sachems, and none to the Raiders!

The hustle and the resultant scoring of the Raiders continued in the second quarter, for they outscored the Sachems 6-2 in the initial part of the quarter. However, the Winchester coach, Bob Ford, then switched the defense to man-to-man, and instilled some hustle in the Sachems, so that they outscored the Red Raiders 5-4 in the remaining part of the period, to make the score at the half 14-24. Again, the officials had a part in the Watertown effectiveness, for the Raiders gained eight of their second quarter points from free throws.

The second half, fortunately, was almost the opposite of the first for the Sachems, as they poured in 40 points. Unfortunately, the officiating remained the same, so that Winchester ended up with 36 fouls, compared to the 17 that were called on Watertown. Another thing that remained constant was Watertown's control of their defensive boards, which greatly aided them early in the game. This control was a major factor in the number of points they scored, for the Sachems took more shots, and created the opportunity for more rebounds. This led to more Watertown points — 5 of them — a sufficient number to ensure their victory, despite a furious Sachem comeback.

The Watertown scoring was dominated by Zareh Orchinian, who had a game-high of 19 points. He was followed by Eridio Natale, with 16 points, and Kenny Barringer, who put in 11. For Winchester, the leading scorer was John Shattuck, who racked up 13. He was followed by "Benny" Brosnan, with 11, and Randy Pearl, who scored eight points.

Thus, it was another Sachem JV defeat, though they "should have won it," according to coach Bob Ford, "they just weren't prepared mentally."

They almost made it, but pucksters drop another one

By Linda Pierce

The Winchester High School hockey team played a very exciting game Wednesday night against Woburn at Woburn. In this game they combined all their talents and almost had their first win.

Woburn really put the pressure on Sachem goalie Vozzella but were unable to put the puck by him until ten minutes into the period when Dave DeDenato slipped the puck under Vozzella's pads. This ended the first period 1-0.

The second period started off well for the Sachems. Dan Murphy, Bubba Sanford and Jack Collins passed the puck around in the Woburn zone until Jack Collins had an open shot on goal. Woburn, however, was not ready to give up a game to the Sachems again this year and proved this when Rick Johnson was able to put the puck into the top left hand corner and Vozzella was unable to stop it. The Sachems put heavy pressure on the Woburn goalie, but the defensemen were able to clear the puck out of their zone. When Woburn did this they applied a lot of pressure on Winchester. Bob Coppins, while trying to pass the puck up to his forward line from the corner, was checked and pulled down hard. It looks as though he may be out for the rest of the season with a separated shoulder.

While Winchester was trying to adjust to the loss of their defenseman, Tanner puckster Peter Driscoll scored another goal. This ended the second period with the score 3-1 Woburn.

The Tanners came onto the ice in the third period and scored a quick goal. It was Dave DeDenato's second goal of the night. This made the score 4-1 and many fans started leaving figuring Woburn would blow Winchester off the ice. The Sachems were not ready to give up. Jack Collins dug the puck out of the corner passed it to Bubba Sanford and Sanford, not open for a shot, passed it to Peter Mahoney who flicked it into the net.

Five minutes later Jack Collins received a pass from Bubba Sanford and skated by a Woburn player, faked the goalie out of position and flipped the puck into the top right hand corner of the net. This made the score 4-3 and Woburn was getting nervous.

With one minute left Winchester was trying to pull Vozzella so they could place an extra offensive player on the ice to try to tie up the game. But, they found it impossible to do so because Woburn was able to keep the puck out of their own zone. With 38 seconds left to go Woburn's Brian McGurty scored the fifth Woburn goal to end the game 5-3.

Winchester started their second round Saturday at U.S.A. rink by playing first place Burlington for the second time. In this game it was noticeable that the Sachems have been improving with every game. In the first Burlington game the Sachems lost 7-0. This one they lost, but by a score of 5-1.

Burlington scored three goals in the first period and people were beginning to think that this was going to be another one of those games, but Winchester held Burlington to only two more goals. Winchester scored their lone goal during the third period. Jack Collins out-manuevered two Burlington players and shot a backhander into the top of the net.

James McGoldrick

James P. McGoldrick, 52, of 15 Cabot st., died Friday at Winchester Hospital.

A life-long resident of Winchester, he was the president of James P. McGoldrick Inc. for 10 years, and the vice president of the Robertson Paper Co. in Bellows Falls, Vt. for 27 years.

McGoldrick was a member of the Winchester Country Club, the Winchester Knight's of Columbus, and the Small Business Associations of New England. He was active in the little league in Winchester and served as an usher at St. Mary's Church.

He was the husband of the late Jeanne S. (Sheeran) McGoldrick.

He is survived by five children, James P. Jr., Robert S., Mark J., Jeffrey G., and Moira J., all of Winchester; his mother, Mrs. John McGoldrick of Medford; a brother, John McGoldrick Jr. of Somerville; and a sister, Mrs. Joseph (Emily) Danizio of Medford.

A funeral mass was held in St. Mary's Church Tuesday. Burial followed in Wildwood Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the charity of your choice.

Lottie A. Stevenson

Lottie A. Stevenson, 87, of 99 Hemingway st., died Jan. 18, in Big Fork Mont.

Mrs. Stevenson had been a resident of Winchester for more than 50 years. She was the wife of the late Frederick C. Stevenson.

She is survived by four children, Frederick C. Stevenson Jr., of Pelham, N.H.; James H. Stevenson of Big Fork, Mont.; George W. Stevenson, a member of the Ipswich Police Department, and Mrs. Bernard J. Gaffney of Stillwater, Minn.; a niece, Mrs. Alice Donovan of Saugus; and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday at the Lane Memorial Funeral Home with the Rev. Howard Krueger of the First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in the family plot in Wildwood Cemetery.

John F. Reardon

John F. Reardon, 67, of 10 Westley st., died Thursday at Winchester Hospital.

Reardon, a retired police officer, had been with the Winchester Police Department for 34 years.

He was a member of the Winchester Police Relief Association, the Winchester Knight's of Columbus, and the American Post Veterans of Foreign Wars. He had served with the U.S. army during World War II in the European Theater.

A life long resident of Winchester, Reardon leaves his wife, Eunice M. (Munson) Reardon.

He is also survived by two sons, John F. Reardon Jr., and Owen O. Reardon; a brother, D. Irving Reardon of Winchester; and three sisters, Mrs. Madeline Sullivan of Cambridge and Mrs. Mildred McLaughlin and Winifred Reardon, both of Winchester.

A funeral mass was held Monday in St. Mary's Church. Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery, Medford. Donations in his memory may be made to the Walter E. Fernald School, 200 Trapelo Rd., P.O. Box 158, Belmont, 02178.

Helen S. Herrick

Helen S. Herrick of 6 Ainsworth rd. died Jan. 20 at the age of 83. Mrs. Herrick had lived in Winchester for 48 years.

The wife of Frank C. Herrick, she received her education at Wyoming Junior College in Kingston, Pa. Mrs. Herrick was a member of the Winchester Home and Garden Club and Crawford Memorial Methodist Church.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Herrick leaves Mrs. Gene (Ellen) Bridges of Salem, Mrs. Gloria Mize of Santa Barbara, and Mrs. Martha Carleton of Center Harbor, N.H.

A memorial service for Mrs. Herrick will be announced at a later date. Donations in her memory may be made to the Crawford Memorial Methodist Church. Burial followed in Wildwood Cemetery.

Donations in his memory may be made to the Winchester Scholarship Foundation, in care of Robert G. Ingraham Jr., 18 Ardley Place.

James H. Sullivan

A funeral mass was said yesterday morning at St. Mary's Church for James Henry Sullivan, 3 Myrtle st., who died Monday at the Winchester Nursing Home after a long illness.

A native of Charlestown, Mr. 80, had lived with his sister-in-law for more than 35 years on Myrtle street. He was a laborer with the B&M Railroad for 42 years, retiring in 1970.

He was a member of the St. Mary's Holy Name Society. Surviving him are Mrs. Robert (Mae) Driscoll of Newton Lower Falls, Mrs. John (Mary) Sullivan of Winchester, and several nieces and nephews.

Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery. The arrangements were by the R.J. Costello Funeral Home.

B.J. 'Jack' Pollard

A private funeral service was held Jan. 18 at the Crawford Memorial United Methodist Church for Blondell Jesse (Jack) Pollard, formerly of Winchester, who died Jan. 15 at Mass. General Hospital after a short illness.

Mr. Pollard spent most of his life in the construction field and home improvements.

He leaves his wife, Barbara, of Woburn; his mother, Hazel Sullivan of Shreveport, La.; two daughters, Mrs. Caroline Mogauro and Mrs. Penelope Lindsey, both of Woburn; and six grandchildren.

Chester B. Gooding

Funeral services were held Monday for Chester B. Gooding, 76, of 78 Sargent rd., who died Friday at his home.

He was the husband of E. Viola (Carlson) Gooding. Gooding had been employed as a salesman by the American Blank Book Company for 15 years. He had also worked for the M.T. Bird Stationary Co. in Boston and in the engraving department of Shreve, Crump, & Low in Boston.

Gooding was a Winchester resident for 17 years. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Florence G. Clarke and Mrs. Ruth G. Cook of East Longmeadow, a brother, Charles Gooding of West Brook, Me.; five grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Donations in his memory may be made to the charity of your choice.
